Hohmann, Rene Peter, 2013-10-16 In the face of continuing challenges of urban decline an increasing local policy activism can be observed in a number of European countries. The implementation of area based initiatives ABIs for deprived urban areas such as The New Deal for Communities in England and the Social City Programme in Germany are examples of these New Localism s. ABIs can be seen as test beds for new forms of urban governance seeking to foster an active participation of residents and the Voluntary Sector. Based upon a comparative research in two cities Bristol in England and Duisburg in Germany this book is the first to cross nationally compare the impacts of ABIs in two deprived urban areas in England and Germany. It evaluates the impacts of these New Localism s on organisations and development actors at the neighbourhood level. Using a rich data set and applying a hands on methodology it applies a mixed method approach to help the reader with a wider spectrum of illustrations and is aimed at those studying and working in the field of urban regeneration and planning.
