The May Fourth Movement in Shanghai Chen, 2023-07-31 The May Fourth Movement in Shanghai Joseph T. Chen, 1971 A Bitter Revolution Rana Mitter, 2004 China is now poised to take a key role on the world stage but in the early twentieth century the situation could not have been more different Rana Mitter goes back to this pivotal moment in Chinese history to uncover the origins of the painful transition from a premodern past into a modern world By the 1920s the seemingly civilized world shaped over the last two thousand years by the legacy of the great philosopher Confucius was falling apart in the face of western imperialism and internal warfare Chinese cities still bore the imprints of its ancient past with narrow lanes and temples to long worshipped gods but these were starting to change with the influx of foreign traders teachers and missionaries all eager to shape China's ancient past into a modern present Mitter takes us through the resulting social turmoil and political promise the devastating war against Japan in the 1940s Communism and the Cultural Revolution of the 1960s and the new era of hope in the 1980s ended by the Tian anmen uprising He reveals the impetus behind the dramatic changes in Chinese culture and politics as being China's New Culture a strain of thought which celebrated youth individualism and the heady mixture of strange and seductive new cultures from places as far apart as America India and Japan The Chinese Enlightenment Vera Schwarcz, 1986 It is widely accepted both inside China and in the West that contemporary Chinese history begins with the May Fourth Movement Vera Schwarcz's imaginative new study provides China scholars and historians with an analysis of what makes that event a turning point in the intellectual spiritual cultural and political life of twentieth century China The May Fourth Movement in Shanghai Joseph Tao Chen, 1964 The Rise of Political Intellectuals in Modern China Shakhari Rahav, 2015-02-17 The May Fourth movement 1915 1923 is widely considered a watershed in the history of modern China This book is a social history of cultural and political radicals based in China's most important hinterland city at this pivotal time Wuhan Current narratives of May Fourth focus on the ideological development of intellectuals in the seaboard metropolises of Beijing and Shanghai And although scholars have pointed to the importance of the many cultural political societies of the period they have largely neglected to examine these associations seeing them only as seedbeds of Chinese communism and its leaders like Mao Zedong This book by contrast portrays the everyday life of May Fourth activists in Wuhan in cultural political societies founded by local teacher and journalist Yun Daiying 1895 1931 The book examines the ways by which radical politics developed in hinterland urban centers from there into a nation wide movement which ultimately provided the basis for the emergence of mass political parties namely the Nationalist Party Guomindang and the Chinese Communist Party CCP The book's focus on organizations everyday life and social networks provides a novel interpretation of where mechanisms of historical change are located The book also highlights the importance of print culture in the provinces It demonstrates how provincial print culture combined with small local organizations to create a political movement The vantage point of Wuhan demonstrates that May Fourth radicalism

developed in a dialogue between the coastal metropolises of Beijing and Shanghai and hinterland urban centers. The book therefore charts the way in which seeds of political change grew from individuals through local organizations into a nationwide movement and finally into mass party politics and subsequently revolution. The book thus connects everyday experiences of activists with the cultural political ferment which gave rise to both the Chinese Communist party and the Nationalist Party. The May Fourth Movement Cezong Zhou, Tse-tung Chow, 1960. There are few major events in modern Chinese history so controversial, so much discussed yet so inadequately treated as the May Fourth Movement. For some Chinese it marks a national renaissance or liberation; for others a national catastrophe. Among those who discuss or celebrate it, most views vary greatly. Every May for the last forty years, numerous articles have analyzed and commented on the movement. Several books devoted entirely to the subject and hundreds touching on it have been published in Chinese. The literature on the subject is massive yet most of it offers more polemic than factual accounts. Most Westerners possess but fragmentary and inaccurate information on the subject. For these reasons, preparation of this volume recounting the events of the movement and examining in detail its currents and effects has seemed to me worthwhile. The May Fourth

Movement in Shanghai, the Makings of a Social Movement in Modern China Joseph Tao Chen, A Bitter Revolution Rana Mitter, 2004-07. China is now poised to take a key role on the world stage but in the early twentieth century the situation could not have been more different. Rana Mitter goes back to this pivotal moment in Chinese history to uncover the origins of the painful transition from a premodern past into a modern world. Mitter takes us through the resulting social turmoil and political promise, the devastating war against Japan in the 1940s, Communism and the Cultural Revolution of the 1960s, and the new era of hope in the 1980s ended by the Tiananmen uprising. He reveals the impetus behind the dramatic changes in Chinese culture and politics as being China's New Culture, a strain of thought which celebrated youth, individualism, and the heady mixture of strange and seductive new cultures from places as far apart as America, India, and Japan. China is now poised to take a key role on the world stage but in the early twentieth century the situation could not have been more different. Rana Mitter goes back to this pivotal moment in Chinese history to uncover the origins of the painful transition from a premodern past into a modern world. By the 1920s, the seemingly civilized world shaped over the last two thousand years by the legacy of the great philosopher Confucius was falling apart in the face of western imperialism and internal warfare. Chinese cities still bore the imprints of its ancient past with narrow lanes and temples to long worshipped gods but these were starting to change with the influx of foreign traders, teachers, and missionaries all eager to shape China's ancient past into a modern present. Mitter takes us through the resulting social turmoil and political promise, the devastating war against Japan in the 1940s, Communism and the Cultural Revolution of the 1960s, and the new era of hope in the 1980s ended by the Tiananmen uprising. He reveals the impetus behind the dramatic changes in Chinese culture and politics as being China's New Culture, a strain of thought which celebrated youth, individualism, and the heady mixture of strange and politics and subsequently revolution The book thus connects everyday experiences of activists with the cultural political ferment which gave rise to both the Chinese Communist party and the Nationalist Party Touches of History ,2011-05-10 Touches of History represents a groundbreaking attempt to return to a study of May Fourth that is solidly grounded in historical fact Favours smaller stories over grand narratives concentrating on unknown marginal materials rather than familiar key documents and highlighting May Fourth's indebtedness to the cultural debates of the preceding late Qing period Chen Pingyuan reconstructs part of the actual historical scenery demonstrating the great variety of ideas expressed during those tumultuous decades Sun Yatsen's Doctrine In The Modern World Chu-yuan Cheng,Hung-Chao Tai,Harold Z Schiffrin,Yu-Long Ling,2019-07-11 This volume focuses on Sun Yat-sen's social political and economic ideas as seen in his major work The Three Principles of the People which discusses nationalism democracy and people's welfare examining his doctrines as well as his ideas with other contemporary ideologies Making China Strong R. Weatherley,2014-02-18 Robert Weatherley argues that Chinese perceptions of democracy and human rights have been heavily influenced by the pressing issue of how to make China strong in the face of a perceived threat posed by foreign imperialism be it military imperialism during the previous two centuries and cultural imperialism in more recent decades A Century of Student Movements in China Peng Deng,2019-12-02 The book looks through five generations of Chinese students since the May Fourth Movement in 1919 explains how their ideas actions and impact ran like a thread through many governments and institutions that have shaped modern China and indicates where China came from and what the country became 1919 - The Year That Changed China Elisabeth Forster,2018-03-05 The year 1919 changed Chinese culture radically but in a way that completely took contemporaries by surprise At the beginning of the year even well informed intellectuals did not anticipate that for instance baihua a precursor of the modern Chinese language communism Hu Shi and Chen Duxiu would become important and famous all of which was very obvious to them at the end of the year Elisabeth Forster traces the precise mechanisms behind this transformation on the basis of a rich variety of sources including newspapers personal letters student essays advertisements textbooks and diaries She proposes a new model for cultural change which puts intellectual marketing at its core This book retells the story of the New Culture Movement in light of the diversified and decentered picture of Republican China developed in recent scholarship It is a lively and ironic narrative about cultural change through academic infighting rumors and conspiracy theories newspaper stories and intellectuals hell bent on selling agendas through powerful buzzwords The Formation of the Chinese Communist Party Yoshihiro Ishikawa,2012-11-13 Official Chinese narratives recounting the rise of the Chinese Communist Party CCP tend to minimize the movement's international associations Conducting careful readings and translations of recently released documents in Russian Japanese and Chinese Ishikawa Yoshihiro builds a portrait of the party's multifaceted character revealing the provocative influences that shaped the movement and the ideologies of its competitors Making use of public and private documents and research

Ishikawa begins the story in 1919 with Chinese intellectuals who wrote extensively under pen names and in fact plagiarized or translated many iconic texts of early Chinese Marxism Chinese Marxists initially drew intellectual sustenance from their Japanese counterparts until Japan clamped down on leftist activities The Chinese then turned to American and British sources Ishikawa traces these networks through an exhaustive survey of journals newspapers and other intellectual and popular publications He reports on numerous early meetings involving a range of groups only some of which were later funneled into CCP membership and he follows the developments at Soviet Russian gatherings attended by a number of Chinese representatives who claimed to speak for a nascent CCP Concluding his narrative in 1922 one year after the party's official founding Ishikawa clarifies a traditionally opaque period in Chinese history and sheds new light on the subsequent behavior and attitude of the party
