Question Of Color:

Class Struggle and the Color Line Paul M. Heideman, 2018 A thoughtful collection of original documents highlighting the deep early roots of Black radicalism in the US from 1900-1930 The Problem of the Colorblind Brandi Wilkins Catanese, 2011-06-07 Catanese's beautifully written and cogently argued book addresses one of the most persistent sociopolitical questions in contemporary culture. She suggests that it is performance and the difference it makes that complicates the terms by which we can even understand multicultural and colorblind concepts. A tremendously illuminating study that promises to break new ground in the fields of theatre and performance studies, African American studies, feminist theory, cultural studies, and film and television studies. Daphne Brooks, Princeton University. Adds immeasurably to the ways in which we can understand the contradictory aspects of racial discourse and performance as they have emerged during the last two decades. An ambitious, smart, and fascinating book. Jennifer Devere Brody, Duke University. Are we a multicultural nation or a colorblind one? The Problem of the Colorblind examines this vexed question in American culture by focusing on black performance in theater, film, and television. The practice of colorblind casting, choosing actors without regard to race, assumes a performing body that is somehow race neutral. But where exactly is race neutrality located: in the eyes of the spectator, in the body of the performer, in the medium of the performance? In analyzing and theorizing such questions, Brandi Wilkins Catanese explores a range of engaging and provocative subjects, including the infamous debate between playwright August Wilson and drama critic Robert Brustein, the film career of Denzel Washington, Suzan-Lori Parks's play Venus, the phenomenon of postblackness as represented in the Studio Museum in Harlem's Freestyle exhibition, the performer Ice Cube's transformation from icon of gangsta rap to family movie star, and the controversial reality television series Black White. Concluding that ideologies of transcendence are ahistorical and therefore unenforceable, Catanese advances the concept of racial transgression, a process of acknowledging rather than ignoring the racialized histories of performance, as her chapters move between readings of dramatic texts, films, popular culture, and debates in critical race theory and the culture wars.

Asking Questions Robert Fiengo, 2007-05-03 Asking Questions examines a central phenomenon of language: the use of sentences to ask questions. Although there is a sizable literature on the syntax and semantics of interrogatives, the logic of questions and the speech act of questioning no one has tried to put the syntax and semantics together with the speech acts over the full range of phenomena we pretheoretically think of as asking questions. Robert Fiengo not only does this but also takes up some more foundational issues in the theory of language. By positioning the findings of contemporary grammatical theorizing within the larger domain of language use, Fiengo challenges the use theorist to acknowledge the importance of grammatical form and the grammarian to acknowledge the importance of use. In addition to developing an Austinian distinction between four questioning speech acts and a proposal concerning the philosophy of language, Asking Questions contains a useful discussion of the type-token distinction and how use of language compares with use of other things. Fiengo also considers the nature of multiple questions revealing what one must know to ask them and what speech acts one may perform when asking them Asking Questions advances our understanding of a wide range of issues in a number of important respects Scholars and students of linguistics and philosophy will find plenty to interest them in this pioneering work "I Don't See Color" Bettina Bergo, Tracey Nicholls, 2015-06-18 Who is white and why should we care There was a time when the immigrants of New York City's Lower East Side the Irish the Poles the Italians the Russian Jews were not white but now they are There was a time when the French speaking working classes of Quebec were told to speak white that is to speak English Whiteness is an allegorical category before it is demographic This volume gathers together some of the most influential scholars of privilege and marginalization in philosophy sociology economics psychology literature and history to examine the idea of whiteness Drawing from their diverse racial backgrounds and national origins these scholars weave their theoretical insights into essays critically informed by personal narrative This approach known as braided narrative animates the work of award winning author Eula Biss Moved by Biss's fresh and incisive analysis the editors have assembled some of the most creative voices in this dialogue coming together across the disciplines Along with the editors the contributors are Eduardo Bonilla Silva Nyla R Branscombe Drucilla Cornell Lewis R Gordon Paget Henry Ernest Marie Mbonda Peggy McIntosh Mark McMorris Marilyn Nissim Sabat Victor Ray Lilia Moritz Schwarcz Louise Seamster Tracie L Stewart George Yancy and Heidi A Zetzer Americas Peter Winn, 2006-01-25 PRAISE FOR THE PREVIOUS EDITIONS Rare is the book in English that provides a general overview of Latin America and the Caribbean Rarer still is the good topical and largely dispassionate book that contributes to a better understanding of the rest of the hemisphere Peter Winn has managed to produce both Miami Herald This magisterial work provides an accessible and engaging introduction to the complex tapestry of contemporary Latin America and the Caribbean Foreign Affairs A clear level headed snapshot of a region in transition Winn is most interesting when he discusses the larger issues and to his credit he does this often Washington Post Book World Balanced and wide ranging After canvassing the legacies of the European conquerors Winn examines issues of national identity and economic development Other discussions survey internal migration the role of indigenous peoples the complexity of race relations and the treatment of women Publishers Weekly Color Me Beautiful Carole Jackson, 1987-04-12 Color is magic No matter what kind of clothes you like to wear the right colors can make the difference between looking drab and looking radiant You can wear every color of the rainbow Shade makes the difference Using simple guidelines professional color consultant Carole Jackson helps you choose the thirty shades that make you look smashing What color season are you Spring Your colors are clear delicate or bright with yellow undertones Summer Cool soft colors with blue undertones are right for you Autumn You look best in stronger colors with orange and gold undertones Winter Clear vivid or icy colors with blue undertones make you look best Color Me Beautiful will also help you Develop your color personality Learn to perfect your make up color Use color to solve specific figure problems Save money by designing a color coordinated wardrobe for all

Color Conscious Kwame Anthony Appiah, Amy Gutmann, 1998-03-16 In America today the problem of achieving racial justice whether through color blind policies or through affirmative action provokes more noisy name calling than fruitful deliberation In Color Conscious K Anthony Appiah and Amy Gutmann two eminent moral and political philosophers seek to clear the ground for a discussion of the place of race in politics and in our moral lives Provocative and insightful their essays tackle different aspects of the question of racial justice together they provide a compelling response to our nation's most vexing problem Appiah begins by establishing the problematic nature of the idea of race He draws on the scholarly consensus that race has no legitimate biological basis exploring the history of its invention as a social category and showing how the concept has been used to explain differences among groups of people by mistakenly attributing various essences to them Appiah argues that while people of color may still need to gather together in the face of racism under the banner of race they need also to balance carefully the calls of race against the many other dimensions of individual identity and he suggests finally what this might mean for our political life Gutmann examines alternative political responses to racial injustice She argues that American politics cannot be fair to all citizens by being color blind because American society is not color blind Fairness not color blindness is a fundamental principle of justice Whether policies should be color conscious class conscious or both in particular situations depends on an open minded assessment of their fairness Exploring timely issues of university admissions corporate hiring and political representation Gutmann develops a moral perspective that supports a commitment to constitutional democracy Appiah and Gutmann write candidly and carefully presenting many faceted interpretations of a host of controversial issues Rather than supplying simple answers to complex questions they offer to citizens of every color principled starting points for the ongoing national discussions about race

Words and the Mind Barbara Malt, Phillip Wolff, 2010-03

The study of word meanings promises important insights into the nature of the human mind by revealing what people find to be most cognitively significant in their experience However as we learn more about the semantics of various languages we are faced with an interesting problem Different languages seem to be telling us different stories about the mind For example important distinctions made in one language are not necessarily made in others What are we to make of these cross linguistic differences How do they arise Are they created by purely linguistic processes operating over the course of language evolution Or do they reflect fundamental differences in thought In this sea of differences are there any semantic universals Which categories might be given by the genes which by culture and which by language And what might the cross linguistic similarities and differences contribute to our understanding of conceptual and linguistic development The kinds of mapping principles structures and processes that link language and non linguistic knowledge must accommodate not just one language but the rich diversity that has been uncovered The integration of knowledge and methodologies necessary for real progress in answering these questions has happened only recently as experimental approaches have been applied to the cross linguistic study of word meaning In Words and the Mind Barbara Malt and Phillip Wolff present evidence from the leading researchers who are carrying out this empirical work on topics as diverse as spatial relations events emotion terms motion events objects body part terms causation color categories and relational categories By bringing them together Malt and Wolff highlight some of the most exciting cross linguistic and cross cultural work on the language thought interface from a broad array of fields including linguistics anthropology cognitive and developmental psychology and cognitive neuropsychology Their results provide some answers to these questions and new perspectives on the issues surrounding them
