A dedicated and accomplished marathon and ultra marathon runner who won his first marathon at age thirty nine Heinrich looks deeply at running aging and the body exploring the unresolved relationship between metabolism diet exercise and age. Why do some bodies age differently than others? How much control do we have over that process and what effect if any does being active have? Bringing to bear research from his entire career and in the spirit of his classic Why We Run Heinrich probes the questions of how we use energy and continue to adapt to our mutable surroundings and circumstances. Beyond that he examines how our bodies change while we age but also how we can work with if not overcome many of these changes and what all this tells us about evolution and the mechanisms of life health and happiness. Racing the Clock offers fascinating and surprising conclusions all while bringing the reader along on Heinrich's compelling journey to what he says will be his final race a fifty kilometer race at age eighty.

Throughout his successful political career he has always had his daughter's vote but a presidential campaign brings a whole new level of scrutiny to sheltered fifteen year old Mariana and the rest of her Cuban American family from a 60 Minutes style tour of their house to tabloids doctoring photos and inventing scandals. As tensions rise within the Ruiz family Mari begins to learn about the details of her father's political positions and she realizes that her father is not the man she thought he was. But how do you find your voice when everyone's watching? When it means disagreeing with your father publicly? What do you do when your dad stops being your hero? Will Mari get a chance to confront her father? If she does will she have the courage to seize it?

CIVILIZATION Armand du Plessis, 2014-06-04 We witness step by step decay of civilization across the world particularly in South Africa As many others I also want to arrest the decline I thought I could reach the broad public by writing but after various persons had read the draft I realized only independent thinkers could benefit from it whilst it needlessly confuse those who are dependent on society for values Those who are content with society and their prospects probably would not find use in this writing Maintenance of civilization is of the very greatest concern to man and even to plant and animal particularly threatened species I cannot imagine anyone who can read would object to this axiom But few know that which we call civilization was created by the Aryans and only this race and those who inherited sufficient of its characteristics maintain civilization On each of the legion subjects relating to civilization scholars already published documents but I have yet to find one revealing adequate role players to elucidate a total image covering both nature and history to enable us to find solutions for the preservation of Civilization     *Is atheism or theism the more rational?
