Quest For Life In Amber:

The Quest For Life In Amber George Poinar, 1995-10-25 George Poinar began collecting amber specimens over thirty years ago but it was only recently that he, Roberta Poinar and the rest of his research team astounded the scientific community with the news that they had obtained live DNA strands from an insect over 40 million years old. The news was so significant that it made headlines throughout the world. Since that time their lab has remained extraordinarily active and in the summer of 1993 they were able to announce the successful extraction of preserved DNA strands over 125 million years old. Thus there is now DNA available for study dating from the early dinosaur period. In passages that read more like an Indiana Jones screenplay than a story about scientific research, the Poinars describe how what began as a hobby grew into a semi-obsession which ultimately led to a breakthrough scientific discovery. Along the way they encounter all manner of unusual characters from threatening black marketeers and gun-toting guerrillas to extraordinarily talented scientists and of course the luminously beautiful specimens captured in the still life of amber. Fossils in Amber David Penney, David I. Green, 2011 A World of Insects Ring T. Cardé, Vincent H. Resh, 2012-04-16 A World of Insects showcases classic works on insect behavior, physiology and ecology published over half a century by Harvard University Press authors Costa, Dethier, Eisner, Goff, Heinrich, H. Ildobler, Roeder, Ross, Seeley, von Frisch, Waldbauer, Wilson and Winston. Ancient DNA Elizabeth D. Jones, 2022-01-01 The untold story of the rise of the new scientific field of ancient DNA research and how Jurassic Park and popular media influenced its development. Fun and thought-provoking, Jones builds a wry, often wise study of science as a very human endeavor. She makes a powerful case that ancient DNA research feeds off media attention as much as the media feeds off it. Victoria L. Herridge, Nature. Ancient DNA research: the recovery of genetic material from long-dead organisms is a discipline that developed from science fiction into a reality between the 1980s and today. Drawing on scientific, historical and archival material as well as original interviews with more than fifty researchers worldwide, Elizabeth Jones explores the field's formation and explains its relationship with the media by examining its close connection to de-extinction, the science and technology of resurrecting extinct species. She reveals how the search for DNA from fossils flourished under the influence of intense press and public interest, particularly as this new line of research coincided with the book and movie Jurassic Park. Ancient DNA is the first account to trace the historical and sociological interplay between science and celebrity in the rise of this new research field. In the process, Jones argues that ancient DNA research is more than a public-facing science; it is a celebrity science. Amber Forest Ronald H. McPeak, Dale A. Glantz, Carole R. Shaw, 1999-07-27 Glossy color photos are prevalent in this book featuring the beauty and biology of California's submarine forests. Amber: Golden Gem of the Ages Dr. Patty C. Rice, Geoscience Press, Incorporated, 1987-12-12 Geology Lab for Kids Garret Romaine, 2017-07 Geology Lab for Kids is a family-friendly guide to the wonders of geology like crystals and fossils, the layers of the earth's crust and the eruption of geysers and volcanoes. Amber Andrew Ross, 2016 A comprehensive introduction to amber and all its uses.
