Regionalism Across the North-South Divide Jean Grugel, Wil Hout, 1999 This book examines the trend towards regionalism in the contemporary world order Until quite recently studies of regionalism tended to focus on developments in the industrialized areas and or on the so called Third World However the term Third World has ceased to have much analytical significance and scholars have moved on to examining instead the political economy of an increasingly interconnected global order As one leading scholar of international political economy has phrased it a main source of academic uncertainty and confusion has been the collapse of the Third World coalition of less The New Politics of Regionalism Ulf Engel, Heidrun Zinecker, Frank Mattheis, Antje Dietze, Thomas Plötze, 2016-10-04 This edited volume approaches regionalism as one potential pattern in a changing global order Since the end of the Cold War different forms of territorialization have emerged and we are confronted with an increasing number and variety of actors that are establishing regional projects This volume offers an innovative contribution to the study of this new complexity by exploring constellations of regional actors spatial scales and imaginations beyond state centred perspectives as well as on multiple often overlapping levels The chapters analyse the emergence trajectories and outcomes of regionalisms from the perspective of the Global South specifically concentrating on regional projects in Latin America and Africa but also in the Asia Pacific They attempt to identify the specific conditions and junctures of different forms of region making in their external global and internal local national dimensions The volume also places special emphasis on interactions spatial entanglements and comparisons between regionalisms in different parts of the world By expanding beyond the perspective of North South transfers this book seeks to better understand the dynamics and diversity of interregional interactions This volume will appeal to scholars of global studies international political economy international relations human geography and development studies as well as area studies specialists who focus on Latin America and Africa North-South Regional Trade Agreements as Legal Regimes Clair Gammage, 2017-05-26 This book offers a critical reflection of the North South regional trade agreements RTAs known as the Economic Partnership Agreements negotiated between the EU and the African Caribbean and Pacific countries Conceiving of regions as legal regimes Clair Gammage highlights the challenges facing developing countries when negotiating RTAs with developed countries and interrogates the assumption that these agreements will and can promote sustainable development through trade The Political Economy of Regionalism F. Söderbaum, 2004-10-29 The Political Economy of Regionalism The Case of Southern Africa challenges prevailing wisdom showing how ruling political elites and big business join forces with certain external actors in order to promote market integration and economic globalization boost regimes and to satisfy group specific and even personal interests Only rarely do these forms of regionalism contribute to the poor and disadvantaged who instead opt out and survive through informal economic regionalisms or seek to create regionalisms rooted in civil society

Rethinking Regionalism Fredrik Söderbaum, 2017-10-25 Since the late 1980s there has been a global upsurge of various forms of regionalist projects The widening and deepening of the European Union EU is the most prominent example but there has also been a revitalization or expansion of many other regionalist projects as well such as the African Union AU the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN the North American Free Trade Agreement NAFTA and the Southern Common Market Mercosur More or less every government in the world is engaged in regionalism which also involves a rich variety of business and civil society actors resulting in a multitude of regional processes in most fields of contemporary politics In this new text Fredrik Söderbaum draws on decades of scholarship to provide a major reassessment of regionalism and to address questions about its origins logic and consequences By examining regionalism from historical spatial comparative and global perspectives Rethinking Regionalism transcends the deep intellectual and disciplinary rivalries that have limited our knowledge about the subject This broad ranging approach enables new and challenging answers to emerge as to why and how regionalism evolves and consolidates how it can be compared and what its ongoing significance is for a host of issues within global politics from security and trade to development and the environment Retaining a balanced and authoritative style throughout this text will be welcomed for its uniquely comprehensive examination of regionalism in the contemporary global age
