A Spanish Anthology Jeremiah Denis Matthias Ford, 1901 Cultures of Anyone Luis Moreno Caballud, 2015 This book focuses on the rise of sharing and collaboration practices among peers in Spanish digital cultures and social movements in the wake of Spain's financial meltdown of 2008 Wide Sargasso Sea Jean Rhys, 1992 A considerable tour de force by any standard New York Times Book Review Conversations with Durito Marcos (subcomandante.), 2005 We are all Zapatistas Subcomandante Marcos This book began in 1994 when Zapatista Subcomandante Marcos replied to a 10 year old girl from Mexico City who had sent him a drawing The ensuing collection of related tales about the warrior beetle narrated by his pipe smoking black ski masked human squire is an extraordinary account for the general reader of current global political struggle Marcos created a humorous fictitious character Don Durito a beetle with Quixotic fantasies which regards Marcos as his Sancho Panza In this book Marcos creates a new political genre so called postdata ironical commentaries which he affixes to his formal communiqués or declarations In one of them he even offers to perform a striptease for government negotiators We are the product of 500 years of struggle They Mexican government don't care that we have nothing absolutely nothing not even a roof over our heads no land no work no health care no food no education nor is there peace nor justice for ourselves and our children But today we say ENOUGH IS ENOUGH First EZLN declaration of war December 31st 1993 The Zapatistas are not Marxist Rightists or Anarchists They seek not to replace one infrastructure of power with another thus rejecting the normal goal of an armed struggle They are armed but do not use violence as a tool to expand their aims Although a localized rebellion the Zapatistas are unified in a worldwide struggle that transcends the mainstream media's limited perspective through eloquent dictations distributed globally via the Internet With a fresh perspective and tactics that have never been seen in relation to an armed insurrection the EZLN Zapatista National Liberation Army has changed the definition of what revolution means From the marginalized confines of the poorest region in Mexico a new concept of revolutionary change with a new solution to societies woes is currently being proposed A Neotropical Companion John C. exclusively from different examples of Latin American literatures and cultures in globalized contexts this volume provides innovative insights into critical readings of World Literature and its related conceptualizations A timely book that embraces highly innovative perspectives it will be a mustread for all scholars involved in the field of the global dimensions of literature

Visigothic Kingdom Pacha PANZRAM,2020-12-23 How did the breakdown of Roman rule in the Iberian Peninsula eventually result in the formation of a Visigothic kingdom with authority centralised in Toledo This collection of essays challenges the view that local powers were straightforwardly subjugated to the expanding central power of the monarchy Rather than interpret countervailing events as mere delays in this inevitable process the contributors to this book interrogate where these events came from which causes can be uncovered and how much influence individual actors had in this process What emerges is a story of contested interests seeking cooperation through institutions and social practices that were flexible enough to stabilise a system that was hierarchical yet mutually beneficial for multiple social groups By examining the Visigothic settlement the interplay between central and local power the use of ethnic identity projections of authority and the role of the Church this book articulates a model for understanding the formation of a large and important early medieval kingdom

Complex Lexical Units Barbara Schlücker,2019-01-14 Both compounds and multi word expressions are complex lexical units made up of at least two constituents The most basic difference is that the former are morphological objects and the latter result from syntactic processes However the exact demarcation between compounds and multi word expressions differs greatly from language to language and is often a matter of debate in and across languages Similarly debated is whether and how these two different kinds of units complement or compete with each other The volume presents an overview of compounds and multi word expressions in a variety of European languages Central questions that are discussed for each language concern the formal distinction between compounds and multi word expressions their formation and their status in lexicon and grammar The volume contains chapters on German English Dutch French Italian Spanish Greek Russian Polish Finnish and Hungarian as well as a contrastive overview with a focus on German It brings together insights from word formation theory phraseology and theory of grammar and aims to contribute to the understanding of the lexicon both from a language specific and cross linguistic perspective project works through the eTwinning portal in order to bring our children's dream worlds together with children from different cultures and distant countries. When we made the announcement with the title of A Day in Another Planet we received numerous offers from many schools. We selected our partner schools carefully to provide a colorful project with students from different cultures and languages. With the support of participating schools from Portugal, Serbia, Italy, North Macedonia, Poland, and Spain, our students met with each other many times by online meetings, apps with the organisation of Ali Tekinsoy Secondary School in Turkey. We begin to dream by saying Dreams become real when dreamed together and hundreds of children from seven countries shared the same dream with us. We eventually built a shining sky where 77 short stories in 7 languages spread their light. The numbers are just numbers; the important thing is the glow it provides us. We met with creative teachers and students from different countries; we spent days and nights to create a literal work. Our students wrote short stories, drew pictures, introduced their countries, exhibited their works, used different Web 2.0 tools, prepared games, and sang songs together. Participants from distant countries became closer through these works. We felt the excitement and happiness of our children when we looked into their eyes; how different and exciting it was for our students to talk, communicate, and share their feelings and works with the peers from different countries. In this process, besides the experience of our students in English language proficiency, they also went on an intercultural journey. When you turn pages of this book, I'm sure you will find unique stories that show dream worlds built by the students from seven different languages and cultures. Most of authors can't have the distinct honor of translation; their stories into different languages. So we had the chance to meet the great authors whose first short stories were translated into two foreign languages at the beginning of their journey to create new worlds that would change our world. While we were designing this project, what I was most curious about was to compare dream worlds of students studying in Turkey with the students from other European countries and observe the impact of different educational and cultural background on imagination, creativity, and originality. When you began to journey by holding this unique work in your hands, I'm sure our children's dream worlds will immerse you too, and will feel their feelings inside you. Firstly, I'd like to thank the teachers of Ali Tekinsoy Secondary School and my distinguished colleagues from partner schools because of their great efforts to create this work named Stories of Lights in the Sky, whose theme is space adventures in 7 languages, and to the students who provide great contribution to our book from all over Europe.
