Animal Question in Deconstruction Lynn Turner, 2013-08-20 Explores the political and poetic understanding of the deconstruction of the animal question How does deconstruction understand relations between humans and other animals This collection of essays reveals that across Jacques Derrida's work as a whole as well as that of Helene Cixous and Nicholas Royle deconstruction has always addressed questions about animality In this collection for example Cixous asks after human intervention between the death of a wild bird and the predation of a domestic cat Kelly Oliver pursues Derrida's analysis of what or whose gaze is at stake when a King oversees the autopsy of an elephant Royle examines in what sense the vulnerable impressions made by the tunnelling of a mole might be thought of as the traces of a text Re-examining how we relate to other animals has far reaching implications for how we think of ourselves Across this collection authors bring to attention the politics and the ethics of a less anthropocentric world Even when this world is grasped

Language, Madness, and Desire Michel Foucault, 2015-05-26 As a transformative thinker of the twentieth century whose work spanned all branches of the humanities Michel Foucault had a complex and profound relationship with literature And yet this critical aspect of his thought because it was largely expressed in speeches and interviews remains virtually unknown to even his most loyal readers This book brings together previously unpublished transcripts of oral presentations in which Foucault speaks at length about literature and its links to some of his principal themes madness language and criticism and truth and desire The associations between madness and language and madness and silence preoccupy Foucault in two 1963 radio broadcasts presented here in which he ranges among literary examples from Cervantes and Shakespeare to Diderot before taking up questions about Artaud's literary correspondence lettres de cachet and the materiality of language In his lectures on the relations among language the literary work and literature he discusses Joyce Proust Chateaubriand Racine and Corneille as well as the linguist Roman Jakobson What we know as literature Foucault contends begins with the Marquis de Sade to whose writing particularly La Nouvelle Justine and Juliette he devotes a full two part lecture series focusing on notions of literary self consciousness Following his meditations on history in the recently published Speech Begins after Death this current volume makes clear the importance of literature to Foucault's
