Regional Land Cover Changes Sustainable Agriculture And Their Interaction With Global Change:

Regional Land Cover Changes, Sustainable Agriculture and Their Interactions with Global Change Veena Ravichandran, 1999 This book captures the stimulating deliberations of the Costed Workshop on Regional Land Cover Changes Sustainable Agriculture And Their Impacts On Global Change held at Chennai during December 16-19 1996. The papers presented cover wide ranging issues relating to the sustainable use of natural resources institutional arrangements for land use policy global change concerns in the region brought about by unsustainable agriculture systems and land use practices etc. Land Cover Change and Its Eco-environmental Responses in Nepal Ainong Li, Wei

Deng, Wei Zhao, 2017-08-22 This book offers a systematic investigation of the ecological and environmental issues related to the land cover changes in Nepal by researchers from both China and Nepal. It discusses the eco-environmental issues faced by Nepal particularly in the hills and mountain regions. It also sheds light on the global concerns regarding the eco-environmental issues of mountains and analyzes the various causes and potential consequences of eco-environmental degradation in Nepal. The book is of particular interest to students, researchers, experts and decision makers wanting to gain a general overview of land cover in Nepal and its dynamics, environment and natural resources as well as mountain hazards.

World Agriculture: Towards 2015/2030 Jelle Bruinsma, 2017-09-25 This report is FAO's latest assessment of the long-term outlook for the world's food supplies, nutrition and agriculture. It presents the projections and the main messages. The projections cover supply and demand for the major agricultural commodities and sectors including fisheries and forestry. This analysis forms the basis for a more detailed examination of other factors such as nutrition and undernourishment and the implications for international trade. The report also investigates the implications of future supply and demand for the natural resource base and discusses how technology can contribute to more sustainable development. One of the report's main findings is that if no corrective action is taken, the target set by the World Food Summit in 1996 that of halving the number of undernourished people by 2015 is not going to be met. Nothing short of a massive effort at improving the overall development performance will free the developing world of its most pressing food insecurity problems. The progress made towards this target depends on many factors, not least of which are political will and the mobilization of additional resources. Past experience underlines the crucial role of agriculture in the development process, particularly where the majority of the population still depends on this sector for employment and income. Conservation Agriculture in Subsistence Farming

Catherine Chan, Jean Fantle-Lepczyk, 2015-06-16 Conservation agriculture systems have long-term impacts on livelihoods, agricultural production, gender equity and regional economic development of tribal societies in South Asia. This book presents South Asia as a case study due to the high soil erosion caused by monsoon rainfall and geophysical conditions in the region which necessitate conservation agriculture approaches and the high percentage of people in South Asia relying on subsistence and traditional farming. The book takes an interdisciplinary approach to analyse systems at scales ranging from

Indigenous and Local Water Knowledge, Values and Practices Mrittika Basu,Rajarshi DasGupta,2023-03-01 This book provides a knowledge base of the existing indigenous and local water knowledge values and practices and how this water knowledge can be mainstreamed into the decision making process The book not only demonstrates the perks of using indigenous knowledge but also illustrates the barriers and gaps that should be considered while planning for mainstreaming traditional knowledge and values at a local scale. The chapters incorporate case studies from various parts of the world demonstrating how indigenous and religious and cultural values of water have translated into water use and conservation behavior among indigenous people ensuring resource sustainability over a long period of time. There has been global attention towards combining indigenous and local knowledge with new information and innovation to attain future water security. In this regard, this book is timely relevant and significant as it is the first attempt as per the best of our knowledge to publish a book that solely addresses indigenous and local knowledge values and practices regarding water management, quality monitoring, use, and conservation. With increasing emphasis on the inclusion of indigenous and local knowledge into natural resource governance and conservation by international agencies like the Intergovernmental Science Policy Platform on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services (IPBES), the proposed book will significantly contribute to the existing knowledge base and demonstrate the importance of mainstreaming indigenous water knowledge and practices into water governance and decision making. The UN SDGs recognizing the significance of indigenous knowledge systems emphasized its inclusion in most aspects and principles of SDGs. Apart from direct links with SDGs like zero hunger (SDG 2), no poverty (SDG 1), and climate action (SDG 13), indigenous and local knowledge systems are considered to be directly connected to clean water and sanitation (SDG 6). The book will be useful to researchers and students in the field of indigenous knowledge and education, water governance, community level planning, and water sustainability. The book can be referred to for postgraduate courses and beyond as well as policymakers, conservationists, non-governmental organizations, development practitioners, and local government officials.
