محمد عفيفي : Muḥammad 'Afifi Maṭar,01-01-1997,محمد عفيفي عفيفي Evaluation and Translation Carol Maier,2014-04-23 The definition of value or quality with respect to work in translation has historically been a particularly vexed issue Today however the growing demand for translations in such fields as technology and business and the increased scrutiny of translators work by scholars in many disciplines is giving rise to a need for more nuanced more specialized and more explicit methods of determining value Some refer to this determination as evaluation others use the term assessment Either way the question is one of measurement and judgement which are always unavoidably subjective and frequently rest on criteria that are not overtly expressed This means that devising more complex evaluative practices involves not only quantitative techniques but also an exploration of the attitudes preferences or individual values on which criteria are established Intended as an interrogation and a critique that can serve to prompt a more thorough and open consideration of evaluative criteria this special issue of The Translator offers examinations of diverse evaluative practices and contains both empirical and hermeneutic work Topics addressed include the evaluation of student translations using more up to date and positive methods such as those employed in corpus studies the translation of non standard language translation into the second language terminology the application of theoretical criteria to practice a social textual perspective and the reviewing of literary translations in the press In addition reviews by a number of literary translators discuss specific translations both into and out of English

Composing the Modern Subject: Four String Quartets by Dmitri Shostakovich Sarah Reichardt, 2017-07-05 Since the publication of Solomon Volkov s disputed memoirs of Dmitri Shostakovich the composer and his music has been subject to heated debate concerning how the musical meaning of his works can be understood in relationship to the composer s life within the Soviet State While much ink has been spilled very little work has attempted to define how Shostakovich s music has remained so arresting not only to those within the Soviet culture but also to Western audiences even though such audiences are often largely ignorant of the compositional context or even the biography of the composer This book offers a useful corrective setting aside biographically grounded and traditional analytical modes of explication Reichardt uncovers and explores the musical ambiguities of four of the composer's middle string quartets especially those ambiguities located in moments of rupture within the musical structure The music is constantly collapsing reversing inverting and denying its own structural imperatives Reichardt argues that such confrontation of the musical language with itself though perhaps interpretable as Shostakovich's own unique version of double speak also poignantly articulates the fractured state of a more general form of modern subjectivity Reichardt employs the framework of Lacanian psychoanalysis to offer a cogent explanation of this connection between disruptive musical process and modern subjectivity The ruptures of Shostakovich's music become symptoms of the pathologies at the core of modern subjectivity These symptoms in turn relate to the Lacanian concept of the real which is the empty kernel around which the modern subject constructs reality This framework proves invaluable in developing a powerful original hermeneutic understanding of the music Read through the lens of the real the riddles written into the quartets reveal the arbitrary and contingent state of the musical subject's constructed reality reflecting pathologies
