Dialectical Approaches to Studying Personal Relationships Barbara M. Montgomery, Leslie A. Baxter, 2013-09-13 This book describes many different and useful ways of understanding personal relationships from a dialectical perspective It is written for scholars in higher education both faculty and students across many fields within the social sciences and the humanities who seek answers to questions about how people relate to one another The book is valuable for all scholars who pursue new ideas because it models a form of scholarly communication in which multiple voices can be acknowledged as valid the worth of one perspective is not measured by the denigration of another and difference is celebrated as conducive to learning rather than threatening to it The contributors emphasize the characteristics of their dialectical view that set them apart from other dialectical authors and describe their methods of studying relationships from a dialectical perspective Following the Bakhtinian perspective they honor the values of dialogism by respecting different and sometimes contradictory views assuming that these views can be valid and joining in a discussion with the editors and other contributors about their emerging work They also acknowledge that the chapters in this text are part of an ongoing process to frame and reframe emerging ideas and allow the dialogue that occurs within this frame the freedom to express creative unique ideas

Handbook of Personal Relationships Steve Duck, 1988-05-25 Here is the first comprehensive volume in a field that has grown exponentially in the last ten years The handbook is organized across disciplines to reflect the nature of the field and has a broad range of appeal to a variety of teachers and researchers

honor the values of dialogism by respecting different and sometimes contradictory views assuming that these views can be valid and joining in a discussion with the editors and other contributors about their emerging work They also acknowledge that the chapters in this text are part of an ongoing process to frame and reframe emerging ideas and allow the dialogue that occurs within this frame the freedom to express creative unique ideas Relating Leslie A. Baxter, Barbara M. Montgomery, 1996-05-17 Drawing upon the dialogism of social theorist Mikhail Bakhtin the authors re conceive the core ideas of interpersonal communication relationship development closeness certainty openness communication competence and the boundaries between self relationship and society Voicing Relationships Leslie A. Baxter, 2010-01-19 One of the field's most respected scholars advances a dialogic perspective on communication in personal and familial relationships presenting the next iteration of relational dialectics theory RDT This is an excellent book and moves one of the major theories in the social sciences forward in very innovative ways Indeed this book extends beyond RDT by addressing limitations in the family interpersonal and personal relationships literature I believe this book will prompt many discussions among theorists and researchers in those areas and has the potential to provide exciting new directions in the study of relationships Glen H Stamp Ball State University Leslie A Baxter is offering up something here that is desperately needed and fills a big hole for those who adopt RDT as their theoretical framework I found the conceptual content of the book to be clear compelling and provoking The chapter on contrapuntal analysis is the only one of its kind Melissa Wood Alem n James Madison University Voicing Relationships presents a dialogic perspective on relating inspired by the dialogism work of the Russian theorist of literature and culture Mikhail Bakhtin Written by Leslie A Baxter one of the theory's originators this groundbreaking book presents the next iteration of the theory along with a methodological primer for contrapuntal analysis that includes guiding readers through a sample analysis Developing a rich palette of dialogic concepts useful in the study of interpersonal communication the book's central argument is that meaning making emerges from the clash of competing systems of meaning or discourses Relationship communication is embedded in culture history difference and conceptions of the ideal In addition the book gives us a method by which to study communication dialogically contrapuntal analysis Key Features Centers communication at the heart of relationships with an interdisciplinary focus on communication from fields such as psychology social work and sociology Offers an up to date distillation of two decades of relevant research to organize major findings and issues Moves scholars and students beyond simplistic uses of relational dialectics or using the dialectical pairs in overly simplistic cookie cutter ways Provides scholars and students with guidance in using RDT to guide their own research Intended Audience Voicing Relationships is ideal for use in a wide range of courses such as Interpersonal Communication Family Studies Couples Marriage and Family and Counseling The Contemporary American Family Teresa Chandler Sabourin, 2003-04-07 I find the book extremely attractive The dialectical perspective provides a consistent avenue from which to address the diversity structural cultural developmental and functional in Contemporary American Families

Whereas this perspective does not claim to solve the tensions in families it offers marvelous insights into the nature and changing diversities in families I believe this text is particularly well suited for reasonable discussion of serious issues and provides valuable insights into the nature of families and their functioning Vince Bloom California State University Fresno Teresa Chandler Sabourin invites students to appreciate the mystery complexity and diversity of the contemporary American family Resisting simplistic descriptions and normative descriptions Sabourin challenges us to open our minds and hearts to the rich humane variety of family connections as we search for ways to accommodate the competing demands and conflicting pressures experienced in our most cherished relationships Starting from the source of her own experience Sabourin addresses both the darker abusive side of family relationships as well as the lighter spiritual side of intimacy and love The Contemporary American Family successfully addresses the need for an accessible and teachable treatment of the dialectical perspective on close relationships This is a book that will encourage students of family communication to respect diversity question taken for granted assumptions and share the pain and joy and of their own family experiences Art Bochner University of South Florida Increasingly diverse in structure and culture contemporary families defy explanation by many traditional linear methods In order to understand the enormous impact that diversity has on the behaviors and relationships within the family scholars and students need a means to embrace rather than solve relational contradictions The Contemporary American Family A Dialectical Perspective on Communication and Relationships recognizes that families are both close and distant stable and changing amenable and uncontrollable Teresa Chandler Sabourin employs a dialectical approach acknowledging that a family's contradictions and relational tensions may be the determining factor in its interaction Writing in a direct and simple style Sabourin uses this innovative theoretical position to address four types of family diversity structural cultural developmental and functional Sure to stimulate discussion and further research this provocative volume examines The dialectic process in the context of family communication and relationships The redefined more inclusive American family Contemporary family structures Cultural diversity in the family Issues such as alcoholism domestic violence and divorce Spirituality within the family Designed as a supplemental text for upper level undergraduate and graduate courses in Family Communication The Contemporary American Family is also an invaluable resource for students in Family Studies and Women's Studies courses

Critical Ecologies Andrew Biro, 2011-01-01 Environmental movements are the subject of increasingly rigorous political theoretical study Can the Frankfurt School's critical frameworks be used to address ecological issues or do environmental conflicts remain part of the failed promise of this group Critical Ecologies aims to redeem the theories of major Frankfurt thinkers Theodor Adorno Max Horkheimer and Herbert Marcuse among others by applying them to contemporary environmental crises Critical Ecologies argues that sustainability and critical social theory have many similar goals including resistance to different forms of domination Like the Frankfurt School itself the essays in this volume reflect a spirit of interdisciplinarity and draw attention to intersections between environmental socio political and philosophical issues Offering textual analyses by leading scholars in both critical theory and environmental politics Critical Ecologies underscores the continued relevance of the Frankfurt School s ideas for addressing contemporary issues     Relating Through Technology Jeffrey A. Hall,2020-07-16 This book offers a balanced evidence based account of the role of mobile and social media in personal relationships     Social Context and Relationships Steve Duck,1993-08-17 with Graham Allan Irwin Altman Leslie A Baxter Niall Bolger Barbara B Brown Joseph Ginat Shannon Kelleher Renate Klein Robert M Milardo Catherine H Stein Carol M Werner Julia T Wood Social Context and Relationships moves beyond exploring the personal factors involved in relationships and reveals the impact of outside forces culture society values economics and more on the conduct of relationships Confronting practical realities this compelling volume focuses on how such issues as limited opportunity restraints on freedom compulsions of coercive family norms responsibilities poverty bigotry gender physical separation and limited geographic mobility influence personal relationships Because the contributors successfully argue for the redirection of research from the over application of an individual perspective to the inclusion of contextual features students and scholars in social psychology communication studies family studies sociology and gender studies will discover much of value in this fascinating volume     Organizing for Social Change Michael J Papa,Arvind Singhal,Wendy H Papa,2006 Conventionally analysts of social change perceive organizational initiatives in binary terms projects are seen as being either top down or bottom up local culture is seen as being either modern or traditional Challenging this restrictive dualism this important book argues that social change emerges in a nonlinear circuitous and dialectic process of struggle In support of their approach the authors identify four dialectic tensions as being central to the process of organizing for social change control and emancipation oppression and empowerment dissemination and dialogue and fragmentation and unity argue for a dialectic approach which acknowledges that contradictory tensions can and do co exist for example a project can control beneficiaries with tough conditionalities even as it emancipates them and draw upon cases set in various contexts social justice academic corporate artistic and others from both developing and developed countries     Relational Transitions Richard L. Conville,1991-10-30 Conville solves the problem of how to think about the process of communication in personal relationships by moving beyond stage models of relational development and proposing a new model that depicts a four phase structure of transition between relational stages The Relational Transitions perspective offers both a conceptual and a methodological alternative to current work in relationship development Though its focus is only a part of the human communication field its principles can be applied to other communication contexts successfully     Resolving Impasses in Therapeutic Relationships Sue Nathanson Elkind,1992-09-04 This book focuses on problematic situations in therapy mpasses wounding and ruptures Based on the author s extensive clinical experience with therapists and patients in impasses as well as her survey questionnaire of other therapists Elkind views impasses wounding and ruptures as unavoidable pivotal events in therapeutic relationships She offers numerous vignettes of
