Turbulent Souls Stephen J. Dubner,1998-10-17 Two years ago Stephen J Dubner wrote a cover story for the New York Times Magazine called Choosing My Religion It became one of the most widely discussed articles in the magazine s history Turbulent Souls the book that grew out of that article is an intimate memoir of a man in search of a Jewish heritage he never knew he had It is also a loving portrait of his parents Stephen Dubner s family was as Catholic as they come His devout parents attended mass at every opportunity and named their eight children after saints Stephen the youngest child became an altar boy studied the catechism and learned the traditional rituals of the Church never suspecting that the religion he embraced was not his by blood Turbulent Souls is Dubner s personal account of his family tumultuous journey from Judaism to Catholicism and in his own case back to Judaism and the effects some tragic some comic of those spiritual transformations His parents were Jews born in Brooklyn to immigrant parents but independent of each other and indeed before they met each converted to Christianity only to be shunned by their families After their marriage they closed the door on Judaism so firmly that their children had no inkling that their background was far different from what it seemed They didn't know for instance that their mother had a first cousin named Ethel Rosenberg who was executed for treason in one of the most controversial cases of the cold war era Stephen Dubner's is a story about discovery of relatives he never knew existed of family history he'd never learned and of a faith he'd never thought of as his own and in fact knew nothing about It's a fascinating thoughtful and thought provoking exploration of a subject of intense interest to spiritually minded men and women everywhere
