Michael Hall,2014-02-24 Social Marketing is the utilisation of marketing principles and methods to encourage individual and organisational behaviour change for the public good Traditionally the domain of government it is increasingly also utilised by non government and non profit organisations and other institutions of civil society as a non regulatory means to achieve policy and public good goals At a time when concerns over tourism's contribution to undesirable environmental economic and social change is greater than ever social marketing strategies are important for encouraging more appropriate and desirable behaviours by tourists and the tourism industry Tourism and Social Marketing is the first book to comprehensively detail the relevance of social marketing principles and practice to tourism destination management and marketing By considering this relationship and application of social marketing approaches to key issues facing contemporary tourism development such as the environment this book provides significant insights into how the behaviours of visitors and businesses may be changed so as to develop more sustainable forms of tourism and improve the quality of life of destination communities It further provides a powerful impetus to the development of tourism related forms of sustainable consumption and the promotion of ethical tourism and marketing This innovative book is comprehensive in scope by considering a variety of relevant fields relevant to tourism and social marketing practice including health non profit organisations governance the politics of marketing and consumption consumer advocacy and environmental and sustainable marketing It integrates selected international cases studies to help tourism students engage with the broader debates in social marketing governance and the politics of behaviour change and shows the relationship of theory to practice Written by a leading authority in the field topical and integrative this book will be valuable reading for students scholars and researchers in tourism

Development of Tourism and the Hospitality Industry in Southeast Asia Purnendu Mandal, John Vong, 2015-12-18 This book highlights the state of the art tourism and hospitality industry in Southeast Asian countries while also presenting future directions for the industry with an emphasis on decision making models It first elaborates on the significant role of the tourism and hospitality industry given the rapid socio economic and cultural changes occurring in Southeast Asia before providing perspectives on medical tourism tourism for seniors and several other developments within the tourism and hospitality sector Development of Tourism and the Hospitality Industry in Southeast Asia presents scholarly perspectives from researchers across the region and is geared towards world wide readers in academia as well as experts from the industry

Tourism Management David Weaver, Laura Lawton, 2014-10-27 In 2013 the World Tourism Organization reported that more than one billion international overnight tourist trips occurred globally during the previous year Aside from the impressive number the achievement was even more remarkable given the lingering effects of the global financial crisis It is proof indeed of the tourism sector's great resilience as well as the continuing explosive growth of mass tourism markets in China and other parts of Asia In 2013 the World Tourism Organization reported that more than one billion international overnight tourist trips occurred globally during the previous year Aside from the impressive number the achievement was even more remarkable given the lingering effects of the global financial crisis It is proof indeed of the tourism sector's great resilience as well as the continuing explosive growth of mass tourism markets in China and other parts of Asia Tourism Management 5th Edition explains why sophisticated and adaptive management is required to realise the tourism sector's full potential as a positive and sustainable economic ecological social and cultural force This new 5th Edition continues to equip aspiring managers and planners with the broad cutting edge knowledge and mindset conducive to resilience and innovation in the tourism sector It emphasises the paramount importance of sustainability in terms of the triple bottom line by concurrently acknowledging the legitimacy of economic environmental and sociocultural viability Such holistic thinking needs to be deeply embedded in the deliberations of all tourism planners and managers Special features in each chapter also continue to highlight how innovative technologies can be utilised in the interests of resilient and sustainable tourism Social media for example has attained a degree of importance as a democratic marketing vehicle that could not have been foreseen even a few short years ago Tourism Management 5th Edition builds on its long held reputation for providing students with a strong pedagogical application of the economic sociocultural and environment impacts of tourism The title s twelve chapters constitute a logical introduction to the tourism sector aligning with a typical university semester It prepares students with exposure to the latest industry and research developments in turn building their capacity as the successful tourism managers of the future

Introducing Intercultural Communication Shuang Liu,Cynthia Gallois,Zala Volcic,Cindy Gallois,2010-12-08 This multinational team of authors has put together an introduction to communicating across cultures that draws on examples and case studies from across the world using no single culture as its frame of reference Structured around the links between theory and practice and between the global and the local the discussion covers the key theories and their practical applications as well as new topics often neglected in textbooks such as international conflict social networking migrancy and the effect that technology and mass media play in the globalization of communication This book will not merely get students through their intercultural communication course but help teach them to become a more critical consumer of information and understand the influence of their own culture on how they view themselves and others

Social Work Management and Leadership John Lawler,Andy Bilson,2009-10-16 Management and leadership are increasingly important within the organisation and delivery of social care services and now form part of the post qualification framework for social workers Yet whilst there is a relatively broad understanding of management concepts and their application in social care their foundations often go unchallenged both by students and managers Furthermore leadership is open to a wide range of interpretations and is often ill defined with the expectation that we share a common understanding of the term This text promotes an appreciation of the development of management and leadership thinking and the different themes which inform current ideas It considers these topics from a range of theoretical standpoints in order to stimulate readers to consider their own experience and expectations of management and leadership It then demonstrates how these standpoints might promote innovative approaches to management and leadership within social care organisations and ways in which such organisations might then develop The aim of this challenging text is to encourage critical and informed reflection on current practice Social Work Management and Leadership is essential reading for students of management and leadership in social care as well as being an invaluable resource for managers who simply wish to consider new approaches to their practice      Japanese Cinema Goes Global Yoshiharu Tezuka, 2011-11-01 Japan's film industry has gone through dramatic changes in recent decades as international consumer forces and transnational talent have brought unprecedented engagement with global trends. With careful research and also unique first person observations drawn from years of working within the international industry of Japanese film, the author aims to examine how different generations of Japanese filmmakers engaged and interacted with the structural opportunities and limitations posed by external forces and how their subjectivity has been shaped by their transnational experiences and has changed as a result. Having been through the globalization of the last part of the twentieth century are Japanese themselves and overseas consumers of Japanese culture really becoming more cosmopolitan? If so, what does it mean for Japan's national culture and the traditional sense of national belonging among Japanese people      Urban Food Culture Cecilia Leong-Salobir, 2019-04-02 This book explores the food history of twentieth century Sydney, Shanghai and Singapore within an Asian Pacific network of flux and flows. It engages with a range of historical perspectives on each city's food and culinary histories, including colonial culinary legacies, restaurants, cafes, street food, market gardens, supermarkets and cookbooks, examining the exchange of goods and services and how the migration of people to the urban centres informed the social histories of the cities, foodways in the contexts of culinary nationalism, ethnic identities and globalization. Considering the recent food history of the three cities and its complex narrative of empire, trade networks and migration patterns, this book discusses key aspects of each city's cuisine in the twentieth century, examining the interwoven threads of colonialism and globalization      The New Rich in Asia David Goodman, Richard Robison, 2013-09-13 This is the first volume in the The New Rich in Asia series which examines the economic, social and political construction of the new rich in the countries and territories of East and South East Asia as well as their impact internationally. From a western perspective, the rise of the emergent business and professional class may seem very familiar. However, it is far from clear that those newly enriched by the processes of modernization in East and South East Asia are readily comparable with the middle classes of the West. For example, civil and human rights seem to play a different role in social, political and economic change, and the State is clearly more central as an agent of economic development. This volume is the essential introduction to the series and identifies the new rich phenomenon in Indonesia, Thailand, Singapore, Malaysia, Korea, China, Hong Kong and Taiwan. The contributors demonstrate that the key to understanding the new rich is to realise that they are neither a single category or class, but in each setting a series of different socio-political groups who have a common inheritance from the process of rapid economic growth      The End Of Globalization Alan Rugman, 2012-09-30 Professor Alan Rugman is one of the world's leading academics in the field of international business and strategy. In The End of Globalization, he argues that we are currently witnessing the end of globalization and draws on new research and analysis to argue that globalization never really happened anyway. Like Bartlett and Ghoshal's Managing Across Borders, this book is aimed at the market of practitioners and policy makers not academics and theoreticians showing them what the current state of the global economy means for them Global business is dominated by the 500 largest multinational enterprises MNEs out of a total of 30 000 MNEs altogether The 500 MNEs that are the engines of international business think regional and act local Using analysis drawn from world leading companies Professor Rugman looks in detail at the managerial implications of the end of globalization including in depth discussion of corporate strategies organizational structures and analytical methods

Aeromobilities Saulo Cwerner, Sven Kesselring, John Urry, 2009-01-13 Aeromobilities is a collection of essays that tackle in many different ways the growing importance of aviation and air travel in our hypermobile globalized world Providing a multidisciplinary focus on issues ranging from global airports to the production of airspace from airline work to helicopters and from movement in airports to software systems Aeromobilities seeks to enhance our understanding of space time and mobility in the age of mass air travel From Sao Paulo to Sydney Aeromobilities draws on local experiences of airspaces to generate theory and research that are global in scope It is the first book of its kind bringing together a wide range of theoretical and methodological approaches to aviation and air travel in the social sciences and humanities while emphasizing the central role of aeromobilities in contemporary social relations In a world where virtually every aspect of social life is touched upon in one way or another by the complex global network of airline flows with its large passenger aircraft and iconic international airports Aeromobilities provides innovative analyses of some of the most fundamental and influential mobility networks of our time

Negotiating Urban Conflicts Helmuth Berking, 2006 Cities have always been arenas of social and symbolic conflict As places of encounter between different classes ethnic groups and lifestyles cities play the role of powerful integrators yet on the other hand urban contexts are the ideal setting for marginalization and violence The struggle over control of urban spaces is an ambivalent mode of sociation while producing themselves groups produce exclusive spaces and then in turn use the boundaries they have created to define themselves This volume presents major urban conflicts and analyzes modes of negotiation against the theoretical background of postcolonialism

Community Archives Jeannette Allis Bastian, Ben Alexander, 2009 How do archives and other cultural institutions such as museums determine the boundaries of a particular community and of their own institutional reach in constructing effective strategies and methodologies for selecting and maintaining appropriate material evidence This book offers guidance for archivists record managers and museums professionals faced with such issues in their daily work This edited collection explores the relationships between communities and the records they create at both practical and scholarly levels It focuses on the ways in which records reflect community identity and collective memory and the implications of capturing appraising and documenting these core societal elements with particular focus on the ways in which recent advances in technology can overcome traditional obstacles as well as how technologies themselves offer possibilities of creating new virtual communities It is divided into five themes a community archives model communities and non traditional record keeping records loss destruction and recovery online communities how technology brings communities and their records together building a community archive Readership This book will appeal to practitioners researchers and academics in the archives and records community as well as to historians and other scholars concerned with community building and social issues      Brand Society Martin Kornberger,2010-01-21

A fascinating account of the way in which brands influence the lives of individuals and the organizations they work in

Global Culture Mike Featherstone,1990-08 In this book leading social scientists from many countries analyze the extent to which we are seeing a globalization of culture Is a unified world culture emerging And if so how does this relate to existing cultural divisions and to the autonomy of the nation state Differing explanations are offered for trends towards global unification and their relation to an economic world system Will the intensification of global contact produce increasing tolerance of other cultures Or will an integrating culture produce sharper reactions in the form of fundamentalist and nationalist movements The contributors explore the emergence of third cultures such as international law the financial markets and media conglomerates as      Home/world ,1997 A series of reflections on the yearning for home and community in the modern world explored through an analysis grounded in the specific and historical realities of urban living in the region known as western Sydney
