Unwriting Maya Literature Paul M. Worley,Rita M. Palacios,2019-05-07

Unwriting Maya Literature provides an important decolonial framework for reading Maya texts that builds on the work of Maya authors and intellectuals such as Q'anjob'al Gaspar Pedro González and Kaqchikel Irma Otzoy Paul M Worley and Rita M Palacios privilege the Maya category ts'ib over constructions of the literary in order to reveal how Maya peoples themselves conceive of artistic creation This offers a decolonial departure from theoretical approaches that remain situated within alphabetic Maya linguistic and literary creation As ts'ib refers to a broad range of artistic production from painted codices and textiles to works composed in Latin script as well as plastic arts the authors argue that texts by contemporary Maya writers must be read as dialoguing with a multimodal Indigenous understanding of text In other words ts'ib is an alternative to understanding writing that does not stand in opposition to but rather fully encompasses alphabetic writing placing it alongside and in dialogue with a number of other forms of recorded knowledge This shift in focus allows for a critical reexamination of the role that weaving and bodily performance play in these literatures as well as for a nuanced understanding of how Maya writers articulate decolonial Maya aesthetics in their works Unwriting Maya Literature places contemporary Maya literatures within a context that is situated in Indigenous ways of knowing and being Through ts'ib the authors propose an alternative to traditional analysis of Maya cultural production that allows critics students and admirers to respectfully interact with the texts and their authors Unwriting Maya Literature offers critical praxis for understanding Mesoamerican works that encompass non Western ways of reading and creating texts

American Holocaust David E. Stannard, 1993-11-18 For four hundred years from the first Spanish assaults against the Arawak people of Hispaniola in the 1490s to the U S Army's massacre of Sioux Indians at Wounded Knee in the 1890s the indigenous inhabitants of North and South America endured an unending firestorm of violence During that time the native population of the Western Hemisphere declined by as many as 100 million people Indeed as historian David E Stannard argues in this stunning new book the European and white American destruction of the native peoples of the Americas was the most massive act of genocide in the history of the world Stannard begins with a portrait of the enormous richness and diversity of life in the Americas prior to Columbus's fateful voyage in 1492 He then follows the path of genocide from the Indies to Mexico and Central and South America then north to Florida Virginia and New England and finally out across the Great Plains and Southwest to California and the North Pacific Coast Stannard reveals that wherever Europeans or white Americans went the native people were caught between imported plagues and barbarous atrocities typically resulting in the annihilation of 95 percent of their populations What kind of people he asks do such horrendous things to others His highly provocative answer Christians Digging deeply into ancient European and Christian attitudes toward sex race and war he finds the cultural ground well prepared by the end of the Middle Ages for the centuries long genocide campaign that Europeans and their descendants launched and in places continue to wage against the New World's original inhabitants Advancing a thesis that is sure to create much controversy Stannard contends that the perpetrators of the American Holocaust drew on the same ideological wellspring as did the later architects of the Nazi Holocaust It is an ideology that remains dangerously alive today he adds and one that in recent years has surfaced in American justifications for large scale military intervention in Southeast Asia and the Middle East At once sweeping in scope and meticulously detailed American Holocaust is a work of impassioned scholarship that is certain to ignite intense historical and moral debate
