University Women Sara Z. MacDonald, 2021-11-15 Bessie Scott nearing the end of her first year at university in the spring of 1890 recorded in her diary Wore my gown for first time It didn't seem at all strange to do so Often deemed a cumbersome tradition by men the cap and gown were dearly prized by women as an outward sign of their hard won admission to the rank of undergraduates For the first generations of university women higher education was an exhilarating and transformative experience but these opportunities would narrow in the decades that followed In University Women Sara MacDonald explores the processes of integration and separation that marked women's contested entrance into higher education Examining the period between 1870 and 1930 this book is the first to provide a comparative study of women at universities across Canada MacDonald concludes that women's higher education cannot be seen as a progressive narrative a triumphant story of trailblazers and firsts of doors being thrown open and staying open The early promise of equal education was not fulfilled in the longer term as a backlash against the growing presence of women on campuses resulted in separate academic programs closer moral regulation and barriers that restricted their admission into the burgeoning fields of science technology engineering and mathematics The modernization of higher education ultimately marginalized women students researchers and faculty within the diversified universities of the twentieth century University Women uncovers the systemic inequalities based on gender race and class that have shaped Canadian higher education It is indispensable reading for those concerned with the underrepresentation of girls and women in STEM and current initiatives to address issues of access and equity within our academic institutions

Making a Middle Class Paul Axelrod, 1990-10-01 Using a rich array of archival and quantitative sources and oral testimony from ex students across Canada Axelrod explores the characteristics and significance of university life during a trying decade He describes who went to university what they were taught how they amused themselves how they responded to the pressing political issues of the day and what became of them after graduation Axelrod argues that these students shared the aspirations of middle class communities elsewhere Dreading the prospect of downward social mobility they craved the status a university degree and professional credentials might produce Accordingly they forged an associational life on campus that challenged the control of paternalistic authorities perpetuated the values of middle class culture and helped them cope with the stresses of the time Women composed almost one quarter of the student population and faced discrimination inside and outside the classroom How they coped with this how they adapted their own expectations and how they contributed to campus and community culture are extensively discussed Through the prism of the student experience Making a Middle Class furnishes fresh insights into the social history of higher education the history of youth the history of the middle class and the history of the Depression

Renfree, 2007-03-16 In this age of hi tech impersonal living our individual identities are in danger of being submerged and our collective past is easily forgotten History is therefore more important now than it has been in any previous time It is a corrective that insists we are not defined as a number in a data bank but as people who have lived in relation to time and circumstances Our roots lie not in a code but in interactions with other people and in the flow of daily events Canadian Baptists have eagerly awaited the day that someone would produce a comprehensive candid and faithful report of who we are and what major events helped shape our identity This book can only strengthen Canadian Baptist relationships as it brings to mind our common or similar beginnings The author of this history Dr Harry A Renfree has done us an immense service by giving us a history worth reflecting upon and one which ought to spur us on to glorify God in His church s mission Well qualified to share his gifts as writer and interpreter Dr Renfree is a Canadian Baptist who has given lifelong leadership in the cause of Christ in this country My hope is that the readers of this book will come to understand how Canadian Baptists have sought to serve Christ throughout their history and right up to the present day May God s leading in this historic endeavour cause us to grieve over the errors of the past to rejoice in the grace of God that has marked our joyful times and to firmly resolve to go forth in this day in our land to honour the Baptist name through true humility and servanthood R C Coffin General Secretary Treasurer Canadian Baptist Federation

Padres in No Man's Land, Second Edition Duff Crerar, 2014-08-01 Padres in No Man s Land is the compelling story of brave and deeply committed army chaplains who brought faith and courage to Canada s troops during one of history s most devastating wars Tracing the growth of the Canadian Chaplain Service from its chaotic and controversy ridden early days to its maturation as an efficient field force Duff Crerar highlights both the role of the Service on the battlefield and the personal experiences of the chaplains Refuting the widely held view that chaplains serving overseas were cloistered from front line realities Crerar describes the padres experiences in camps hospitals and on the battlefield He examines how they maintained their faith in the face of death and destruction and explores the bonds forged between chaplains and troops Padres in No Man s Land concludes in the postwar era with the decline of the chaplains hopes for spiritual renewal upon their return to Canada their dreams dashed not by the war but by the subsequent peace

Physics and the Rise of Scientific Research in Canada Yves Gingras,1991-03-01 The teaching of engineering and a change in liberal arts curricula both stimulated by industrial growth encouraged the creation of specialized courses in the sciences By the 1890s Gingras argues trained researchers had begun to appear in Canadian universities The technological demands of the First World War and the founding in 1916 of the National Research Council of Canada NRC accelerated the growth of scientific research The Transactions of the Royal Society of Canada could no longer publish everything submitted to it because of the disproportionately large number of research papers from the fields of science In response the NRC created the Canadian Journal of Research a journal specifically dedicated to the publication of scientific research By 1930 a stable national system of scientific research was in place in Canada Following the dramatic increase in the national importance of their disciplines scientists faced the problem of social identity Gingras demonstrates that in the case of physics this took the form of a conflict between those who promoted a professional orientation necessary to compete successfully with engineers in the labour market and those mainly in the universities who were concerned with problems of the discipline such as publication internal management and awards Physics and the Rise of Scientific Research in Canada is the first book to provide a general analysis of the origins of scientific research in Canadian universities Gingras proposes a sociological model of the formation of scientific disciplines distinguishing the profession from the discipline two notions often confused by historians and sociologists of science

Canada's Department of External Affairs, Volume 1 John Hilliker,1990-01-01 After an introductory chapter dealing with the conduct of external relations before 1909 the book examines three distinct phases of the department s development Although the department had modest beginnings under the first under secretary Sir Joseph Pope 1909 1925 it was seen by his successor O D Skelton as an important instrument for the assertion of Canadian autonomy Skelton presided over the establishment of the first Canadian diplomatic missions abroad and was responsible for the creation of a foreign service to staff them With the outbreak of the war in 1939 both the responsibilities and the size of the department underwent substantial organizational change under Norman Robertson who became under secretary after Skelton s death in 1941 Taken together the criteria for recruitment introduced by Skelton and the reorganization which took place under Robertson gave the department many of the features which have characterized it as a branch of the Canadian government The further development of the institution will be examined in a second volume covering the years 1946 1968 Since the prime minister was secretary of state for External Affairs during much of the period covered by volume I the book contributes to an understanding of the operation of the Canadian government as a whole as well as of a single department It also examines the policy making process and therefore will be of interest to students of international relations as well as of public administration
