Congress, 2001 The United States, India and the Global Nuclear Order Tanvi Pate, 2018-06-13 In the Post Cold War era US nuclear foreign policies towards India witnessed a major turnaround as a demand for cap reduce eliminate under the Clinton administration was replaced by the implementation of the historic civil nuclear deal in 2008 by Bush a policy which continued under Obama s administration This book addresses the change in US nuclear foreign policy by focusing on three core categories of identity inequality and great power narratives Building upon the theoretical paradigm of critical constructivism the concept of the state is problematised by focusing on identity related questions arguing that the state becomes a constructed entity standing as valid only within relations of identity and difference Focusing on postcolonial principles Pate argues that imperialism as an organising principle of identity difference enables us to understand how difference was maintained in unequal terms through US nuclear foreign policy This manifested in five great power narratives constructed around peace and justice India Pakistan deterrence democracy economic progress and scientific development

Identities of race political economy and gender in terms of radical otherness and otherness were recurrently utilised through these narratives to maintain a difference enabling the respective administrations to maintain US identity as a progressive and developed western nation intrinsically justifying the US role as an arbiter of the global nuclear order A useful work for scholars researching identity construction and US foreign and security policies US India bilateral nuclear relations South Asian nuclear politics critical security and postcolonial studies

Sense of Cyber Capabilities for Small States Francis C. Domingo,2022-03-28 Domingo explores the potential of cyber capabilities for small states in the Asia Pacific the most active region for cyber conflict He develops a systematic explanation for why Brunei New Zealand and Singapore have developed or are developing cyber capabilities Studies on cyber conflict and strategy have substantially increased in the past decade but most have focused on the cyber operations of powerful states This book moves away from the prominence of powerful states and explores the potential of cyber capabilities for small states in the Asia Pacific the most active region for cyber conflict It develops a systematic explanation of why Brunei New Zealand and Singapore have developed or are developing cyber capabilities despite its obscure strategic value The book argues that the distribution of power in the region and a technology oriented strategic culture are two necessary conditions that influence the development of cyber capabilities in small states Following this argument the book draws on neoclassical realism as a theoretical framework to account for the interaction between these two conditions The book also pursues three secondary objectives First it aims to determine the constraints and incentives that affect the utilization of cyber capabilities as foreign policy instruments Second the book evaluates the functionality of these cyber capabilities for small states Lastly it assesses the implications of employing cyber capabilities as foreign policy tools of small states This book will be an invaluable resource for academics and security analysts working on cyber conflict military strategy small states and International Relations in general

Handbook of Asian Criminology Jianhong Liu, Bill Heberton, Susyan Jou, 2012-12-09 The Handbook of Asian Criminology aims to be a key reference for international scholars with an interest in the broad theme of international criminology in general and the Asian region in particular. Contextualization is a key theme in this book. The role of context is often underemphasized in international criminology so the Handbook of Asian Criminology's premise that crime and the responses to it are best understood as deeply embedded in the cultural specificity of the environment which produces them will play a key role throughout the work. Attention will be given to country and region specific attitudes towards crime and punishment.
