Abrams, 2010-06-04 Maya architecture is often described as massive and monumental but experiments at Copan Honduras convinced Elliot Abrams that 300 people could have built one of the large palaces there in only 100 days In this groundbreaking work Abrams explicates his theory of architectural energetics which involves translating structures into volumes of raw and manufactured materials that are then multiplied by the time required for their production and assembly to determine the labor costs of past construction efforts Applying this method to residential structures of the Late Classic period A D 700 900 at Copan leads Abrams to posit a six tiered hierarchic social structure of political decision making ranging from a stratified elite to low ranking commoners By comparing the labor costs of construction and other economic activities he also prompts a reconsideration of the effects of royal construction demands on commoners How the Maya Built Their World will interest a wide audience in New and Old World anthropology archaeology architecture and engineering Maya Imagery, Architecture, and Activity Kaylee R. Boundaries Maya Lin, 2016-04-26 Renowned artist and architect Maya Lin s visual and verbal sketchbook a unique view into her artwork and philosophy Walking through this parklike area the memorial appears as a rift in the earth a long polished black stone wall emerging from and receding into the earth Approaching the memorial the ground slopes gently downward and the low walls emerging on either side growing out of the earth extend and converge at a point below and ahead Walking into the grassy site contained by the walls of this memorial we can barely make out the carved names upon the memorial's walls. These names seemingly infinite in number convey the sense of overwhelming numbers while unifying these individuals into a whole. So begins the competition entry submitted in 1981 by a Yale undergraduate for the design of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C., subsequently called as moving and awesome and popular a piece of memorial architecture as exists anywhere in the world. Its creator Maya Lin has been nothing less than world famous ever since. From the explicitly political to the unashamedly literary to the completely abstract, her simple and powerful sculpture, the Rockefeller Foundation sculpture, the Southern Poverty Law Center Civil Rights Memorial, the Yale Women's Table Wave Field, her architecture including The Museum for African Art and the Norton residence, and her protean design talents have defined her as one of the most gifted creative geniuses of the age. Boundaries is her first book, an eloquent visual-verbal sketchbook produced with the same inspiration and attention to detail as any of her other artworks. Like her environmental sculptures, it is a site but one which exists at a remove so that it may comment on the personal and artistic elements that make up those works. In it, sketches, photographs, workbook entries, and original designs are held together by a deeply personal text. Boundaries is a powerful literary and visual statement by a leading public artist. Holland Carter. It is itself a unique work of art. Maya Lin: A Journey David A. Freidel, Arlen F. Chase, Anne S. Dowd, Jerry Murdock, 2017-08-08. As complex societies emerged in the Maya lowlands during the first millennium BCE, so did stable communities focused around public squares and the worship of a divine ruler tied to a Maize God cult. E Groups, central to many of these settlements, are architectural complexes typically a long platform supporting three structures and facing a western pyramid across a formal plaza. Aligned with the movements of the sun, E Groups have long been interpreted as giant calendrical devices crucial to the rise of Maya civilization. This volume presents new archaeological data to reveal that E Groups were constructed earlier than previously thought. In fact, they are the earliest identifiable architectural plan at many Maya settlements. More than just astronomical observatories or calendars, E Groups were a key element of community organization, urbanism, and identity in the heart of the Maya lowlands. They served as gathering places for emerging communities and centers of ritual; they were the very first civic-religious public architecture in the Maya lowlands. Investigating a wide variety of E Group sites, including some of the most famous like the Mundo Perdido in Tikal and the hitherto little-known complex at Chan, as well as others in Ceibal, El Palmar, Cival, Calakmul, Caracol, Xunantunich, Yaxnohcah, Yaxun, and San Bartolo, this volume pieces together the development of social and political complexity in ancient Maya civilization.
