Maupabant Miroir De La Nouvelle:

Maupassant's Fiction and the Darwinian View of Life Laurence A. Gregorio, 2005 The Naturalists wrote from a scientific point of view and no science had more currency in society in the late nineteenth century than Darwin's theory of evolution Until now this motif in Guy de Maupassant has escaped critical attention Maupassant's Fiction and the Darwinian View of Life examines evolutionary theory in the literature in a way accessible to students of literature and science alike It first explains the theoretical basis and Maupassant's affinity for it then studies one short story La Ficelle in its entirety proposing a new and interesting interpretation based on evidence read through a Darwinian lens The remaining chapters organize a lively Darwinian reading of Maupassant according to topics such as natural selection heredity and materialism The book shows that Darwinism and the economic variety of Social Darwinism figure significantly in Maupassant's fiction It is a must for students and teachers of Naturalism and Darwinism across the liberal arts

The Feminine as Fantastic in the Conte Fantastique Amy J. Ransom, 1995 The fantastic genre holds a privileged position in literary and feminist studies because of its open exploration of the limits of mimetic creation and its attempts to represent alterity both feminine and supernatural This study traces its development as a product of the dramatically changing cultural context of nineteenth century France Examining post-revolutionary concerns about questions of gender and identity this work observes the increasingly disruptive force of the feminine fantastic upon the masculine subject author as symptomatic of a crisis underlying dominant attitudes toward material progress which culminated in the death of the representational in the early twentieth century

Feminizing the Fetish Emily Apter, 2018-03-15 Shoes gloves umbrellas cigars that are not just objects the topic of fetishism seems both bizarre and inevitable In this venturesome and provocative book Emily Apter offers a fresh account of the complex relationship between representation and sexual obsession in turn of the century French culture Analyzing works by authors in the naturalist and realist traditions as well as making use of documents from a contemporary medical archive she considers fetishism as a cultural artifact and as a subgenre of realist fiction Apter traces the web of connections among fin de siècle representations of perversion the fiction of pathology and the literary case history She explores in particular the theme of female fetishism in the context of the feminine own or the diagnoses of psychological illness offered by doctors in Maupassant's tales all blur the lines between scientific description and beliefs in the magical. Building upon a wealth of critical studies devoted to the fantastic and upon Freud's theory of the unconscious Jutta Fortin proposes that many classic stories of the fantastic undermine basic psychological mechanisms that are designed to help their users cope with shocking or disturbing events. By defining five of these defence mechanisms and analyzing stories by eight writers that both illustrate and subvert such mechanisms Dr Fortin offers reasons why fantastic stories appealed to those readers who wished to better understand human motivations. Medical Examinations Mary Donaldson-Evans, 2000-01-01 From the crude battlefield surgery of Revolutionary times to the birth of modern clinical medicine the nineteenth century witnessed impressive developments in the medical sciences and a concomitant growth in the prestige of the medical practitioner. In France this phenomenon had important implications for literature as writers scrambled to give legitimacy to their enterprise by allying themselves with science. Overflowing its traditional banks medical discourse inundated the field of French literature particularly in the realist and naturalist movements. The literati's enthrallment with medicine and their subservient adoption of a medical model in the creation of their plots and characters have not previously been seriously questioned. In Medical Examinations Mary Donaldson Evans corrects this oversight. Exploring six novels and two short stories published during the Second Empire and the early Third Republic she argues that there was a growing resistance to medicine's linguistic and professional hegemony, a resistance fraught with ideological implications. Tainted by a subtle and sometimes not so subtle anti-Semitism some of the fiction of this period adopts counterdiscursive strategies to tar the physician with his own brush. Featured authors include Gustave Flaubert, Edmond and Jules Goncourt, Emile Zola, Joris Karl Huysmans, Guy de Maupassant and Alphonse and Leon Daudet.

Le Grand Transit Moderne Larry Duffy, 2005-01-01 This book explores fictional responses to the changing transport and urban infrastructure of nineteenth century France, arguing that networks of movement and an accompanying culture of networks which had become firmly established by the time of the Second Empire constitute a privileged subject for representation and that naturalist fiction in particular is that representation's privileged form. Contextualizing the study's critical focus by way of a brief historical outline of the development of infrastructural networks in nineteenth century France and a delineation of the problematical parameters of French naturalism Duffy examines literary representations of new forms and conceptualisations of movement principally in works by Flaubert, Zola and Maupassant. Other authors discussed include the Goncourt brothers, Huysmans, Baudelaire and Claretie. Literary texts are examined alongside a range of related scientific, sociological and medical texts. What emerges strikingly from consideration of these works and the discourses they often subversively incorporate is that movement central to nineteenth century industrial society's view of itself is frequently perceived and presented self-deludingly in the idealised metaphorical terms of smoothly functioning systems of perpetual motion and that naturalist fiction by exploiting to their full potential the same metaphors in its narratives challenges this anti entropic vision Coiffures Carol de Dobay Rifelj, 2010 Examines nineteenth century hairstyles and their cultural associations and analyzes the social and symbolic roles that hair played in literary representations of the new body ideal of the era in fashion magazines and as clues to social status sexual availability and character in the fiction of major French authors including Baudelaire Balzac Flaubert and Zola Napoleonic Friendship Brian Joseph Martin, 2011 The first book length study of the origin of queer soldiers in modern France The Transparent Illusion Rebecca M. Pauly, 1993 This unique study interprets forty major French films their texts and intertexts analyzing them both as windows on their subject projections of the imagination and as frames or mirrors reflecting the cultural contexts that produced them They are grouped in three major categories foregrounding their relationship to history literature or the filmmaking process itself in ascending order of opacity and modernity This much needed work offers not only comparative cultural perspectives on French text and film but also a better understanding of the poetics of image and ideology Georges Méliès, l'illusionniste fin de siècle? Jacques Malthête, Michel Marie, 1997 El relato corto francés del siglo XIX y su recepción en España Concepción Palacios Bernal, 2003 El volumen recoge las aportaciones de distintos especialistas de Universidades españolas y extranjeras sobre este género narrativo en el siglo XIX La idea del libro enmarcado en un proyecto financiado por el MCYT es la de ampliar la visión del relato corto sacar a autores del olvido llenar el vacío existente sobre algunos textos investigar también la recepción el alcance que determinados autores tuvieron en España L'insularité Mustapha Trabelsi, 2005

Étranges récits, étranges lectures Rachel Bouvet, 2013-05-15 T00:00:00-04:00 L'enjeu de ce livre est double d'une part il s'agit de définir l'effet fantastique dont tout le monde parle mais qui n'a pas fait l'objet d'une véritable étude et d'autre part de remettre en cause la conception selon laquelle la lecture est un processus fondé sur l'élimination des indéterminations Le but n'est donc pas de laborer une nouvelle définition du texte fantastique mais bien d'explorer l'acte de lecture de textes reconnus comme tels Notre étude du rôle des ind terminations dans la lecture du fantastique comprend trois chapitres Dans le premier nous essayons de définir en quoi consistent les ind terminations du récit fantastique Le second chapitre est consacré à l'articulation du rapport entre l'ind termination et l'effet fantastique qui se produit au cours de la lecture Dans le troisième chapitre nous nous interrogeons sur le rapport entre ind termination et interprétation et plus particulièrement sur l'amorce du processus interprétatif et sur l'attitude interprétative
