Parliament, 1903      Makers and Making Of Indigenous Australian Museum Collections Nicolas Peterson, Lindy Allen, Louise Hamby, 2008-08-16 This volume of original essays brings together for the first time histories of the making and of the makers of most of the major Indigenous Australian museum collections These collections are a principal source of information on how Aboriginal people lived in the past Knowing the context in which any collection was created the intellectual frameworks within which the collectors were working their collecting practices what they failed to collect and what Aboriginal people withheld is vital to understanding how any collection relates to the Aboriginal society from which it was derived Once made collections have had mixed fates some have become the jewel of a museum s holdings while others have been divided and dispersed across the world or retained but neglected The essays in this volume raise issues about representation institutional policies the periodisation of collecting intellectual history material culture studies Aboriginal culture and the idea of a collection      Court Reporting in Australia Peter Gregory, 2006-05-15 This 2005 book uses the experience of reporters and subeditors to present a practical view of reporting on the legal system      Commerce Reports, 1918      Marjorie Norval. The girl a railway station swallowed. Ken Blanch, 2014-09-10 This is the story of a woman who vanished without trace from Brisbane s Central Station in November 1938 Before her disappearance she wet up an elaborate series of Deceptions that has made it impossible for anyone to establish her fate This fresh analysis of her known and possible movements on that day suggests that her disappearance stemmed from a sinister plot planned at high police and political levels It highlights suspicions that efforts were made deliberately to suppress important evidence at an in quest that unsuccessfully investigated her undoubted death at the hands of an abortionist and that vital evidence never heard by a court still exists A proper examination of this evidence today might yet solve the Marjorie Norval mystery The American Occupation of Australia, 1941-45 John McKerrrow, 2013-07-26 Over 120 000 American troops were stationed in Australia during the Second World War Hundreds of thousands more passed through the country between 1941 and 1945 Because of Japan's conquest of the Philippines in 1942 Australia was transformed into the principle base for the United States Army in the Southwest Pacific This American occupation of an allied country resulted in several areas of tension between friends The examination of these fault lines which have for the most part received little attention from historians is the purpose of this book Jurisdictional and policing disputes and problems between Australian workers and American authorities are examined American personnel committed thousands of crimes during the occupation many of which were notorious How Australians reacted to these crimes and how the American military sought to limit their negative effect on wartime relations is a major focus of this book How the US military tried to protect GIs from prosecution by spiriting them out of Australia is also explored Other areas of tension such as race and gender relations which have been looked at by other historians are examined in a new light this book provides novel insights and challenges the existing historiography with regard to relations between black Americans and Australian civilians How leaders on both sides in particular Douglas MacArthur and John Curtin managed crises and relations between civilians and GIs are studied Sexual relations an area of particular concern for authorities were directed towards short term flings and prostitution In contrast authorities did all they could to discourage long term relations i.e. marriage Authorities obsessed over interracial sexual relations and doubled efforts to discourage them Conflicts between American personnel and Australian civilians during the occupation did not threaten the alliance against Japan Nevertheless there were myriad problems between allies that led to friction and ill will These problems demanded management from above The Path to Professionalism Philip Geoffrey Bentley, David Dunstan, 2006 Business

Special Publication R. A. Eggleton, 1998 Company Towns Neil White, 2012-05-07 Company towns are often portrayed as powerless communities fundamentally dependent on the outside influence of global capital Neil White challenges this interpretation by exploring how these communities were altered at the local level through human agency missteps and chance Far from being homogeneous these company towns are shown to be unique communities with equally unique histories Company Towns provides a multi-layered international comparison between the development of two settlements the mining community of Mount Isa Queensland Australia and the mill town of Corner Brook Newfoundland Canada White pinpoints crucial differences between the towns' experiences by contrasting each region's histories from various perspectives business urban labour civic and socio cultural Company Towns also makes use of a sizable collection of previously neglected oral history sources and town records providing an illuminating portrait of divergence that defies efforts to impose structure on the company town phenomenon      Sustainable Urban and Regional Infrastructure Development: Technologies, Applications and Management Yigitcanlar, Tan,2010-05-31 This book aims to bridge the gap in the current literature by addressing the overall problems present in major infrastructure in society and the technologies that may be applied to overcome these problems Provided by publisher      Sidney Nolan Paula Dredge,2020-01-07 The newest addition to the Artist s Materials series offers the first technical study of one of Australia s greatest modern painters Sidney Nolan 1917 1992 is renowned for an oeuvre ranging from views of Melbourne s seaside suburb St Kilda to an iconic series on outlaw hero Ned Kelly Working in factories from age fourteen Nolan began his training spray painting signs on glass which was followed by a job cutting and painting displays for Fayrefield Hats Such employment offered him firsthand experience with commercial synthetic paints developed during the 1920s and 1930s In 1939 having given up his job at Fayrefield in pursuit of an artistic career Nolan became obsessed with European abstract paintings he saw reproduced in books and magazines With little regard for the longevity of his work he began to exploit materials such as boot polish dyes secondhand canvas tissue paper and old photographs in addition to commercial and household paints He continued to embrace new materials after moving to London in 1953 Oil based Ripolin enamel is known to have been Nolan s preferred paint but this fascinating study certain to appeal to conservators conservation scientists art historians and general readers with an interest in modern art reveals his equally innovative use of nitrocellulose alkyds and other diverse materials      *Joint Volumes of Papers Presented to the Legislative Council and Legislative Assembly New South Wales.
