Qusayr 'Amra Garth Fowden, 2004-09-20 From the stony desolation of Jordan's desert it is but a step through a doorway into the bath house of the Qusayr Amra hunting lodge Inside multicolored frescoes depict scenes from courtly life and the hunt along with musicians dancing girls and naked bathing women The traveler is transported to the luxurious and erotic world of a mid eighth century Muslim Arab prince For scholars though Qusayr Amra probably painted in the 730s or 740s has proved a mirage its concreteness dissolved by doubts about date patron and meaning This is the first book length contextualization of the mysterious monument through a compelling analysis of its iconography and of the literary sources for the Umayyad period It illuminates not only the way of life of the early Muslim elite but also the long afterglow of late antique Syria

One Family's Response to Terrorism

Susan Kerr van de Ven, 2010-03-19 On January 18 1984 Malcolm Kerr president of the American University of Beirut and a respected scholar of Middle East politics was shot in the back of the head as he stepped out of an elevator on his way to work At the time the chaos of Lebanon's civil war made it impossible to investigate who had carried out the killing and why Seventeen years later armed with new information concerning the assassination and supported by the Anti Terrorism Act passed by Congress in 1996 his family came to a painful consensus that nonviolent justice through the rule of law was a duty they could not ignore Disturbing revelations emerged as the author explored U S government intelligence U S district court records Malcolm Kerr's unpublished papers and the recollections of journalists diplomats academics and former Hizballah hostages who lived through the violence of 1980s Lebanon The family's team of lawyers built a clear case against the Islamic Republic of Iran culminating in a trial before a judge of the U S District Court One Family's Response to Terrorism A Daughter's Memoir is a stunning portrait of the intimate way in which violence pulls lives apart of an American family caught on the stage of Middle East politics and of the moral choices required in seeking justice

Islamic Art and Archaeology in Palestine Myriam Rosen-Ayalon, 2016-09-16 Despite political upheavals under Muslim domination in the Middle Ages Palestine was a center of great artistic activity recognized for its incredible dynamism Its unique contribution to the Islamic macrocosm however never became the subject of extensive study Numerous archeological excavations on this relatively small geographic area reveal the existence of extremely well preserved monuments of high architectural quality and exceptional religious value This is what Myriam Rosen Ayalon exposes in this thorough introduction to Palestinian Islamic art and archeology In chronological order she presents here for the first time the multifaceted and long lasting achievements of Islamic art in Palestine filling the gap of years of neglect on the subject      Forgotten Experts A. Tunç Şen, 2025-05-20

Forgotten Experts offers a history of Ottoman court astrologers and traces their shifting authority and prestige over the long sixteenth century. These individuals served the Ottoman court with their expertise in mathematical astronomical and astrological sciences, distinguishing themselves from other occult practitioners and esoteric specialists. While both prophecy and prognostication are attempts to map the terrain of the future, the astrologers' work did not claim spiritual weight as a prophecy but relied instead on methods of prediction developed from data and patterns elaborated through technical and scientific writings. Drawing on extensive manuscript and archival records written in Ottoman Turkish, Persian, and Arabic, A. Tunç Şen writes a history of science, state formation, and bureaucracy within the overarching tale of Ottoman imperial formation and protocols. He invites readers to follow Ottoman court astrologers' fluctuating careers as practitioners of a contentious science and shows how this class of learned individuals constructed its scientific authority despite numerous cultural, societal, and epistemic challenges. In understanding the expertise of court astrologers, we gain insight into the intricate social relations established and maintained between the men of knowledge and the men of rule, between expertise and statecraft in the early modern Ottoman imperial context.

Arabic Theology, Arabic Philosophy Richard M. Frank, 2006

In the course of his career, Professor Richard M. Frank of the Catholic University of America produced a hugely significant corpus of works on the intellectual activity in Classical Islam, known as Kalam, which he argued should be rendered as speculative theology. He also wrote on the Qur'an, the Arabic and Syriac philosophical tradition, and argued vigorously for a new reading of the famous religious scholar and theologian al-Ghazali (d. 1111) as a devotee of the cosmology of Ibn Sina (d. 1037). In this volume, fourteen scholars, many of them contemporaries of Professor Frank, engage with his legacy with important and seminal works which take some of his ideas as their points of departure. The book is divided into six sections: the Qur'an, Paths to al-Ash'ari, Al-Ash'ari and the Kalam, Christian Falsafa, Avicenna and Beyond, and Al-Ghazali on Causality. There are major articles on Qur'anic emendations and Arabia and Late Antiquity, on the Arabic Plotinian Tradition, on Syriac Philosophical Vocabulary, and an important reading of the Greek-Arabic translation movement in terms of the practical and exact sciences. There are seminal studies of atomism with valuable translations of complex theological passages previously untranslated, of the Christian philosophy of Yahya ibn Adi, of a late Mu'tazili argument for the existence of God, and a hitherto unedited section on optics by Ibn Mattawayh. These are complemented by important close readings of Avicenna's epistemology and his Metaphysics, together with a major new survey of the Avicennan tradition in the madrasas of the Islamic East. The volume ends with two discussions of the perennial question of al-Ghazali's theory of causality. In addition, the volume contains an autobiographical piece by Professor Frank and a complete bibliography of his published works.

Israel's Clandestine Diplomacies Clive Jones, Tore T. Petersen, 2013-11-01

For over sixty years, the state of Israel has proved adept at practising clandestine diplomacy about which little is known as one might expect. These hitherto undisclosed episodes in Israel's diplomatic history are revealed for the first time by the contributors to this volume who explore how relations based upon patronage and personal friendships as well as ties born from kinship and realpolitik both informed the creation of the state and later defined Israel's relations with a host of actors both state and non state. The authors focus on the extent to which Israel's clandestine diplomacies have indeed been regarded as purely functional and subordinate to a realist quest for security amid the perceived hostility of a predominantly Muslim Arab world or have in fact proved to be manifestations of a wider acceptance political social and cultural of a Jewish sovereign state as an intrinsic part of the Middle East. They also discuss whether clandestine diplomacy has been more effective in securing Israeli objectives than reliance upon more formal diplomatic ties constrained by international legal obligations and how this often complex and at times contradictory matrix of clandestine relationships continues to influence perceptions of Israel's foreign policy.

The Haram of Jerusalem, 324-1099 Andreas Kaplony, 2002. From the Muslims to the Crusaders conquest Jerusalem is among the world's best known cities. Its most outstanding and constant feature is its shared holiness by three major confessions Muslim Jewish and Christian. Covering the Marwanid the Abbasid and the Faimid phase this study describes not only the emergence of conceptions with which the three major confessions share this city but also their interactions as well as the political circumstances and religious axioms which give each conception its specific shape. Looking for these conceptions of the holy area of the city the Haram has been chosen. This area of the former temple was highly significant to all three confessions. The analysis is based on a careful description of the Haram focusing on topics like names and traditions architecture rituals and customs visions and dreams and on the establishment of as many parallels as possible. The result is a volume of astonishing depth and comprehensiveness. As a compendium of sources it is unrivalled. Journal of Palestine Studies. The excellent graphics added to each section culminating in 103 figures deserve special mention. Also impressive is Kaplony's generous handling of space it seems that he was aiming for the display of all the texts available to him taking into account Kaplony's treatment of the subject one is tempted to compare it with that of the precision and care of Swiss watchmakers. Unless new sources come to light which is not very likely this book will be the standard work for many years to come. Jerusalem Studies in Arabic and Islam. This book is an excellent contribution to the growing literature on Islamic Jerusalem and it will indubitably be of interest to scholars and students of medieval Islamic history. International Journal of Middle East Studies.

Cultural Anthropology of the Middle East, 1992. During the last two decades the number of anthropologists conducting research in the Middle East has increased considerably. Together they have produced an abundance of valuable studies often based on prolonged periods of ethnographic fieldwork. Cultural Anthropology of the Middle East: A Bibliography offers a comprehensive survey of their results. The first volume published in 1992 covered publications which appeared between 1965 and 1987. The second volume brings the bibliography further up to date listing publications between 1988 and 1992 and adds some 260 titles which were published up through 1987. As in the first volume the majority of the titles are annotated.

In the Shadow of Arabic: The

Centrality of Language to Arabic Culture Bilal Orfali, 2011-11-11 The collection of articles in this volume is dedicated to Ramzi Baalbaki of the American University of Beirut on the occasion of his 60th birthday It provides an interesting glimpse into the early medieval and modern traditions related to the Arabic language its grammar historical development and demonstrate its centrality to other fields of study such as qur'anic studies adab folk literature sufism and poetry Islamic Astronomy and Geography David A. King, 2022-02-13 This volume of 12 studies mainly published during the past 15 years begins with an overview of the Islamic astronomy covering not only sophisticated mathematical astronomy and instrumentation but also simple folk astronomy and the ways in which astronomy was used in the service of religion It continues with discussions of the importance of Islamic instruments and scientific manuscript illustrations Three studies deal with the regional schools that developed in Islamic astronomy in this case Egypt and the Maghrib Another focuses on a curious astrological table for calculating the length of life of any individual The notion of the world centred on the sacred Kaaba in Mecca inspired both astronomers and proponents of folk astronomy to propose methods for finding the qibla or sacred direction towards the Kaaba their activities are surveyed here The interaction between the mathematical and folk traditions in astronomy is then illustrated by an 11th century text on the qibla in Transoxania The last three studies deal with an account of the geodetic measurements sponsored by the Caliph al Ma'mun in the 9th century a world map in the tradition of the 11th century polymath al-Biruni alas corrupted by careless copying and a table of geographical coordinates from 15th century Egypt Roman Berytus Linda Jones Hall, 2004-06-01 Examining the numerous primary sources including inscriptions religious histories literary references legal codes and archaeological reports Linda Jones Hall presents a composite history of late antique Berytus from its founding as a Roman colony in the time of Augustus to its development into a center of legal study under Justinian The book examines all aspects of life in the city including geographical setting economic base built environment political structures religious transitions from paganism to Christianity and the self identity of the inhabitants in terms of ethnicity and occupation This volume provides the first detailed investigation of late antique Phoenicia a look at religious affiliations are traced among pagans Jews and Christians a study of the bishops and the churches The full texts of numerous narratives are presented to reveal the aspirations of the law students the professors and their fellow citizens such as the artisans The study also explores the cultural implications of the city's Greek Roman and then Syro-Phoenician heritage The Origins of the Lebanese National Idea Carol Hakim, 2013-01-19 In this fascinating study Carol Hakim presents a new and original narrative on the origins of the Lebanese national idea Hakim's study reconsiders conventional accounts that locate the origins of Lebanese nationalism in a distant legendary past and then trace its evolution in a linear and gradual manner She argues that while some of the ideas and historical myths at the core of Lebanese nationalism appeared by the mid nineteenth century a coherent popular nationalist ideology and movement emerged only with the establishment of the Lebanese state in 1920 Hakim reconstructs the complex process that led to the appearance of fluid national ideals among members of the clerical and secular Lebanese elite and follows the fluctuations and variations of these ideals up until the establishment of a Lebanese state The book is an essential read for anyone interested in the evolution of nationalism in the Middle East and beyond      The Monastic Landscape of Late Antique Egypt Darlene L. Brooks Hedstrom, 2017-11-23 This book traces changing perceptions of Egypt's monastic landscape through an analysis of archaeological and documentary evidence from late antiquity      The End of the British Empire in the Middle East, 1952—1971 Wm. Roger Louis, 2025-02-20 The quarter century after the end of the Second World War and the transfer of power in India in 1947 marked the slow and turbulent dissolution of the British Empire in the Middle East Seeking to capture the period in its full complexity and contradictions acclaimed historian Wm Roger Louis here provides a thorough going account of the British Empire's gradual decline Unpicking the overlapping motivations of those across Britain the US and the Middle East the book demonstrates how and why enthusiasm for the British involvement in the region waned the chaotic ways in which the withdrawal unfolded and the importance of these events for understanding the region today The book explores the period in full detail from the overthrow of the Musaddiq government in Iran the Egyptian Revolution Sudan's independence and the events of the pivotal year of 1955 that set the stage for the Suez crisis the following year through the pivotal Suez crisis of 1956 itself to the crises of 1957 the Iraqi Revolution of 1958 and the 1967 Arab Israeli war and concluding with the collapse of the British position in Aden and the decision to withdraw from the Gulf a process completed by the end of 1971 This panoramic and comprehensive history draws on six decades work in archives across Europe the Middle East and the US including those from governmental archives and private papers and in multiple languages complemented by a considerable body of oral history testimony much of it acquired by the author through conversations with contemporary British politicians and officials In so doing the book sheds new light onto the nature and complexity of the British Empire in its final days and the importance of understanding this history today      Patronate And Patronage in Early And Classical Islam Monique Bernards, John Abdallah Nawas, 2005 This book deals with patronate and patronage of early and classical Islam Though Webster's Third has the term mawla the concept remains very difficult to come to grips with Fourteen contributions by renowned scholars analyze the social and cultural phenomenon of wal from various angles As a whole the book conveys what we presently know about patronate and patronage during the first four centuries of Islam Inasmuch as the contributors have used different methods from a close rereading of primary sources to the application of social theory and quantitative analysis the book additionally offers an overview of methodologies current in the field of Islamic Studies      The Undergraduate's Companion to Arab Writers and Their Web Sites Dona S. Straley, 2004-08-30 This companion provides information on the lives and works of about 150 authors who write primarily in Arabic covering the first known works of Arabic literature in the 5th and 6th centuries A D to the present day While concentrating on literary authors writers from the fields of history geography and philosophy are also represented The individuals represented were chosen primarily from the Encyclopedia of Arabic Literature Among the major authors are Najib Mahfuz the 1988 Nobel laureate Nawal Saadawi the Egyptian physician who is the leading female literary author in the Arab world and the most frequently translated into English Abu al Ala al Ma arri the 11th century poet whose verses are taught to every Arab schoolchild and Avicenna the great physician and philosopher transmitter and interpreter of Aristotle whose work on medicine was long the standard not only in the Middle East but also in Latin translation in Europe In addition entries will be included for the anonymous romances so common in Arabic literature such as The Arabian Nights a cycle of stories perhaps even better known in the West than in the Arab world Interest in the history and culture of the Arab world at U S universities has taken a quantum leap since the events of September 11 2001 In this book the author demonstrates that at least three major distinct literary and cultural traditions are included within the fields of Middle Eastern and Islamic studies Arabic Persian and Turkic The Arabic tradition is the oldest largest and most widely dispersed Undergraduate courses in Arabic literature and culture are now being taught at both lower and upper levels at many universities Such courses are often used by undergraduates to fulfill basic educational requirements for their degrees Students in such courses often have difficulty finding information on Arab writers and this volume fills the void Astronomy and Astrology in the Medieval Islamic World Edward S. Kennedy, 2024-12-11 This collection of studies by Edward Kennedy looks first at questions of spherical astronomy celestial mapping and planetary models and then deals with astrological calculations Throughout the author emphasises the importance of advances in mathematics for understanding the development of medieval Arabic sciences This collection of studies based on previously unexploited manuscript sources in Arabic and Persian They were written by authors from the 9th through the 15th centuries whose locations reached from south China in the east through Central Asia the Middle and Near East and North Africa to Spain in the west The topics are predominately astronomical rather than astrological The former include eclipse predictions problems in spherical astronomy non ptolemaic planetary theory and the achievements of Ulugh Beg and his observatory Astrological subjects treated are the method of calculating the ascendant and how to determine astrological houses and lots An astrological history of the career of Genghis Khan is also described Nasser at War L. James, 2006-10-02 From his 1956 Suez triumph to the 1967 defeat President Nasser of Egypt dominated the Arab revolution Drawing on new Arabic material this history casts a fresh light on Nasser s era and legacy of conflict and provides an essential background to developments in the contemporary Arab world
