Politics, Desire, and the Hollywood Novel Chip Rhodes, 2008-09 The story of what happens when a serious writer goes to Hollywood has become a cliché the writer is paid well but underappreciated treated like a factory worker and forced to write bad formulaic movies Most fail become cynical drink to excess and at some point write a bitter novel that attacks the film industry in the name of high art Like many too familiar stories this one neither holds up to the facts nor helps us understand Hollywood novels Instead Chip Rhodes argues these novels tell us a great deal about the ways that Hollywood has shaped both the American political landscape and American definitions of romance and desire Rhodes considers how novels about the film industry changed between the studio era of the 1930s and 1940s and the era of deregulated film making that has existed since the 1960s He asserts that Americans are now driven by cultural rather than class differences and that our mainstream notion of love has gone from repressed desire to abnormal desire to finally strictly business Politics Desire and the Hollywood Novel pays close attention to six authors Nathanael West Raymond Chandler Budd Schulberg Joan Didion Bruce Wagner and Elmore Leonard who have toiled in the film industry and written to tell about it More specifically Rhodes considers both screenplays and novels with an eye toward the different formulations of sexuality art and ultimately political action that exist in these two kinds of storytelling
