

Stages of Family of Family Life

Different sociologists define family life as comprised of multiple stages with each stage having own challenges and responsibilities. According to the video tutorial, in a broader classification, family can be divided into four distinguished stages. These stages are:

This is considered as the 1st phase of the family life. This stage is quite exciting as you meet new people and try to develop a relationship. This relationship may eventually turn as the foundation of later stages of the family. Basically this is the 1st step towards family life but not every courtship turns out to be a family life. In this stage people are usually inclined to their personal choices of a partner.

2. Marriage

The next stage is marriage. It can be arranged or by personal choice (love). In western culture, there is more tendency of love marriages while in eastern culture arranged marriages prevail. However, even in love marriage, love is not the only factor considered. In fact other social factors and compatibility is also considered. Marriage is the legal contract that lays down the proper foundation of a family. Although all marriages are not successful and the divorce rate is increasing day by day.

3. Childbearing

This third stage is one of the most important stage in determining the future of family life. Everyone likes children as they complete your family. If the married couple is going well then they decide to have children. Growing children is very responsible job for both the parents. If the parents have not good relationship or they divorce then it leaves a bad impact on the children. So this stage requires great responsibility.

4. Family Life in Later years

This is the final stage of family when the children grow up and usually separate from their parents to start their own family. In some case, they have a close contact with them and in other case they do not have very frequent relationship due to lifestyle or living at a far place or other country.

Difference between American and Kuwaiti Family Stages

Each family stage has different challenges. These challenges varies in different societies and cultures. The concept of courtship is common in America but the success rate of courtship is
