Questioning Misfortune Susan Reynolds Whyte, 1997 Gender, Conflict and Reintegration in Uganda Allen Kiconco, 2021-06-24 This book explores what happened when the tens of thousands of girls now women abducted by Lord s Resistance Army and inducted into their campaign of violence against the Ugandan government returned home Drawing on extensive original research the author considers the challenges which the formerly abducted women have encountered upon their return the strategies which have been used to aid their reintegration and the enduring stigma of abduction which they continue to suffer from The author demonstrates that home a place of hope and comfort can also be a hostile environment which leaves formerly abducted women in precarious and vulnerable situations The many shortcomings in the reintegration process have serious implications for the prospects of post conflict reconstruction Analysing reintegration as a long term and dynamic process which involves complex negotiations and exchanges between hosting communities and formerly abducted women this book will be of interest to scholars policymakers and practitioners working in the fields of post conflict reconstruction African politics and gender and conflict

Sijpt,2018-03-27 Central to this book are Gbigbil women's experiences with different reproductive interruptions miscarriages stillbirths child deaths induced abortions and infertility Rather than consider these events as inherently dissimilar as women do in Western countries the Gbigbil women of eastern Cameroon see them all as instances of wasted wombs that leave their reproductive trajectories hanging in the balance The women must navigate this uncertainty while negotiating their social positions aspirations for the future and the current workings of their bodies Providing an intimate look into these processes Wasted Wombs shows how Gbigbil women constantly shift their interpretations of when a pregnancy starts what it contains and what is lost in case of a reproductive interruption in contrast to Western conceptions of fertility and loss Depending on the context and on their life aspirations be it marriage and motherhood or an educational trajectory and employment or profitable sexual affairs with so called big fish women negotiate and manipulate the meanings and effects of reproductive interruptions Paradoxically they often do so while portraying themselves as powerless Wasted Wombs carefully analyzes such tactics in relation to the various social predicaments that emerge around reproductive interruptions as well as the capricious workings of women's physical bodies

Morality, Hope and Grief Hansjörg Dilger,Ute Luig,2010-05-01 The HIV AIDS epidemic in sub Saharan Africa has been addressed and perceived predominantly through the broad perspectives of social and economic theories as well as public health and development discourses This volume however focuses on the micro politics of illness treatment and death in order to offer innovative insights into the complex processes that shape individual and community responses to AIDS The contributions describe the dilemmas that families communities and health professionals face and shed new light on the transformation of social and moral orders in African societies which have been increasingly marginalised in the context of global modernity

An Anthropological Approach to mHealth Charlotte Hawkins, Patrick Awondo, Daniel Miller, 2024-10-28 This book proposes a radically different anthropological approach to the development and dissemination of mobile health mHealth a rapidly growing sector in healthcare An Anthropological Approach to mHealth is based on ten 16 month ethnographies in settings across Asia Africa Europe and Latin America that showed how conventional health apps may be irrelevant particularly for older people Instead the studies found that many people use their mobile and smartphones for health purposes to a surprising extent They take the communicative apps they have become comfortable with such as LINE WeChat and WhatsApp and are highly creative in turning them into their own health apps These are the practices from which this book seeks to learn in what we call a smart from below approach This body of research also provided many additional insights including the consequences of googling for health information the role of the smartphone in specific settings such as an oncology clinic in Chile or tele psychotherapy in Uganda and the lessons learnt during Covid 19 around the problems in self tracking Overall the authors show how an anthropological approach situated in the observation of everyday life can be the foundation for an alternative but highly promising perspective on the future of mHealth Sharing the Burden of

Worries of the Heart Kenda Mutongi, 2008-09-15 Growing up in the Maragoli community in Kenya Kenda Mutongi encountered a perplexing contradiction While the young teachers at her village school railed against colonialism many of her elders including her widowed mother praised their former British masters In this moving book Mutongi explores how both the challenges and contradictions of colonial rule and the frustrations and failures of independence shaped the lives of Maragoli widows and their complex relations with each other their families and the larger community Throughout the twentieth century and into the twenty first rates of widowhood have been remarkably high in Kenya Yet despite their numbers widows and their families exist at the margins of society and their lives act as a barometer for the harsh realities of rural Kenya Mutongi here argues that widows survive by publicly airing their social economic and political problems their worries of the heart Initially aimed at the men in their community and then their colonial rulers this strategy changed after independence as widows increasingly invoked the language of citizenship to demand their rights from the new leaders of Kenya leaders whose failure to meet the needs of ordinary citizens has led to deep disenchantment and altered Kenyans view of their colonial past An innovative blend of ethnography and historical research Worries of the Heart is a poignant narrative rich with insights into postcolonial Africa

Refugees of the Revolution Diana Allan, 2013-11-13 This carefully crafted ethnography of a Palestinian refugee camp in Beirut reframes the relationship between home and homeland Journal of Palestinian Studies More than half a century after 750 000 Palestinians fled or were expelled from their homeland the popular conception of Palestinian refugees still emphasizes a way of life that ended abruptly with the catastrophe of 1948 And their camps inhabited now for four generations are seen as mere zones of waiting But what would it mean for the generations born in exile to return to a place they never left Diana Allan addresses this question in her provocative examination of everyday life in Shatila a refugee camp in Beirut Challenging common assumptions about Palestinian identity and nationalist politics Diana Allan provides an immersive account of camp experience tracking how residents relate across generations cope with poverty and marginalization and plan for the future In so doing she reveals how refugees are pushing back against identities rooted in a purely nationalist discourse and forging a distinct Palestinian identity in the crucible of local pressures This groundbreaking book offers a richly nuanced account of Palestinian exile and presents new possibilities for the future of the community culture that refuses to be pinned down Introduces biomedicine from an anthropological perspective exploring the entanglement of material bodies with history environment culture and politics Develops and integrates an original theory that the human body in health and illness is not an ontological given but a moveable malleable entity Makes extensive use of historical and contemporary ethnographic materials around the globe to illustrate the importance of this methodological approach Integrates key new research data with more classical material covering the management of epidemics famines fertility and birth by military doctors from colonial times on Uses numerous case studies to illustrate concepts such as the global commodification of human bodies and body parts modern forms of population and the extension of biomedical technologies into domestic and intimate domains Winner of the 2010 Prose Award for Archaeology and Anthropology

Charismatic Healers in Contemporary Africa Sandra Fancello,Alessandro Gusman,2022-12-15 Based on ethnographic studies conducted in several African countries this open access book analyses the phenomenon of deliverance which is promoted both in charismatic churches and in Islam as a weapon against witchcraft in order to clarify the political dimensions of spiritual warfare in contemporary African societies Deliverance from evil is part and parcel of the contemporary discourse on the struggle against witchcraft in most African contexts However contributors show how its importance extends beyond this highlighting a pluralism of approaches to deliverance in geographically distant religious movements which coexist in Africa Against this background the book reflects on the responsibilities of Pentecostal deliverance politics within the condition of epistemic anxiety of contemporary African societies to shed light on complex relational dimensions in which individual deliverance is part of a wider social and spiritual struggle Spanning across the study of religion healing and politics this book contributes to ongoing debates about witchcraft and deliverance in Africa The ebook editions of this book are available open access under a CC BY NC ND 4 0 licence on bloomsburycollections com Open access was funded by the University of Turin Lungo Dora and Institut des Mondes Africains

Rethinking Biomedicine and Governance in Africa P. Wenzel Geißler,Richard Rottenburg,Julia Zenker,2014-03-15 In the domain of health the relation between bodies citizenship nations and governments has changed beyond recognition over the past four decades especially in Africa In many regions populations are now faced with a total lack of medical care and the disciplinary regimes of modernity are faint memories In this situation new critical insights beyond the critique of old modernization and the disciplinary regimes of imperial times are needed How can we keep up our sophisticated criticism of knowledge regimes and our doubts with regard to narratives of development when so many people in Africa are dreaming about modernity and are envisioning their own renaissance

Learning from HIV and AIDS

George Ellison, Melissa Parker, Catherine Campbell, 2003-10-30 Different professional and academic disciplines have addressed the HIV AIDS pandemic from a variety of perspectives using different analytical approaches By bringing these together in one volume Learning from HIV AIDS provides a more complete picture of this multi faceted disease from the biological and social factors which facilitate HIV transmission to the powerful cultural and political forces which fuel the pandemic Chapters from contributors working on the aetiology treatment and prevention of HIV AIDS identify how their work has helped predict the spread of HIV and has improved the survival of those infected Yet interventions to reduce the spread of HIV have had limited success and few HIV infected individuals have access to combination drug therapies Written for students and researchers and taking an interdisciplinary perspective this book demonstrates that progress in developing effective and acceptable interventions can only be achieved through collaboration between the biological medical and social sciences

Configuring Contagion Lotte Meinert, Jens Seeberg, 2022-02-11 Expanding our understanding of contagion beyond the typical notions of infection and pandemics this book widens the field to include the concept of biosocial epidemics The chapters propose varied and detailed answers to questions about epidemics and their contagious potential for specific infections and non infectious conditions Together they explore how inseparable social and biological processes configure co existing influences which create epidemics and in doing so stress the role of social inequality in these processes The authors compellingly show that epidemics do not spread evenly in populations or through simple coincidental biological contagion they are biosocially structured and selective and happen under specific economic political and environmental conditions This volume illustrates that an understanding of biosocial factors is vital for ensuring effective strategies for the containment of epidemics
