The Impact of European Integration on Regional Structural Change and Cohesion, Innovation Drivers and Regional Innovation Strategies M. Davide Parrilli, Rune Dahl Fitjar, Andrés Rodriguez-Pose, 2016-02-05 In the global economy regional development and innovation are increasingly an imperative to increase the competitive edge of EU economies While European regions are different in many ways the innovation capacity of regions clusters and firms is what makes them capable of building up new and diversified pathways for sustainable growth For this reason Innovation Drivers and Regional Innovation Strategies looks to analyze different knowledge drivers e.g. entrepreneurial or policy orientation scientific and practice based knowledge modes institutional innovation support that influence the innovative and competitive capacity of regions clusters and firms in Europe The aim of this volume is to develop an in depth understanding of these drivers and their implications for the way in which regional and cluster growth may be upgraded Innovation Drivers and Regional Innovation Strategies examines the construction of new innovation pathways for regions and clusters in different geographical contexts The main themes are cluster evolution regional innovation systems and business innovation modes and capabilities The objectives are centred on exploring the logic and mechanisms that can be activated as a means to promote innovation and competitiveness within regions and within these across and within firms Aimed at researchers and academics in the field this is a thoughtful and innovative new volume that helps define the academic debate

Industries without Smokestacks Richard Newfarmer, John Page, Finn Tarp, 2018-10-25 By 2030 more than three quarters of the world's absolute poor are projected to live in Africa Accelerating economic growth is key to rising incomes on the continent and central to this challenge is establishing activities that are capable of employing large numbers of unskilled workers that can raise productivity through innovation and that can power growth through exports Such structural transformation is a key driver of growth and between 1950-1996 about half of the economic catch up by developing countries led by East Asia was due to rising productivity in manufacturing combined with growing agricultural output Africa however has lagged behind In 2014 the average share of manufacturing in GDP in sub-Saharan Africa hovered around 10 per cent unchanged from the 1970s leading some observers to be pessimistic about Africa's potential to catch the wave of sustained rapid growth and rising incomes Industries Without Smokestacks Industrialization in Africa Reconsidered challenges this view It argues that other activities sharing the characteristics of manufacturing including tourism ICT and other services as well as food processing and horticulture are beginning to play a role analogous to that played by manufacturing in East Asia This reflects not only changes in the global organization of industries since the early era of rapid East Asian growth but also advantages unique to Africa These industries without smokestacks offer new opportunities for Africa to grow in coming decades      Growth and Structural Transformation Kwang Suk Kim, Michael

Roemer, 2020-03-17 This study provides a comprehensive overview of Korea's macroeconomic growth and structural change since World War II and traces some of the roots of development to the colonial period The authors explore in detail colonial development changing national income patterns relative price shifts sources of aggregate growth and sources of sectoral structural change comparing them with other countries      Dynamics and Conflict in Regional Structural Change

M. van den Bergh, Marco Janssen, 2004 Studies that integrate scientific technological and economic dimensions of industrial ecology and material flows The use of economic modeling techniques in industrial ecology research provides distinct advantages over the customary approach which focuses on the physical description of material flows The thirteen chapters of Economics of Industrial Ecology integrate the natural science and technological dimensions of industrial ecology with a rigorous economic approach and by doing so contribute to the advancement of this emerging field Using a variety of modeling techniques including econometric partial and general equilibrium and input output models and applying them to a wide range of materials economic sectors and countries these studies analyze the driving forces behind material flows and structural changes in order to offer guidance for economically and socially feasible policy solutions After a survey of concepts and relevant research that provides a useful background for the chapters that follow the book presents historical analyses of structural change from statistical and decomposition approaches a range of models that predict structural change on the national and regional scale under different policy scenarios two models that can be used to analyze waste management and recycling operations and adopting the perspective of local scale an analysis of the dynamics of eco industrial parks in Denmark and the Netherlands The book concludes with a discussion of the policy implications of an economic approach to industrial ecology      Beyond Territory Harald

Bathelt, Maryann Feldman, Dieter F. Kogler, 2012-03-29 The main purpose of the book is to discuss new trends in the dynamic geography of innovation and argue that in an era of increasing globalization two trends seem quite dominant rigid territorial models of innovation and localized configurations of innovative activities The book brings together scholars who are working on these topics Rather than focusing on established concepts and theories the book aims to question narrow explanations rigid territorializations and simplistic policy frameworks it provides evidence that innovation while not exclusively dependent on regional contexts can be influenced by place specific attributes The book will bring together new empirical and conceptual work by an interdisciplinary group of leading scholars from areas such as economic geography innovation studies and political science Based on recent discussions surrounding innovation systems of different types it aims to synthesize state of the art know how and provide new perspectives on the role of innovation and knowledge creation in the global political economy
