Religion And Conservation:

Faith in Conservation Martin Palmer, Victoria Finlay, 2003-01-01 This book arising from over twenty years experience of working with the world's major faiths draws extensively upon joint World Bank and ARC Alliance of Religion and Conservation WWF World Wildlife Fund for Nature projects world wide It shows through stories land management myths investment policies legends advocacy and celebration the role the major faiths have do and can play in making the world a better place The major faiths are the oldest institutions in the world and have survived essentially because they are constantly evolving and changing There is much to be learnt by newer institutions such as the World Bank and the multitudes of NGOs about how to remain true to what you believe but change and grow as you develop The book explores issues of climate change forestry asset management education and biodiversity protection and does so using the techniques of the great faiths storytelling example and celebration It reveals a variety of world views and it asks us to see that our personal view may be just one amongst many The challenge of living with integrity in a pluralist world underlies the book and it offers models of how diversity is crucial in attempting to ensure we have a sustainable world Religion and Conservation ,1999

Contributed essays released on the occasion of the National Consultation on Religion and Conservation at New Delhi on 21 April 1999 Ecology and Religion John Grim, Mary Evelyn Tucker, 2014-01-02 From the Psalms in the Bible to the sacred rivers in Hinduism the natural world has been integral to the world's religions John Grim and Mary Evelyn Tucker contend that today's growing environmental challenges make the relationship ever more vital This primer explores the history of religious traditions and the environment illustrating how religious teachings and practices both promoted and at times subverted sustainability Subsequent chapters examine the emergence of religious ecology as views of nature changed in religious traditions and the ecological sciences Yet the authors argue that religion and ecology are not the province of institutions or disciplines alone They describe four fundamental aspects of religious life orienting grounding nurturing and transforming Readers then see how these phenomena are experienced in a Native American religion Orthodox Christianity Confucianism and Hinduism Ultimately Grim and Tucker argue that the engagement of religious communities is necessary if humanity is to sustain itself and the planet Students of environmental ethics theology and ecology world religions and environmental studies will receive a solid grounding in the burgeoning field of religious ecology Faiths in Green Lukas Szrot, 2021-05-03 Faiths in Green examines how the relationship between religious upbringing affiliation disaffiliation and environmental concern in the United States has changed over time Public opinion data combined with historical insights show how and why religious groups have constructively responded to environmental change across generations Religion and Sustainability Lucas F. Johnston, 2014-10-20 Sustainability is now key to international and national policy manufacture and consumption It is also central to many individuals who try to lead environmentally ethical lives Historically religion has been a significant part of many visions of sustainability Pragmatically the inclusion of religious values in conservation and development efforts has facilitated relationships between people with different value structures. Despite this little attention has been paid to the interdependence of sustainability and religion and no significant comparisons of religious and secular sustainability advocacy. Religion and Sustainability presents the first broad analysis of the spiritual dimensions of sustainability oriented social movements. Exploring the similarities and differences between the conceptions of sustainability held by religious interfaith and secular organizations, the book analyses how religious practice and discourse have impacted on political ideology and process.

Religion and Nature Conservation Radhika Borde, Alison A Ormsby, Stephen M Awoyemi, Andrew G Gosler, 2022-10-31
This book presents a broad array of global case studies exploring the interaction between religion and the conservation of nature from the viewpoints of the religious practitioners themselves. With conservation and religion often being championed as allies in the quest for a sustainable world where humans and nature flourish, this book provides a much needed compendium of detailed examples where religion and conservation science have been brought together. Case studies cover a variety of religions, faiths and practices including traditional Indigenous Buddhism, Christianity, Hinduism, Islam, Jainism, Judaism, Shinto and Zoroastrianism. Importantly, this volume gives voice to the religious practitioners and adherents themselves. Beyond an exercise in anthropology, ethnobiology and comparative religion, the book is an applied work seeking the answer to how, in a world of nearly eight billion people, we might help our own species to prevent the extinction of life. This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of nature conservation, environment and religion, cultural geography and ethnobiology, as well as practitioners and professionals working in conservation.

Managing the Environmental Crisis in Ghana Kwasi Nyamekye, 2014-11-19
Due to the strong inroads that Western scientism and Western Christianity have made in Africa as a result of colonialism, post colonial African governments have tended to rely solely on Western scientific conservation epistemologies and models to the neglect of those of the Indigenous African peoples in addressing their environmental problems. However, there is enough evidence that neither modern scientific nor indigenous epistemologies and modes of addressing current ecological problems are

Religion in Museums Gretchen Buggeln, Crispin Paine, S. Brent Plate, 2017-02-23
Bringing together scholars and practitioners from North America, Europe, Russia and Australia, this pioneering volume provides a global survey of how museums address religion and charts a course for future research and interpretation. Contributors from a variety of disciplines and institutions explore the work of museums from many perspectives including cultural studies, religious studies and visual and material culture. Most museums throughout the world, whether art, archaeology, anthropology or history museums, include religious objects and an increasing number are beginning to address religion as a major category of human identity With rising museum attendance and the increasingly complex role of religion in social and geopolitical realities this work of stewardship and interpretation is urgent and important Religion in Museums is divided into six sections museum buildings reception objects collecting and research interpretation of objects and exhibitions and the representation of religion in different types of museums Topics covered include repatriation conservation architectural design exhibition heritage missionary collections curation collections and display and the visitor's experience Case studies provide comprehensive coverage and range from museums devoted specifically to the diversity of religious traditions such as the State Museum of the History of Religion in St Petersburg to exhibitions centered on religion at secular museums such as Hajj Journey to the Heart of Islam at the British Museum

introduction overview and in depth account of these exciting new developments The four volumes cover virtually every aspect of the field from theological change and institutional commitment to innovation in liturgy from new ecumenical connections among different religions and between religion science and environmental movements from religious participation in environmental politics to an account of the global social and political contexts in which religious environmentalism has unfolded

Shinto, Nature and Ideology in Contemporary Japan Aike P. Rots, 2017-09-07 Shinto Nature and Ideology in Contemporary Japan is the first systematic study of Shinto's environmental turn The book traces the development in recent decades of the idea of Shinto as an ancient nature religion and a resource for overcoming environmental problems The volume shows how these ideas gradually achieved popularity among scientists priests Shinto related new religious movements and eventually the conservative shrine establishment Aike P Rots argues that central to this development is the notion of chinju no mori the sacred groves surrounding many Shinto shrines Although initially used to refer to remaining areas of primary or secondary forest today the term has come to be extended to any sort of shrine land signifying not only historical and ecological continuity but also abstract values such as community spirit patriotism and traditional culture The book shows how Shinto's environmental turn has also provided legitimacy internationally influenced by the global discourse on religion and ecology in recent years the Shinto establishment has actively engaged with international organizations devoted to the conservation of sacred sites Shinto sacred forests thus carry significance locally as well as nationally and internationally and figure prominently in attempts to reposition Shinto in the centre of public space

Cultural and Spiritual Significance of Nature in Protected Areas Bas Verschuuren, Steve Brown, 2018-08-15 Cultural and spiritual bonds with nature are among the strongest motivators for nature conservation yet they are seldom taken into account in the governance and management of protected and conserved areas The starting point of this book is that to be sustainable effective and equitable approaches to the management and governance of these areas need to engage with people's deeply held cultural spiritual personal and community values alongside inspiring action to conserve biological geological and cultural diversity Since protected area management and governance have traditionally been based on scientific research a combination of science and spirituality can engage and empower a variety of stakeholders from different cultural and religious backgrounds As evidenced in this volume stakeholders range from indigenous peoples and local communities to those following mainstream religions and those representing the wider public The authors argue that the scope of protected area management and governance needs to be extended to acknowledge the rights responsibilities obligations and aspirations of stakeholder groups and to recognise the cultural and spiritual significance that nature holds for people The book also has direct practical applications These follow the IUCN Best Practice Guidelines for protected and conserved area managers and present a wide range of case studies from around the world including Africa Asia Australia Europe and the Americas
