In Literature and the Politics of Post Victorian Decadence Kristin Mahoney argues that the early twentieth century was a period in which the specters of the fin de siècle exercised a remarkable draw on the modern cultural imagination and troubled emergent avant gardistes These authors and artists refused to assimilate to the aesthetic and political ethos of the era representing themselves instead as time travelers from the previous century for whom twentieth century modernity was both baffling and disappointing However they did not turn entirely from the modern moment but rather relied on decadent strategies to participate in conversations concerning the most highly vexed issues of the period including war the rise of the Labour Party the question of women's sexual freedom and changing conceptions of sexual and gender identities is the only novel by English essayist Max Beerbohm a satire of undergraduate life at Oxford published in 1911 It includes the famous line Death cancels all engagements and presents a corrosive view of Edwardian Oxford The all male campus of Oxford Beerbohm s alma mater is a place where aesthetics holds sway above all else and where witty intellectuals reign Things haven t changed for its privileged student body for years until the beguiling music hall prestidigitator Zuleika Dobson shows up The book s marvelous prose dances along the line between reality and the absurd as students and dons alike fall at Zuleika s feet and she cuts a wide swath across the campus until she encounters one young aristocrat for whom she is astonished to find she has feelings As Zuleika and her creator zero in on their targets the book takes some surprising and dark twists on its way to a truly startling ending an ending so striking that readers will understand why Virginia Woolf said

English language novels of the 20th century
