Rubkii Zhurnal 1997:

Soviet Forest Industries Peter Blandon, 2019-08-21 Forest industries represent an important segment of the Soviet economy accounting for five percent of the total industrial output and providing essential materials for other key industries This book the first in depth study of Soviet forestry in the English language looks at the organizational planning economic and technological aspects of the industry Mr Blandon first discusses labor force trends and geographical features of the country s forest resources then assesses the forest industry s modernization program He analyzes the past performance of capital investment in the industry and makes projections about the effects of future investments in order to estimate the Soviet Union s future timber output Throughout the book considerable attention is devoted to the Soviet planning system and its influence on decision making Nestor Makhno and Rural Anarchism in Ukraine, 1917-1921 Colin Darch, 2020 Reveals a little known history of 1917 the Ukrainian anarch communist Makhnovists Białowieża Primeval Forest: Nature and Culture in the Nineteenth Century Tomasz Samojlik, Anastasia Fedotova, Piotr Daszkiewicz, Ian D. Rotherham, 2020-03-30 Understanding the current state and dynamics of any forest is extremely difficult if not impossible without recognizing its history Białowieża Primeval Forest BPF located on the border between Poland and Belarus is one of the best preserved European lowland forests and a subject of myriads of works focusing on countless aspects of its biology ecology management BPF was protected for centuries 15th 18th century as a game reserve of Polish kings and Lithuanian grand dukes Being at that time a part of the Grand Duchy of Lithuania BPF was subject to long lasting traditional multi functional utilisation characteristic for this part of Europe including haymaking on forest meadows traditional bee keeping and fishing in rivers flowing through forest This traditional model of management came to an abrupt end due to political change in 1795 when Poland and Grand Duchy of Lithuania ceased to exist in effect of partitioning by neighbouring countries and the territory of BPF was taken over by the Russian Empire The new Russian administration influenced by the German trends in forestry attempted at introducing the new science based forestry model in the BPF throughout the 19th century The entire 19th century in the history of BPF is a story of struggle between new trends and concepts brought and implemented by new rulers of the land and the traditional perception of the forest and forest uses culturally rooted in this area and originating from mediaeval or older practices The book will show the historical background and the outcome of this struggle the forest s history in the long 19th century focusing on tracking all cultural imprints both material artificial landscapes introduced alien species human induced processes and immaterial traditional knowledge of forest and use of forest resources the political and cultural significance of the forest that shaped the forest s current state and picture Our book will deliver a picture of a crucial moment in forest history relevant not only to the Central Europe but to the continent in general Moment of transition between a royal hunting ground traditional type of use widespread throughout Europe to a modern managed forest Looking at main obstacles in the management shift the essential difference in perceptions of the forest and goods it provides in both modes of management and the implications of the management change for the state of BPF in the long 19th century could help in better understanding the changes that European forests underwent in general

European Russian Forests Olga V. Smirnova, Maxim V. Bobrovsky, Larisa G. Song of the Forest Stephen Brain, 2011-11-13 The Soviets are often viewed as insatiable industrialists who saw nature as a force to be tamed and exploited Song of the Forest counters this assumption uncovering significant evidence of Soviet conservation efforts in forestry particularly under Josef Stalin In his compelling study Stephen Brain profiles the leading Soviet era conservationists agencies and administrators and their efforts to formulate forest policy despite powerful ideological differences By the time of the revolution of 1905 modern Russian forestry science had developed an influential romantic strand especially prevalent in the work of Georgii Morozov whose theory of stand types asked forest managers to consider native species and local conditions when devising plans for regenerating forests After their rise to power the Bolsheviks turned their backs on this tradition and adopted German methods then considered the most advanced in the world for clear cutting and replanting of marketable tree types in artificial forests Later when Stalin's Five Year Plan required vast amounts of timber for industrialization forest radicals proposed flying management an exaggerated version of German forestry where large tracts of virgin forest would be clear cut Opponents who still upheld Morozov's vision favored a conservative regenerating approach and ultimately triumphed by establishing the world's largest forest preserve Another radical turn came with the Great Stalin Plan for the Transformation of Nature implemented in 1948 Narrow belts of new forest planted on the vast Russian steppe would block drying winds provide cool temperatures trap moisture and increase crop production Unfortunately planters were ordered to follow the misguided methods of the notorious Trofim Lysenko and the resulting yields were abysmal But despite Lysenko agency infighting and an indifferent peasant workforce Stalin's forestry bureaus eventually succeeded in winning many environmental concessions from industrial interests In addition the visionary teachings of Morozov found new life ensuring that the forest's song did not fall upon deaf ears

Photosynthesis Roderick K. Clayton, 1980 Life on earth depends on the photosynthetic use of solar energy by plants and efforts to develop alternative sources of energy include a major thrust toward the use of photosynthesis to yield fuels The study of photosynthesis is an especially convincing way of bringing together the disciplines of physics chemistry and biology and can be a valuable element in the teaching of biophysics and biochemistry This book provides the only detailed modern treatment of the subject in a concise form Part I outlines the historical development of the subject emphasizing the chemical nature of photosynthesis and the roles of chlorophylls and other pigments Part II reviews our present knowledge of the structure and components of photosynthetic tissues in relation to their function Part III deals with the photo chemistry of photosynthesis and with the patterns of chemical events principally electron and proton transfer that follow the photo chemistry Part IV treats the relationships of electron and proton transport to ATP formation and the metabolic patterns of carbon assimilation An epilogue exposes major areas of confusion and ignorance and indicates potentially fruitful directions of research including the development of photosynthetic systems for solar energy conversion Throughout the book there are frequent digressions into those aspects of optics and molecular physics relevant to the subject matter Suitable for upper undergraduate and graduate course use this book is also sufficiently detailed to give professional scientists a perspective of
