Living Fossils N. Eldredge, S. M. Stanley, 2012-12-06 The case history approach has an impressive record of success in a variety of disciplines Collections of case histories casebooks are now widely used in all sorts of specialties other than in their familiar application to law and medicine The case method had its formal beginning at Harvard in 1871 when Christopher Lagdell developed it as a means of teaching It was so successful in teaching law that it was soon adopted in medical education and the collection of cases provided the raw material for research on various diseases Subsequently the case history approach spread to such varied fields as business psychology management and economics and there are over 100 books in print that use this approach The idea for a series of Casehooks in Earth Science grew from my experience in organizing and editing a collection of examples of one variety of sedimentary deposits The project began as an effort to bring some order to a large number of descriptions of these deposits that were so varied in presentation and terminology that even specialists found them difficult to compare and analyze Thus from the beginning it was evident that something more than a simple collection of papers was needed Accordingly the nearly fifty contributors worked together with George de Vries Klein and me to establish a standard format for presenting the case histories

Capitalism and Environmental Collapse Luiz Marques, 2020-08-17 This book intends to be an alert to the fact that the curve measuring environmental costs against the economic benefits of capitalism has irreversibly entered into a negative phase The prospect of an environmental collapse has been evidenced by the sciences and the humanities since the 1960s Today it imposes its urgency This collapse differs from past civilizations in that it is neither local nor just civilizational It is global and occurs at the broadest level of the biosphere accelerated by the convergence of different socio environmental crises such as Earth energy imbalance climate change and global warming Sea level rise Decrease and degradation of forests Collapse of terrestrial and aquatic biodiversity Floods droughts wildfires and extreme weather events Degradation of soils and water resources Increase in pollution caused by fossil fuels and coal Increase in waste production and industrial intoxication The book is divided in two parts In the first part it presents a comprehensive review of scientific data to show the already visible effects of each of the different environmental crises and its consequences to human life on Earth In the second part Luiz Marques critically discusses what he calls the three concentric illusions that prevent us from realizing the gravity of the current socio environmental crises the illusion of a sustainable capitalism the illusion that economic growth is still capable of providing more well being and the anthropocentric illusion Finally Marques argues that fitting back into the biosphere will only be possible if we dismantle the expansive socioeconomic gear that has shaped our societies since the 16th century by moving from a Social Contract to a Natural Contract which takes into account the whole biosphere According to him the future society will be post capitalist or it will not be a complex society and even perhaps we must fear no society at all This book is backed up with the latest and best science and has made the complexities understandable for the average reader all in a context of hope for the future William J Ripple PhD Distinguished Professor of Ecology Director of the Alliance of World Scientists Oregon State University
