Contests and Contexts John Walsh, 2010 Despite being Ireland's national and first official language Irish is marginalised and threatened as a community language The dominant discourse has long dismissed the Irish language as irrelevant or even an obstacle to Ireland's progress This book critiques that discourse and contends that the promotion of Irish and sustainable socio economic development are not mutually exclusive aims The author surveys historical and contemporary sources particularly those used by the Irish historian J J Lee and argues that the Irish language contributes positively to socio economic development He grounds this argument in theoretical perspectives from sociolinguistics political economy and development theory and suggests a new theoretical framework for understanding the relationship between language and development The link between the Irish language and Ireland's socio economic development is examined in a number of case studies both within the traditional Irish speaking Gaeltacht communities and in urban areas Following the spectacular collapse of the Irish economy in 2008 this critical challenge to the dominant discourse on development is a timely and thought provoking study

New Managerialism in Education Kathleen Lynch, Bernie Grummell, D. Devine, 2012-06-07 This book examines the impact of neo liberal reform on the traditional caring ethos of public services such as education exploring how these reforms influence the appointment and experiences of senior management across the education sector

Curriculum in Context Jim Gleeson, 2010 This critical analysis locates Irish curriculum policy and practice in their broader socio cultural and policy contexts Such an analysis is particularly necessary at a time when Irish schools are experiencing unprecedented waves of curriculum reform in a context where substantive curriculum debates rarely occur The book explores the implications of these contextual factors for official understandings of and attitudes towards curriculum with particular reference to the experiences of the curriculum development agencies recent curriculum reforms and the nature of Irish curriculum contestation and discourse Education and curriculum policy making

are considered from the perspectives of economic growth social inclusion policy fragmentation and the prevailing representational model of partnership The study identifies the tensions that inevitably arise in attempting to achieve both quality and equality in education and offers some alternatives to the prevailing contractual model of accountability The author draws on his own long experience of curriculum development and evaluation and on interviews with key players in Irish curriculum decision making
