Submerged Landscapes of the European Continental Shelf Nicholas C. Flemming, Jan Harff, Delminda Moura, Anthony Burgess, Geoffrey N. Bailey, 2017-08-07 Quaternary Paleoenvironments examines the drowned landscapes exposed as extensive and attractive territory for prehistoric human settlement during the Ice Ages of the Pleistocene when sea levels dropped to 120m 135m below their current levels This volume provides an overview of the geological geomorphological climatic and sea level history of the European continental shelf as a whole as well as a series of detailed regional reviews for each of the major sea basins The nature and variable attractions of the landscapes and resources available for human exploitation are examined as are the conditions under which archaeological sites and landscape features are likely to have been preserved destroyed or buried by sediment during sea level rise The authors also discuss the extent to which we can predict where to look for drowned landscapes with the greatest chance of success with frequent reference to examples of preserved prehistoric sites in different submerged environments Quaternary Paleoenvironments will be of interest to archaeologists geologists marine scientists palaeoanthropologists cultural heritage managers geographers and all those with an interest in the drowned landscapes of the continental shelf European Glacial Landscapes David Palacios, Philip D. Hughes, Jose M. Garcia-Ruiz, Nuria de Andrés, 2022-09-16 European Glacial Landscapes Last Deglaciation brings together relevant experts on the history of glaciers and their impact on the landscape of the main European regions Soon after the Last Glacial Maximum a rapid process of the glacial retreat began throughout Europe This was interrupted several times by abrupt climate cooling which caused rapid although moderate re advance of the glaciers until the beginning of the Holocene when the climate became relatively stable and warm These successive glacial advances and retreats during the Last Deglaciation have shaped much of the European landscape reflecting abrupt climatic fluctuations As our knowledge of abrupt climate changes since the Last Glacial Maximum progresses new uncertainties arise These are critical for understanding how climate changes disseminate through Europe such as the lag between climate changes and the expansion or contraction of glaciers as well as the role of the large continental ice sheets on the European climate All these contributions are included in the book which is an invaluable resource for geographers geologists environmental scientists paleoclimatologists as well as researchers in physics and earth sciences Provides a synthesis that highlights the main similarities or differences through both space and time during the Last Deglaciation of Europe Features research from experts in quaternary geomorphology palaeoclimatology palaeoceanography and palaeoglaciology on the Last Deglaciation in Europe during Termination 1 and the important Late Pleistocene Holocene transition Includes detailed colour figures and maps providing a comprehensive overview of the glacial landscapes of Europe during the last deglaciation Quaternary Landscapes Linda C. K. Shane, Edward J. Cushing, National Science Foundation (U.S.). Climate Dynamics Program, University of Minnesota, 1991 Landscapes and Societies I. Peter Martini, Ward Chesworth, 2010-11-09 This book contains case histories intended to show how societies and landscapes interact The range of interest stretches from the small groups of the earliest Neolithic through Bronze and Iron Age civilizations to modern nation states The coexistence is of its very nature reciprocal resulting in changes in both society and landscape In some instances the adaptations may be judged successful in terms of human needs but failure is common and even the successful cases are ephemeral when judged in the light of history Comparisons and contrasts between the various cases can be made at various scales from global through inter regional to regional and smaller scales At the global scale all societies deal with major problems of climate change sea level rise and with ubiquitous problems such as soil erosion and landscape degradation Inter regional differences bring out significant detail with one region suffering from drought when another suffers from widespread flooding For example desertification in North Africa and the Near East contrasts with the temperate countries of southern Europe where the landscape effects of deforestation are more obvious And China and Japan offer an interesting comparison from the standpoint of geological hazards to society large unpredictable and massively erosive rivers in the former case volcanoes and accompanying earthquakes in the latter Within the North African region localized climatic changes led to abandonment of some desertified areas with successful adjustments in others with the ultimate evolution into the formative civilization of Egypt the Gift of the Nile At a smaller scale it is instructive to compare the city states of the Medieval and early Renaissance times that developed in the watershed of a single river the Arno in Tuscany and how Pisa Siena and Florence developed and reached their golden periods at different times depending on their location with regard to proximity to the sea to the main trunk of the river or in the adjacent hills Also noteworthy is the role of technology in opening up opportunities for a society Consider the Netherlands and how its history has been formed by the technical problem of a populous society dealing with too much water as an inexorably rising sea threatens their landscape or the case of communities in Colorado trying to deal with too little water for farmers and domestic users by bringing their supply over a mountain chain These and others cases included in the book provide evidence of the successes near misses and outright failures that mark our ongoing relationship with landscape throughout the history of Homo sapiens The hope is that compilations such as this will lead to a better understanding of the issue and provide us with knowledge valuable in planning a sustainable modus vivendi between humanity and landscape for as long as possible Audience The book will interest geomorphologists geologists geographers archaeologists anthropologists ecologists environmentalists historians and others in the academic world Practically planners and managers interested in landscape environmental conditions will find interest in these pages and more generally the increasingly large body of opinion in the general public with concerns about Planet Earth will find much to inform their opinions Extra material The color plate section is available at <http://extras.springer.com> Untangling the Quaternary Period Richard B. Waite, Glenn D. Thackray, Alan R. Gillespie, 2021-04-20 This volume brings together nineteen papers of interdisciplinary Quaternary science honoring Stephen Porter Special Paper 548 features papers from six continents on wide ranging topics including glaciation paleoecology landscape evolution megafloods and loess The topical and geographical range of the papers as well as their interdisciplinary nature honor Porter's distinct approach to Quaternary science and leadership that influence the field to this day Quaternary Landscapes Linda C. K. Shane, 1991 Quaternary of the Levant Yehouda Enzel, Ofer Bar-Yosef, 2017-04-27 Over eighty contributions from leading researchers review 2.5 million years of environmental change and human cultural evolution in the Levant Encyclopedia of Quaternary Science Cary Mock, 2013-03-25 The second revised edition of the Encyclopedia of Quaternary Science Four Volume Set provides both students and professionals with an up to date reference work on this important and highly varied area of research There are lots of new articles and many of the articles that appeared in the first edition have been updated to reflect advances in knowledge since 2006 when the original articles were written The second edition will contain about 375 articles written by leading experts around the world This major reference work is richly illustrated with more than 3 000 illustrations most of them in colour Research in the Quaternary sciences has advanced greatly in the last 10 years especially since topics like global climate change geologic hazards and soil erosion were put high on the political agenda This second edition builds upon its award winning predecessor to provide the reader assured quality along with essential updated coverage Contains 357 broad ranging articles 4310 pages written at a level that allows undergraduate students to understand the material while providing active researchers with a ready reference resource for information in the field Facilitates teaching and learning The first edition was regarded by many as the most significant single overview of Quaternary science ever yet Editor in Chief Scott Elias has managed to surpass that in this second edition by securing even more expert reviews whilst retaining his renowned editorial consistency that enables readers to navigate seamlessly from one unfamiliar topic to the next

Cultural Landscapes and Environmental Change Lesley Head, 2017-09-25 Cultural landscapes are usually understood within physical geography as those transformed by human action As human influence on the earth increases advances in palaeocological reconstruction have also allowed for new interpretations of the evidence for the earliest human impacts on the environment It is essential that such evidence is examined in the context of modern trends in social sciences and humanities This stimulating new book argues that convergence of the two approaches can provide a more holistic understanding of long term physical and human processes Split into two major sections this book attempts to bridge the gap between the sciences and humanities The first section provides an analysis of the methodological tools employed in examining processes of environmental change Empirical research in the fields of palaeocology and Quaternary studies is combined with the latest theoretical views of nature and landscape occurring in cultural geography archaeology and anthropology The author examines the way in which environmental management decisions are made The book then moves on to discuss the relevance of this perspective to contemporary issues through a wide variety of international case studies including World Heritage protection landscape preservation indigenous people and cultural tourism Geology and Archaeology J. Harff, G. Bailey, F. Lüth, 2016-01-05 Sea level change has influenced human population globally since prehistoric times. Even in early phases of cultural development, human populations were faced with marine regression and transgression as a result of changing climate and corresponding glacio isostatic adjustment. Global marine regression during the last glaciation changed the palaeogeography of the continental shelf, converting former marine environments to attractive terrestrial habitats for prehistoric humans. These areas of the shelf were used as hunting and gathering areas, as migration routes between continents, and most probably witnessed the earliest developments in seafaring and marine exploitation until the postglacial transgression re-submerged these palaeo-landscapes. Based on modern marine research technologies and the integration of large databases, proxy data are increasingly available for the reconstruction of Quaternary submerged landscapes. Also, prehistoric archaeological remains from the recent sea bottom are shedding new light on human prehistoric development driven by rapidly changing climate and environment. This publication contributes to the exchange of ideas and new results in this young and challenging field of underwater palaeoenvironmental investigation. Quaternary

Landscapes in Iowa Robert V. Ruhe, 1969 Weathering and Landscape Evolution A. Turkington, J. Phillips, S. Campbell, Sean W. Campbell, 2005-08-04 In recognition of the fundamental control exerted by weathering on landscape evolution and topographic development, the 35th Binghamton Geomorphology Symposium was convened under the theme of Weathering and Landscape Evolution. The papers and posters presented at the conference imparted the state of the art in weathering geomorphology, tackled the issue of scale linkage in geomorphic studies, and offered a vehicle for interdisciplinary communication on research into weathering and landscape evolution. The papers included in this book are encapsulated here under the general themes of weathering, mantles, weathering, and relative dating, weathering and denudation, weathering processes and controls, and the big picture. Contains 15 papers on the techniques and methodologies of research. Provides an up-to-date overview of various aspects of weathering and landscape evolution, complemented by a number of excellent case studies. Contains a wealth of basic field data and relevant information. Foundation Papers in Landscape Ecology John A.
