Planning Middle Eastern Cities Yasser Elsheshtawy, 2004-08-02 Middle Eastern cities cannot be lumped together as a single group Rather they make up the urban kaleidoscope of the title as the diversity of the six cities included here shows They range from cities rich in tradition Cairo

Tunis and Baghdad to neglected cities Algiers and Sana'a to newly emerging oil rich Gulf cities Dubai The authors are all young Arab scholars and architects local to the cities they describe providing an authentic voice with an understanding no outsider could achieve These contributors move away from an exclusively Islamic reading of Arab cities which they regard as outdated and counterproductive Instead they explore issues of identity and globalization in the context of the struggles and solutions offered by each city from the late nineteenth century to the present day Their focus is on how the built environment has changed over time and under different influences The Women's Land Army in First World War Britain B.

White, 2014-07-16 Between 1917 and 1919 women enlisted in the Women's Land Army a national organisation with the task of increasing domestic food production Behind the scenes organisers laboured to not only recruit an army of women workers but to also dispel public fears that Britain's Land Girls would be defeminized and devalued by their wartime experiences its reputation as the bible of British planning      The Anatomy of the Village Thomas Sharp, 2013-07-24 Thomas Sharp was a key figure in mid C20 British planning whose renown stems from two periods in his career First he came to attention as a polemical writer in the 1930s on planning issues including as a virulent opponent of garden cities His prose tempered over time and this phase perhaps culminated in Town Planning first published in 1940 and reputed to have sold over 250 000 copies Subsequently the plans he produced for historic towns in the 1940s such as Oxford were very well known and were influential in developing ideas of townscape Started as an official manual on village planning The Anatomy of the Village followed on from the Scott Report for which Sharp had been one of the Secretaries When the Ministry decided not to proceed with the publication Sharp himself published it in 1946 It became one of Sharp's best known works with lucid prose and generous illustration by photograph and beautiful line drawings of village plans The aim of The Anatomy of the Village was to set out the main principles of village planning especially in relation to physical design Anatomy became a key text in thinking about villages in the post war period a period when there was great concern that settlements should develop in more sensitive ways than inter war ribbon and suburban development patterns The problems of poor quality development unrelated to settlement form was to continue to stimulate books such as Lionel Brett's Landscape in Distress and campaigns from the Architectural Review Reading the text today it still has much to offer while some of its assumptions about the level of services a village might support clearly belong to another era its beautiful and simple typological analyses of village form continue to be of relevance      An Environmental History of the UK Defence Estate, 1945 to the Present Marianna Dudley, 2012-05-03 This book brings to attention the history of places that have traditionally remained under the radar in discussions of war and the environment through site based studies of five training areas in southwest England and Wales Salisbury Plain Lulworth Dartmoor Sennybridge and Castlemartin At these sites the big events of the twentieth century are written into landscapes that absorb their impact and reflect change in intriguing ways Here however environment is more than a canvas on which historical forces play out it has an agency of its own as the depiction of the surprising nature and robust habitats of the training areas recognises An Environmental History of the UK Defence Estate 1945 to the Present critically examines the gradual greening of the MoD as it developed policies of military environmentalism It includes the histories of the ghost villages created by forced evictions and charts the rise and fall of anti military protest movements It depicts heated confrontations mass trespasses and demands for public access alongside conservation work and training activities situating the human histories of these sites within their environmental history and taking the reader behind the barbed wire in the first study of its kind      Planning Europe's Capital Cities Thomas Hall, 2003-12-16 During the nineteenth century many of Europe's capital cities were subject to major expansion and improvement schemes From Vienna's Ringstrasse to the boulevards of Paris the townscapes which emerged still shape today's cities and are an inalienable part of European cultural heritage In Planning Europe's Capital Cities Thomas Hall examines the planning process in fifteen of those cities and addresses the following questions when and why did planning begin and what problems was it meant to solve who developed the projects and how and who made the decisions what urban ideas are expressed in the projects what were the legal consequences of the plans and how did they actually affect subsequent urban development in the individual cities what similarities or differences can be identified between the various schemes how have such schemes affected the development of urban planning in general His detailed analysis shows us that the capital city projects of the nineteenth century were central to the evolution of modern planning and of far greater impact and importance than the urban theories and experiments of the Utopians
