Winston Churchill
1936

Winston Churchill, P.C.

THE building of the Queen Mary represents the decision of Great Britain to regain the Blue Ribbon of the Atlantic passenger service. This decision has been long delayed and many circumstances most venacious to British minds have obstructed it.

After the war was over, when peace, Germany was disappointed in volume of cargo sent to her, therefore started the two power, Emperor and Roman, the

the last word in magnificence, luxury and modernity, and which eclipsed all rivals by class or fleet speed. Germany then mastered upon the transatlantic passenger trade in the most favourable circumstances, competing with her own old ships, now in British hands, with brand-new vessels built on money borrowed from the Allies! Great Britain, weighed down with debt, smitten by the economic blizzard, and disappointed in German repayment, found herself unable to put contemporary vessels in the water to meet this new challenge.

There for a time the matter rested in a most lamentable plight. Meanwhile other countries, particularly Italy, built great and splendid ships of the very latest type. Since the Aquitania was built no transatlantic liner of the first order had been laid down in British yards. Nearly a quarter of a century had therefore passed without any opportunity being given to our designers to construct the mammoth vessels, in the light of the knowledge of new tastes and requirements of the travelling public, which have developed since then. The glory of the Aquitania and Mauretania is that they have, for all this period, been able to make head against the tremendous state-aided competition of ships very much younger than themselves. It is from this fact that we may draw good hopes for the future.

In all questions of re-equipment on a large scale, whoever can afford to wait till the last has the opportunity of going from the bottom to the top of the class. Such was the position when Great Britain began to recover from the world slump of 1929 and 1930. The ordered and orthodox system of our business enabled both public and private enterprise to look forward to a new and successful effort to re-establish our industrial and maritime supremacy. The decision to build the Queen Mary, which must of course carry with it the building of a sister ship, was the result of this revival. Her launch by Her Majesty Queen Mary in 1934 was an occasion of national rejoicing. Her entry into the transatlantic passenger service this month will signify and symbolize the resolve of British industry and the British nation to meet their long-unfulfilled

Churchill by Himself Winston S. Churchill, 2013-09-19 Quotations by the great statesman who helped lead Britain through two world wars Magisterial Should be in the library of every Churchill aficionado American Spectator We shall fight on the beaches we shall fight on the landing grounds we shall fight in the fields and in the streets we shall fight in the hills we shall never surrender Millions have been moved by these words and by the hundreds of speeches given by Winston S Churchill to rally the British public spur its government to armament against Hitler and defend the causes for which he believed Churchill by Himself is the first collection of quotations from a leader who had as much talent for wit as he had for inspiration and exhortation Edited by renowned Churchill scholar Richard Langworth this volume is the definitive collection of important quotes from one of the twentieth century s most persuasive and brilliant orators whose writings earned him a Nobel Prize in Literature in 1953

The Definitive Wit of Winston Churchill Tim Wendel, Richard Langworth, 2010-10 Charismatic erudite and often controversial Winston Churchill was one of the most inspiring leaders of the twentieth century and one of its greatest wits His much celebrated sense of fun and mischief has led to many of his jokes and ripostes becoming almost as well known as his famous wartime speeches Gloriously comprehensive The Definitive Wit of Winston Churchill includes all Churchill s most famous quips and witticisms and even an appendix of quotes falsely attributed to Churchill The only book of its kind to be sanctioned by the Churchill estate and to track down each quotation to its source it captures the great statesman at his most eloquent witty and engaging and makes a great gift for the holidays and special occasions year round

Designing Liners Anne Wealleans, 2006-09-27 This in depth history of the interior design of ocean liners surveys the transient history of interior design in relation to the development of passenger shipping from commissioning by the line owners methods and sources for the original creation of designs through to its construction use and influence It is a short lived branch of architecture and design lasting an average of fifteen years As the design and taste mirrors and reinforces cultural assumptions about national identity gender class and race not only did the interiors of ocean going liners reflect the changing hierarchies of society and shifting patterns in globalization but the glamour and styling of the liners were reflected back into the design of interiors on land Combining design history architecture history material and visual cultures Designing Liners is a richly multidisciplinary work for those studying or researching this application of interior design

Interior Design and Identity Susie McKellar, Penny Sparke, 2004-11-27 This chronologically arranged set of case studies looks at how interior design has constantly redefined itself as a manifestation of culture from the eighteenth century to the present day The book looks at the amateur activities of female home makers in search of creative outlets and married couples seeking to modernize their homes as well as the contributions of early professional female interior decorators and later male interior designers It also considers the more anonymous role of commercial enterprises such as hairdressing salons cruise ships or modern offices Issues relating to interiority gender and the relationship of the public sphere are also considered opening up a new level of design historical enquiry      Designing Liners Anne Massey, 2020-11-29 Designing Liners A History of Interior Design Afloat covers the interior design of these floating palaces from the mid nineteenth century to the twenty first century In this new edition the design heritage of the ocean liner is also explored in this age of a growing holiday cruise market The book offers the first history and analysis of this highly significant aspect of the design of interiors which mirrors and reinforces cultural assumptions about national identity gender class and ethnicity The interiors of ocean liners reflect the changing hierarchies of society and shifting patterns of globalization The trajectory of the professionalization of interior design is the connecting narrative of the book from the local decorating firm to the internationally renowned architect It is an important addition to interior design research and takes this transitory building type as its subject This book provides the first survey of the transient history of interior design in relation to the development of passenger shipping The history of these great ship interiors is tracked from their commissioning by the line owners the materials methods and sources for the initial creation their construction their use and their reception The demise and re purposing of the interiors is also covered in this new edition with additional material on the South African Union Castle and P O Lines Drawing on a broad range of original research Anne Massey s approach combines interior design studies design history architectural history and maritime studies The new edition has been carefully designed to include black and white and colour illustrations      Truth ,1895
