Maximizing Resources New Directions For Institutional Research:

Maximizing Resources: Universities, Public Policy, and Revenue Production F. King Alexander, 2003-09-22 Today's financial and economic challenges require that higher education leaders become prudent fiscal managers and aggressive revenue generators. Maximizing and forecasting revenue has become an important item on the agenda for every strategic planning and institutional research team. Private institutions strive to maximize public resources through tuition-based government programs while public institutions maneuver to exploit private revenues. This volume presents edited versions of some of the best papers/articles from a forum on institutional revenue production sponsored by the Cornell Higher Education Research Institute (CHERI). The chapters provide different perspectives on revenue generation and how institutions are struggling to find an appropriate balance between meeting public expectations and maximizing private market forces. The problems raised by the contributors do not have simple solutions but we hope that the insights provided about options and alternatives will enable campus leaders, institutional researchers, and policy makers to better understand evolving patterns in public and private revenue reliance. New Directions for Institutional Research, 2001

Understanding and Supporting Adult Learners Frederic Jacobs, Stephen P. Hundley, 2010-07-20 Understanding and Supporting Adult Learners offers faculty and administrators a hands-on guide to the myriad issues adult learners face in their enrollment and participation in higher education. This comprehensive resource is filled with the analytical and practical skills that can help faculty make sound decisions relative to adult learners. The book also includes techniques and frameworks for assessing, implementing, and evaluating practices within the institution at the classroom, department, school, and campus levels to nurture and support responsiveness to adult learners. Praise for Understanding and Supporting Adult Learners: This timely book provides a clear road map for institutions to attract, retain, and graduate adult learners. It will provoke discussions among faculty and administrators on the best ways to serve and assess this important demographic. John V. Moore III, associate director of institutional research, Temple University. A must read for everyone serving adults in higher education. The book's wonderfully insightful and provocative cases bring to life the real dilemmas facing adult learners and the institutions that support them. It provides an enlightened analysis of the issues and an effective framework for creating and improving programs that ensure the success of adult learners in higher education. Tai Arnold, assistant vice president for academic programs, SUNY Empire State College. This book is a must read for community college faculty and administrators. Community college adult learners span several generations and even decades and bring different levels of learning skills and student support services needs. This is an excellent practical guide to addressing the varied needs and issues of the twenty-first century adult learner. Christine Chairsell, vice president, Portland Community College. Benchmarking in

Institutional Research Gary D. Levy, Nicolas A. Valcik, 2012-12-21 While the term benchmarking is commonplace nowadays in institutional research and higher education, less common is a solid understanding of what it really means and how it has been and can be used effectively This volume begins by defining benchmarking as a strategic and structured approach whereby an organization compares aspects of its processes and or outcomes to those of another organization or set of organizations to identify opportunities for improvement Building on this definition the chapters provide a brief history of the evolution and emergence of benchmarking in general and in higher education in particular The authors apply benchmarking to Enrollment management and student success Institutional effectiveness The potential economic impact of higher education institutions on their host communities They look at the use of national external survey data in institutional benchmarking and selection of peer institutions introduce multivariate statistical methodologies for guiding that selection and consider a novel application of baseball sabermetric methods The volume offers a solid starting point for those new to benchmarking in higher education and provides examples of current best practices and prospective new directions This is the 156th volume of this Jossey Bass series Always timely and comprehensive New Directions for Institutional Research provides planners and administrators in all types of academic institutions with guidelines in such areas as resource coordination information analysis program evaluation and institutional management Global Issues in Institutional Research Angel Calderone, Karen L. Webber, 2013-05-17 All around the world postsecondary institutions are facing competitive environments declining resources and changing societal needs Institutions are affected by globalization state and local government needs economic restructuring information technology and student and staff mobility Institutional researchers have a critical role to play in addressing these issues In this volume we have embedded the practice of IR as experienced globally We brought together a discussion that is delivered from multiple perspectives but fundamentally one that draws from the collaborative efforts of practitioners across borders By embedding notions of globalization that affect IR we can engage readers in broad discussions on where we are coming from and where we are heading This is the 157th volume of this Jossey Bass quarterly report series Always timely and comprehensive New Directions for Institutional Research provides planners and administrators in all types of academic institutions with guidelines in such areas as resource coordination information analysis program evaluation and institutional management Refining the Focus on Faculty Diversity in

Postsecondary Institutions Yonghong Jade Xu, 2012-10-26 Faculty diversity is gaining unprecedented emphasis in the mission of colleges and universities and institutional researchers are being pushed for relevant data This volume examines faculty diversity from a variety of perspectives Together they constitute a comprehensive outlook on the subject highlighting factors including racial background gender citizenship employment status and academic discipline and examining how growing diversity has affected the work experience and productivity of faculty and the learning outcomes of students Special attention is given to international and nontenure track faculty members two groups that have experienced rapid growth in recent years The authors Present empirical evidence to support the increasing importance of faculty diversity in institutional research Show the need for actively tracking the changes in diversity over time Highlight the critical role of research methodology in all such work This is the 155th volume of this Jossey Bass quarterly report series Always timely and comprehensive New Directions for Institutional Research provides planners and administrators in all types of academic institutions with guidelines in such areas as resource coordination information analysis program evaluation and institutional management Multilevel Modeling Techniques and Applications in Institutional Research Joe L. Lott, James S. Antony, 2013-02-22 Multilevel modeling is an increasingly popular multivariate technique that is widely applied in the social sciences Increasingly practitioners are making instructional decisions based on results from their multivariate analyses which often come from nested data that lend themselves to multilevel modeling techniques As data driven decision making becomes more critical to colleges and universities multilevel modeling is a tool that will lead to more efficient estimates and enhance understanding of complex relationships This volume illustrates both the theoretical underpinnings and practical applications of multilevel modeling in IR It introduces the fundamental concepts of multilevel modeling techniques in a conceptual and technical manner Providing a range of examples of nested models that are based on linear and categorical outcomes it then offers important suggestions about presenting results of multilevel models through charts and graphs This is the 154th volume of this Jossey Bass quarterly report series Always timely and comprehensive New Directions for Institutional Research provides planners and administrators in all types of academic institutions with guidelines in such areas as resource coordination information analysis program evaluation and institutional management Assessing Student Outcomes - Why, Who, What, How? J. Fredericks Volkwein, 2011-11-22 This volume offers administrators and practitioners a summary guide to assessment in higher education from the reasons for undertaking assessment to the delivery of findings It opens with the questions that precede an effective study and drive research design To what extent is the study aimed at educational improvement and to what extent is it aimed at external accountability Are the results expected to demonstrate goal attainment improvement comparison to others meeting standards cost effective investment What is the population from whom assessment data are being collected Are we measuring the knowledge and skills of individuals and making decisions about their remediation certification or development Or are we sampling from particular groups of students and comparing them to each other or perhaps to themselves over time The core of the volume is devoted to the objects of assessment basic skills general education knowledge attainment in the major personal growth attitudes and satisfaction and alumni outcomes keeping in mind both cognitive and noncognitive measures One chapter describes common obstacles to effective assessment others describe conceptual models research methods and data collection strategies and instruments The concluding chapter underscores the importance of communicating research results effectively This is a special volume of the Jossey Bass higher education quarterly report series New Directions for Institutional Research Always timely and comprehensive New Directions for Institutional Research provides planners and administrators in all types of academic institutions with guidelines in such areas as resource coordination information analysis program evaluation and institutional management New Scholarship

Saupe,1990-01-01      College Andrew Delbanco,2023-04-18 The strengths and failures of the American college and why liberal education still matters As the commercialization of American higher education accelerates more and more students are coming to college with the narrow aim of obtaining a preprofessional credential The traditional four year college experience an exploratory time for students to discover their passions and test ideas and values with the help of teachers and peers is in danger of becoming a thing of the past In College prominent cultural critic Andrew Delbanco offers a trenchant defense of such an education and warns that it is becoming a privilege reserved for the relatively rich In describing what a true college education should be he demonstrates why making it available to as many young people as possible remains central to America s democratic promise In a brisk and vivid historical narrative Delbanco explains how the idea of college arose in the colonial period from the Puritan idea of the gathered church how it struggled to survive in the nineteenth century in the shadow of the new research universities and how in the twentieth century it slowly opened its doors to women minorities and students from low income families He describes the unique strengths of America s colleges in our era of globalization and while recognizing the growing centrality of science technology and vocational subjects in the curriculum he mounts a vigorous defense of a broadly humanistic education for all Acknowledging the serious financial intellectual and ethical challenges that all colleges face today Delbanco considers what is at stake in the urgent effort to protect these venerable institutions for future generations
