Homeschooling 101 Mark Field, Christine Field, 2007-04-01 Where to begin and how to continue Homeschooling 101 will help potential and current homeschooling parents caught between a proverbial rock the expectations of the world when it comes to education and a hard place honoring God through the raising and teaching of their children Veteran homeschool couple Mark and Christine Field write from experience about why homeschooling is best for children and how to make the process a complete success at every step Chapters include discussions on the uniqueness of each child practical advice on teaching children of different ages at the same time the centrality of the Bible in the education process and approaches to teaching various subjects and much more

Home Schooling Frederick M. Lawrence, 2007 From left to right on the political spectrum there is at least one note of agreement the nation s school system has not delivered universal quality education Accordingly debate has raged over how to rectify this situation Should the government increase funding encourage privatisation some of both Another option though has emerged and is seemingly gaining popularity home schooling Citing both substandard education and displeasure with school environments and curricula many parents have decided to teach their own children Supporters say it is well within their rights to raise their children as they see fit and that at home learning is superior to the public system Detractors claim that home schooled children are deprived of social interaction and the broad based education provided by the system Neither side wants to cede ground making the issue of home schooling an integral part of a wider national debate on education In this book the specific topic of home schooling is presented from all relevant sides to give a complete picture of the present status of the issue and its potential for future resolution Following this overview is a thorough and carefully selected bibliography of literature about home schooling from all viewpoints Easy access to his important resource is then provided via author title and subject indexes

You've Decided to Homeschool, Now What? Marsha Hubler, 2007 This exciting new guide by trusted homeschool consultant Marsha

Hubler takes you safely through some of the most common obstacles associated with homeschooling. Along the way it will help answer all your questions and give you the confidence and ability to be successful in this new endeavor. Serving Homeschooled Teens and Their Parents Maureen T. Lerch, Janet Welch, 2004-05-30. Today more than a million students are being educated at home and that figure increases at a rate of 7-14% annually. Homeschooling is a growing trend in our society and public librarians are being called upon with increasing frequency to serve the needs of homeschooled students. So just what are the needs of the homeschooled teen and how can you and your library meet those needs? A former young adult librarian and a homeschool parent have joined forces to create this insightful guide and answer that question. After reviewing the developmental and social needs of teens, the authors demonstrate how those needs may be met in the public library setting. You'll find a wealth of ideas for adapting every facet of your library service for this growing population, from developing a homeschool collection to expanding services and creating special programs. You'll also find suggestions on how to market what your library has to offer to homeschoolers. You may even discover some new ways to employ the talents and time of these students and their families. Extensive resource lists conclude the volume; they will help you better serve home-educated teens and their parents. Grammar Practice Book (Grade 2) MCGRAWHILL, 2003-06. Learning with Mothers Xiaoming Sheng, 2014-04-03. The literature in relation to home schooling grounded in empirical research and focusing on gender role and the impacts of social class has been neglected and unexplored. Home schooling is at an initial period for the public researchers, media, and educational authorities in China; it is mysterious and even abnormal or odd. This book seeks to bring a rich body of qualitative data to provide in-depth information in relation to the demographic characteristics of home schooling parents, the motivations for home schooling in China, the process of practicing it, and its relevant academic and social outcomes. Learning with Mothers examines the social difference in terms of social class in the process of home schooling and also takes account of gender difference in terms of parental involvement, aiming to answer the questions about home schooling such as: Who are practicing home schooling for their children? Why do parents choose to home school their children? How are parents involved in their home schooling? What is accomplished in doing so? This book is the first book in relation to home schooling in China. This book will be essential reading for researchers, postgraduate students, and Chinese parents with in-depth information in relation to a summary of updated literature on home schooling in China. Beatitudes of Learning Patricia H. Davis, 2004-08-09. Why are so many children still not learning in spite of more money being spent on education and stricter accountability standards? Most educational programs overlook what the author, through her extensive and varied experience, has found to be eight essential principles of learning. Beatitudes of Learning is a consciousness-raising book for parents, teachers, and adults to aid in creating successful learning environments for all ages. Full of real-life examples and anecdotes, including biographies of famous people who overcame learning challenges when growing up, this book provides a powerful resource to blend traditional with more innovative educational approaches to

United States Government: Our Democracy, Student Edition GLENCOE 2016, McGraw-Hill, 2014-08-11 Print Student Edition International Handbook of Protestant Education William Jeynes, David W. Robinson, 2012-01-11 Since their earliest days institutions providing a Protestant education have always been respected and sought after for their rigor and relative freedom from dogma and despite today's secularism and plurality they remain so. This international handbook is the ultimate companion to Protestant schooling worldwide. Its 39 chapters form the most comprehensive and wide-ranging treatment of the subject yet available, addressing Protestant education on all six inhabited continents and featuring the perspectives of leading authorities and public figures. The contributions cover in detail not only the facts and features of Protestant schooling in sundry nations but also integrate a range of themes common to them all, themes so vital that they are of central concern to Christians around the world and of whatever denomination. Some of these topics are school choice, globalization, Bible pedagogy and character education, the fine arts, parental involvement and the rise of Christianity in previously inaccessible locations such as China. The handbook's stellar list of authors is a Who's Who of authorities on the subject and includes a renowned American evangelical, a former historian of the US House of Representatives and White House consultants responsible for framing legislation. The many contributors from outside the USA are leading academics conducting seminal research on numerous topics in the field. Both exhaustive and authoritative, The International Handbook of Protestant Education will be an invaluable asset to educators, ministers, parents, policy makers, political leaders of any denomination or none.
