A Human Error Approach to Aviation Accident Analysis Douglas A. Wiegmann, Scott A. Shappell, 2017-12-22 Human error is implicated in nearly all aviation accidents yet most investigation and prevention programs are not designed around any theoretical framework of human error. Appropriate for all levels of expertise, the book provides the knowledge and tools required to conduct a human error analysis of accidents regardless of operational setting i.e. military, commercial or general aviation. The book contains a complete description of the Human Factors Analysis and Classification System (HFACS) which incorporates James Reason's model of latent and active failures as a foundation. Widely disseminated among military and civilian organizations, HFACS encompasses all aspects of human error including the conditions of operators and elements of supervisory and organizational failure. It attracts a very broad readership. Specifically, the book serves as the main textbook for a course in aviation accident investigation taught by one of the authors at the University of Illinois. This book will also be used in courses designed for military safety officers and flight surgeons in the U.S. Navy, Army and the Canadian Defense Force who currently utilize the HFACS system during aviation accident investigations. Additionally, the book has been incorporated into the popular workshop on accident analysis and prevention provided by the authors at several professional conferences world wide. The book is also targeted for students attending Embry Riddle Aeronautical University which has satellite campuses throughout the world and offers a course in human factors accident investigation for many of its majors. In addition, the book will be incorporated into courses offered by Transportation Safety International and the Southern California Safety Institute. Finally, this book serves as an excellent reference guide for many safety professionals and investigators already in the field.

Ecology Michael Begon, Colin R. Townsend, 2020-11-11

A definitive guide to the depth and breadth of the ecological sciences, revised and updated. The revised and updated fifth edition of Ecology: From Individuals to Ecosystems now in full colour offers students and practitioners a review of the ecological sciences. The previous editions of this book earned the authors the prestigious Exceptional Life-time Achievement Award of the British Ecological Society. The aim for the fifth edition is not only to maintain standards but indeed to enhance its coverage of Ecology. In the first edition 34 years ago it seemed acceptable for ecologists to hold a comfortable objective not to say aloof position from which the ecological communities around us were simply material for which we sought a scientific understanding. Now we must accept the immediacy of the many environmental problems that threaten us and the responsibility of ecologists to play their full part in addressing these problems. This fifth edition addresses this challenge with several chapters devoted entirely to applied topics and examples of how ecological principles have been applied to problems facing us highlighted throughout the remaining nineteen chapters. Nonetheless, the authors remain wedded to the belief that environmental action can only ever be as sound as the ecological principles on which it is based. Hence while trying harder than ever to help improve preparedness for addressing the environmental problems of the years ahead the book remains in its essence an exposition of the science of ecology This new edition incorporates the results from more than a thousand recent studies into a fully up to date text Written for students of ecology researchers and practitioners the fifth edition of Ecology From Individuals to Ecosystems is an essential reference to all aspects of ecology and addresses environmental problems of the future
