Literature and Quest Christine Arkininstall, 1993 What does the word quest conjure up A journey in the hope of fulfillment an exploration of identities questions the nature of research itself or the darker side of quest in the form of conquest colonisation and displacement These are some of the threads taken up and developed in this collection of essays by established and emerging scholars Germaine Greer Italo Calvino Umberto Eco Serge Doubrovsky A S Byatt Novalis Melville Val ry Beckett Stanislaw Niewo Victor Segalen Sibilla Aleramo Dacia Maraini Defoe Tournier Coetzee Sor Juana In s de la Cruz Cintio Vitier Domingo del Monte Ram n de Palma Pablo Armando Fern ndez Hubert Aquin Anne H bert Homer Proust Balzac and Robbe Grillet provide the literary voices that invite these scholars to embark on their own quests into subjects as diverse as the relationships between texts authors and readers the initiatic journey spirituality and enlightenment female autobiography and identity oppression imperialism and postcolonial discourses not to mention the history of the quest itself The result is a rich tapestry of thought provoking insights into the inexhaustible connections between literature and quest

The Quest for a Female Identity Donald MacKay Wonderly, 2003 The Quest for a Female Identity is a review and analysis of the disparaged condition of females focusing on their status in the United States since the 1960s A program for both parents and educational institutions designed to ameliorate the situation is described

Female Identity in Feminist Writings Dr. Vaishali Dahiya, 2022-05-25 Female Identity in Feminist Writings revolves around the thought that Feminism is an ideology with a difference This makes it peculiarly difficult to analyze and criticize the terms usually applied to ideologies If women were to be truly equal to men then there would be a need for female emancipation within both private and public spheres Perhaps men or the state should have a greater role in child rearing realizing women have a greater role in every sphere Perhaps there should be a wage for the work done by women in the private sphere Whatever the answer there is agreement among feminists that such divisions are not natural or biological in origin but social and as such can be reformed by social and political change

Female Identity Formation and Response to Intimate Violence Anne Kiome Gatobu, 2013-02-19 This book is a vital resource for intervention programs educators social workers counselors psychotherapists pastoral counselors and survivors of intimate violence and their families It gives the reader access to the inner emotions and psychological mechanisms of survivors of intimate violence in collective cultures that work to hold them captive in violent relationships The author integrates the psychological developmental theories of Heinz Kohut and Erik Erikson with social cultural and religious aspects to demonstrate the collusive power of what she calls the orienting system psychosocial and religious cultural force in the formation of a female sense of self to investigate the peculiar range of responses of females to intimate violence Using theoretical and empirical research the author claims that the demeanor and functionality of the female survivor of intimate violence is an adaptation that enables her to retain her socially prescribed roles which she appropriates as a social identity and sense of self A surprising aspect of this work is the transformative power of religion also resourced in the orienting system in transforming the psychic hold of survivors to cathected self objects to self images that approximate a self in healthy relationship with God Consequently the energies and investment released can be redirected to cohere in self identities that can optimize drive thrive and relationality

Revising Herself Ruthellen Josselson, 1998-04-23 In 1972 Ruthellen Josselson was a young psychologist fascinated by the riddle of how a woman creates an identity and chooses one path over another in life particularly in the face of the nascent feminist movement which challenged as never before the traditional role models of earlier generations Selecting at random thirty young women in their last year of college Josselson undertook a groundbreaking study that would follow these women's personal odysseys over the next twenty two years from graduation to midlife What she learned about the ways women reinvent themselves in an ever changing world is the subject of Revising Herself a myth shattering look at both a unique generation of American women on the front lines of wrenching social change and at the conflicts and compromises facing women today With stunning candor and hard won insight the ordinary and anonymous women in Josselson's study reveal how much more complex and interesting real women's lives are than the one dimensional stereotypes often portrayed in the media Dismissing a traditional stage theory of development as overly simplistic Josselson identifies four trajectories that women take from adolescence to adulthood Guardians are the good girls high achieving and committed to fulfilling their family's expectations but rigid in outlook and resistant to change Pathmakers are not afraid of risk or commitment striving to balance their own needs with others The often idealistic Searchers are overwhelmed by choice and unable to make commitments while Drifters live only for the moment avoiding choice and an exploration of identity Reflecting the degree to which women take risks make choices and form commitments these paths form a foundation for adulthood but they also lead to surprises at midlife Guardians seem strikingly able to cut loose from earlier traditional patterns while many Drifters have found themselves sometimes in quite traditional ways And coming of age just as the feminist movement gathered momentum the women in Josselson's study were the first to confront many contemporary issues not faced by their mothers or their mothers' mothers How does an Irish Catholic contemplate an abortion How does a woman whose parents believe education is wasted on a daughter find the will to apply to medical school In examining these questions and others Josselson shows that the forging of a woman's identity whatever her path is ongoing a balancing of the need for self assertion against the equally compelling need for relationships Women create their identities along the seams of both competence and connection and continually revise what they have made Allowing women to define themselves in their own terms Revising Herself holds up a provocative mirror in which readers can reflect upon their own life choices Whether a Guardian Pathmaker Searcher or Drifter readers will recognize themselves in these women's experiences and gain new insight into how we construct our identities over a lifetime

The Feminization of Quest-Romance Dana A.

Heller, 2014-03-19 What happens when a woman dares to imagine herself a hero? Questing she sets out for unknown regions. Lighting a torch she elicits from the darkness stories never told or heard before. The woman hero sails against the tides of great legends that recount the adventures of heroic men, legends deemed universal, timeless and essential to our understanding of the natural order that holds us and completes us in its spiral. Yet these myths and rituals do not fulfill her need for an empowering self image nor do they grant her the mobility she requires to imagine, enact and represent her quest for authentic self knowledge. The Feminization of Quest Romance proposes that a female quest is a revolutionary step in both literary and cultural terms. Indeed, despite the difficulty that women writers face in challenging myths, rituals, psychological theories and literary conventions deemed universal by a culture that exalts masculine ideals and universalizes male experience, a number of revolutionary texts have come into existence in the second half of the twentieth century by such American women writers as Jean Stafford, Mary McCarthy, Anne Moody, Marilynne Robinson and Mona Simpson, all of them working to redefine the literary portrayal of American women's quests. They work in part by presenting questing female characters who refuse to accept the roles accorded them by restrictive social norms, even if it means sacrificing themselves in the name of rebellion. In later texts, female heroes survive their lighting out experiences to explore diverse alternatives to the limiting roles that have circumscribed female development. This study of The Mountain Lion, Memories of a Catholic Girlhood, Coming of Age in Mississippi, Housekeeping and Anywhere but Here identifies transformations of the quest romance that support a viable theory of female development and offer literary patterns that challenge the male monopoly on transformative knowledge and heroic action.

Narrative Structure and Reader Formation in Lady Mary Wroth's Urania

Rahel Orgis, 2016-12-01 Narrative Structure and Reader Formation in Lady Mary Wroth's Urania offers the first systematic formal and thematic analysis of Wroth's Urania in its historical context and explores the structural means by which Wroth fashions her readership. The book thus has a dual focus at once on narrative art and reader formation. It makes two original claims: the first being that the Urania is not the unorganized accumulation of stories critics have tended to present it as, but a work of sophisticated narrative structures, i.e. a complex text in a positive sense. These structures are revealed by means of a circumspect narratological analysis of the formal and thematic patterns that organise the Urania. Such an analysis furthers our understanding of the reading strategies that Wroth encourages. The second claim is then that through the careful structuring of her text Wroth seeks to create her own ideal readership. More precisely, the formal and thematic structures of the Urania engage with readers' expectations, inviting them to reflect on prominent thematic issues and respond to the text as what early modern prefaces term 'good readers'. Combining narratological methods with a generic perspective and taking into account the work of book historians on early modern reading practices, this monograph provides a new approach to the Urania, supplementing the typically gender or auto-biographically oriented interpretations of the romance. Moreover, it contributes to the study of early modern prose narrative and romance and exemplifies how historically contextualised narratological analysis may yield new insights and profit research on reading strategies

Material Girls Kathleen Stock, 2021-05-06 A clear concise easy to read account of the issues between sex gender and feminism an important book Evening Standard A call for cool heads at a time of great heat and a vital reminder that revolutions don't always end well Sunday Times Material Girls is a timely and trenchant critique of the influential theory that we all have an inner feeling known as a gender identity and that this feeling is more socially significant than our biological sex Professor Kathleen Stock surveys the philosophical ideas that led to this point and closely interrogates each one from De Beauvoir's statement that 'One is not born but rather becomes a woman' an assertion she contends has been misinterpreted and repurposed to Judith Butler's claim that language creates biological reality rather than describing it She looks at biological sex in a range of important contexts including women only spaces and resources healthcare epidemiology political organization and data collection Material Girls makes a clear humane and feminist case for our retaining the ability to discuss reality and concludes with a positive vision for the future in which trans rights activists and feminists can collaborate to achieve some of their political aims

Representations of Female Identity in Italy Silvia Giovanardi Byer, Fabiana Cecchini, 2017-05-11 This volume explores a variety of iconic female characters in Italian literature art and film who depict distinct representatives of female identity within this national culture The contributors here apply various methodologies to characterize the evolution of women's identity and their representation in such expressive modalities drawing from literature film drama history the humanities media and cultural studies Cross genre cross cultural and cross national explorations are also utilised here in order to underline the multifaceted ways in which de facto female characterization occurred

Voicing the Self Carmen Rueda Ramos, 2011-11-28 Este libro analiza la manera con la que Lee Smith ha dado voz a todos los aspectos de su experiencia tanto como mujer artista que vive en la América contemporánea como nativa de la Appalachia una región sureña que todavía conserva un fuerte sentimiento de la tradición oral y de vínculos con la comunidad Smith revisa y altera el lenguaje y los mitos que han condicionado sus búsquedas de la identidad y han silenciado sus voces Al realizarlo explora la relación entre el heroísmo femenino y la creatividad de las mujeres como algo distinto a la de los hombres En su lucha las heroínas de Smith reflejan el desarrollo personal y artístico de la escritora La relación conflictiva de sus personajes femeninos con la autoafirmación y con el mundo de la Appalachia revela los propios sentimientos ambivalentes de Smith hacia el concepto de individualidad y hacia sus raíces culturales

Violence and Belonging Vigdis Broch-Due, 2004-06-01 Modernization in Africa has created new problems as well as new freedoms Multiparty democracy resource privatization and changing wealth relationships have not always created stable and prosperous communities and violence continues to be endemic in many areas of African life from civil war and political strife to violent clashes between genders generations classes and ethnic groups Violence and Belonging explores the crucial formative role of violence in shaping people's ideas of who they are in uncertain postcolonial contexts where as resources dwindle and wealth is contested identities and ideas of belonging become a focal area of conflict and negotiation Focusing on fieldwork from across the continent its case studies consider how routine everyday violence ties in with wider regional and political upheavals and how individuals experience and legitimize violence in its different forms The Zimbabwean and Sudanese civil wars Kenyan Kikuyu domestic conflicts Rwandan massacres and South African Truth and Reconciliation processes are among the contexts explored Female Identity in Contemporary Fictional Purgatorial Worlds Simon Bacon,2023-08-10 Examining fictional purgatorial worlds in contemporary literature film and video games this book examines the way in which the female characters trapped within them construct identity positions of resistance and change With the rise of populism the Alt Right and isolationism in world politics in the second decade of the 21st Century parallel purgatorial worlds seem to currently proliferate within popular culture across all media including television shows and films such as The Handmaids Tale Us Watchmen and Margaret Atwood s The Testaments among many others These texts depict alternate worlds that express the darkness and violence of our own arguably none more so than for women Featuring essays from a broad range of international contributors on topics as wide ranging as mental health in the Silent Hill franchise and liminal spaces in the work of David Mitchell this book is an original timely and hope filled analysis about overcoming the confines of a patriarchal fundamentalist world where the female imaginative might just be the last best hope Realism and the American Dramatic Tradition William W. Demastes,1996-08-30 This book reconsiders realism on the American stage by addressing the great variety and richness of the plays that form the American theatre canon
