Monetary and Capital Markets Department, 2012-04-18 The April 2012 Global Financial Stability Report assesses changes in risks to financial stability over the past six months focusing on sovereign vulnerabilities risks stemming from private sector deleveraging and assessing the continued resilience of emerging markets The report probes the implications of recent reforms in the financial system for market perception of safe assets and investigates the growing public and private costs of increased longevity risk from aging populations Team of Teams General Stanley McChrystal, Tantum Collins, David Silverman, Chris Fussell, 2015-05-12 From the New York Times bestselling author of My Share of the Task and Leaders comes a manual for leaders looking to make their teams more adaptable agile and unified in the midst of change When General Stanley McChrystal took command of the Joint Special Operations Task Force in 2004 he quickly realized that conventional military tactics were failing Al Qaeda in Iraq was a decentralized network that could move quickly strike ruthlessly then seemingly vanish into the local population The allied forces had a huge advantage in numbers equipment and training but none of that seemed to matter To defeat Al Qaeda they would have to combine the power of the world's mightiest military with the agility of the world's most fearsome terrorist network They would have to become a team of teams faster flatter and more flexible than ever In Team of Teams McChrystal and his colleagues show how the challenges they faced in Iraq can be relevant to countless businesses nonprofits and organizations today In periods of unprecedented crisis leaders need practical management practices that can scale to thousands of people and fast By giving small groups the freedom to experiment and share what they learn across the entire organization teams can respond more quickly communicate more freely and make better and faster decisions Drawing on compelling examples from NASA to hospital emergency rooms Team of Teams makes the case for merging the power of a large corporation with the agility of a small team to transform any organization Cancer Survival in Africa, Asia, the Caribbean and Central America R. Sankaranarayanan, R. Swaminathan, 2011 Population based cancer survival rates offer an important benchmark for measuring a health care system's overall effectiveness in the fight against cancer While this type of information on high resource countries is readily available Cancer Survival in Africa Asia the Caribbean and Central America presents in depth cancer survival data from 27 population based cancer registries in 14 low and middle resource countries The striking inequalities in cancer survival between countries and within countries described in this volume are largely related to the differences in general awareness availability of early detection practices trained human resources diagnosis and treatment and the development and accessibility to cancer services as well as to a lesser extent to issues of data quality and reliability The differences in cancer survival reported in populations observed between and within countries studied in this volume provide valuable insights for future planning and investment by governments in primary prevention activities early detection initiatives and tertiary care to achieve meaningful cancer control The calendar period of registration of incident cases for the present study ranges between 1990 and 2001 Data on 564 606 cases of 1 56 cancer sites from different registries are reported Data from eleven registries were utilized for eliciting survival trend and seventeen registries for reporting survival by clinical extent of disease Besides chapters on every registry and general chapters on methodology database and overview the availability of online comparative statistics on cancer survival data by participating registries or cancer site in the form of tables or graphs is an added feature Federal Statistics, Multiple Data Sources, and Privacy Protection National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on National Statistics, Panel on Improving Federal Statistics for Policy and Social Science Research Using Multiple Data Sources and State-of-the-Art Estimation Methods, 2018-01-27 The environment for obtaining information and providing statistical data for policy makers and the public has changed significantly in the past decade raising questions about the fundamental survey paradigm that underlies federal statistics New data sources provide opportunities to develop a new paradigm that can improve timeliness geographic or subpopulation detail and statistical efficiency It also has the potential to reduce the costs of producing federal statistics The panel's first report described federal statistical agencies current paradigm which relies heavily on sample surveys for producing national statistics and challenges agencies are facing the legal frameworks and mechanisms for protecting the privacy and confidentiality of statistical data and for providing researchers access to data and challenges to those frameworks and mechanisms and statistical agencies access to alternative sources of data The panel recommended a new approach for federal statistical programs that would combine diverse data sources from government and private sector sources and the creation of a new entity that would provide the foundational elements needed for this new approach including legal authority to access data and protect privacy This second of the panel's two reports builds on the analysis conclusions and recommendations in the first one This report assesses alternative methods for implementing a new approach that would combine diverse data sources from government and private sector sources including describing statistical models for combining data from multiple sources examining statistical and computer science approaches that foster privacy protections evaluating frameworks for assessing the quality and utility of alternative data sources and various models for implementing the recommended new entity Together the two reports offer ideas and recommendations to help federal statistical agencies examine and evaluate data from alternative sources and then combine them as appropriate to provide the country with more timely actionable and useful information for policy makers businesses and individuals Management Information Systems Kenneth C. Laudon, Jane Price Laudon, 2004 Management Information Systems provides comprehensive and integrative coverage of essential new technologies information system applications and their impact on business models and managerial decision making in an exciting and interactive manner The twelfth edition focuses on the major changes that have been made in information technology over the past two years and includes new opening closing and Interactive Session cases Work in the 21st Century Frank J.
