Clinical Guide to Music Therapy in Adult Physical Rehabilitation Settings Elizabeth H. Wong, 2004 Anyone s first job out of college can be overwhelming at best especially when entering a setting as structured and challenging as an adult rehabilitation facility Target outcomes with this population fall under the two general categories of improving functional skills and facilitating psychosocial adjustment and emotional coping while receiving treatment The tasks of emotional coping and the role these skills play in the treatment process are often overlooked by case managers and social workers who focus on more concrete functional skill sets Music therapists have the unique opportunity to address both of these areas through a medium that is familiar and comforting to everyone music This book presents tools and information designed to arm the entry level music therapist or an experienced MT BC new to rehabilitation settings with basic knowledge and materials to develop or work in a music therapy program treating people with stroke brain injury and those who are ventilator dependent The author offers goals and treatment suggestions designed to encompass all of the vital target outcomes thus assisting music therapists to address the needs of the whole person Examples of goals techniques and approaches can also be modified for use with pediatric populations This book facilitates the process of entering a new setting and allows music therapists to easily manage through the adjustment period or working in an unfamiliar setting

The Oxford Handbook of Rehabilitation Psychology Paul Kennedy, 2012-06-15

Rehabilitation psychology is one of the fastest growing fields in applied psychology and involves the application of psychological knowledge and skills to the understanding and treatment of individuals with physical disabilities. Rehabilitation psychologists aim to optimize outcomes in terms of health independence and daily functioning while also minimizing secondary health problems. The Oxford Handbook of Rehabilitation Psychology provides background and overview of the associated psychological processes and types of interventions that are critical in managing the consequences of disability and chronic disease. Psychological models and research have much to contribute to those working with the physical disabilities; this volume has a broad cognitive behavioral focus within the general banner of the biopsychosocial framework. The editor has successfully brought together contributions from a range of well established and experienced researchers and practitioners from a wide variety of clinical and academic contexts. They highlight the critical psychological aspects, review applied interventions and consider the wider conceptual, clinical and professional themes associated with disability and society.
