Export-oriented Industrialization in Developing Countries Pitou van Dijck,Hans Linnemann,Harmen Verbruggen,1987 This study describes and analyses in depth the transformation taking place in world manufacturing industry and its impact on the economies of newly industrialising countries In Part One the causes and characteristics of export oriented industrialisation are studied often using world wide cross country analyses Trade policies and export strategies underlying such industrialisation processes get much attention Part Two mainly deals with the domestic preconditions for and consequences of export oriented manufacturing production on the basis of detailed case studies of seven East and South East Asian countries Quarterly Economic Review of Madagascar, Mauritius, Seychelles, Comoros ,1984 Lost Land of the Dodo Anthony Cheke,Julian P. Hume,2009-01-01 The Mascarene islands in the southern Indian Ocean Mauritius Reunion and Rodrigues were once home to an extraordinary range of birds and reptiles Evolving on these isolated volcanic islands in the absence of mammalian predators or competitors the land was dominated by giant tortoises parrots skinks and geckos burrowing boas flightless rails the birds and tortoises were slaughtered indiscriminately while introduced rats cats pigs and monkeys destroyed their eggs the once extensive forests logged and invasive introduced plants from all over the tropics devastated the ecosystem The now familiar icon of extinction the Dodo was gone from Mauritius within 50 years of human settlement and over the next 150 years many of the Mascarenes other native vertebrates followed suit The product of over 30 years research by Anthony Cheke Lost Land of the Dodo provides a comprehensive yet hugely enjoyable account of the story of the islands changing ecology interspersed with human stories the islands biogeographical anomalies and much else Many French publications old and new especially for Réunion are discussed and referenced in English for the first time The book is richly illustrated with maps and contemporary illustrations of the animals and their environment many of which have rarely been reprinted before Illustrated box texts look in detail at each extinct vertebrate species while Julian Hume's superb colour plates bring many of the extinct birds to life Lost Land of the Dodo provides the definitive account of this tragic yet remarkable fauna and is a must read for anyone interested in islands their ecology and the history of our relationship with the world around us

Successful Stabilization and Recovery in Mauritius Ravi Gulhati, Raj Nallari, 1990 During the second half of the 1970s the Mauritian sugar boom ended For a number of years thereafter economic instability and financial troubles marred the picture The authors aim to analyze government policy leading up to this setback and to explore the process that ended with stabilization and recovery The reforms appeared to be successful Not only was inflation tamed and financial balance restored during 1984-86 but the economy resumed rapid growth and unemployment dropped to very low levels Not all problems were solved however Mauritius stayed very exposed to exogenous shocks and to adverse policy changes in its trading partners and manufactured exports stayed vulnerable to non tariff barrier restrictions on imports in developed countries and to recession in developed countries There are three lessons to be learned from Mauritius experience of stabilization and recovery 1 the sharp recovery in the economy would have been much less likely if the reforms had followed an acute and protracted crisis instead of being triggered by mild disequilibrium 2 the recovery would have been less impressive if Mauritius did not have access to the relatively large EEC sugar quotas and 3 there was never much disagreement in principle with the international organizations on the direction of desired reforms only understood but also applied in rigorous social science research It marks a transformative shift in our approach to political science enabling us to navigate the labyrinth of contemporary governance structures with newfound clarity

World Bank Staff Working Paper ,1984 Mauritius Larry W Bowman,1991-03-12 From the John Holmes Library collection Argentina ,1985 This report examines the difficult economic situation facing Argentine policymakers at the end of 1983 as a new government assumed power The country s experience with stabilization and economic liberalization is reviewed distinguishing between the 1976 78 period when rapid devaluations a reduction of the fiscal deficit and the easing of price and financial controls helped stimulate exports and growth and the period after October 1978 when inconsistencies between exchange rate import liberalization wage and fiscal policies produced a deep recession high levels of inflation and a serious balance of payments and external debt crisis Despite present difficulties the report concludes that the Argentine economy possesses important elements of long term strength which with sustained economic recovery and sound domestic policies should permit a resumption of growth at the same time that the burden of external debt is gradually reduced The report recommends a number of medium term measures to improve fiscal management including better tax administration providing adequate export incentive to both agriculture and industry and raising the efficiency of the financial system in mobilizing and allocating domestic savings Morocco Bela A. Balassa,World Bank,1984 The manufacturing sector plays an important role in the Moroccan economy Spurred by the growth of domestic demand and heightened protection of the domestic market industrial production expanded rapidly during the 1960s The import substitution strategy was stepped up but despite a sharp rise in investment in 1972 77 there was only a temporary surge in the growth rate of the industrial sector with respect to the previous period and since 1978 manufacturing output has stagnated The economic and financial projections in this report indicate that the current account deficit of the balance of payments will remain at around US 2 billion during 1983 85 if an export promotion policy is not put into effect This report proposes a revision of industrial policy aiming at improving the system of incentives for production improving the system of taxation and promotion of industrial investment and providing for the financing of investment Implementation of these measures would bring about a better allocation of resources and a reduction in the balance of payments deficit Papers ,1984 Mauritian Education in a Global Economy Sheila S.
