Rural Health and Aging Research Wilbert Gesler, Donna Rabiner, Gordon Defriese, 2019-03-19 This book describes a wide ranging set of research approaches which have been used to study the health care problems of adults living in rural areas It shows how these approaches can be used to define health care problems measure levels of illness and health and evaluate health care practices For each approach contributors provide a theoretical background from the health care delivery literature details of how it can be carried out in the field its strengths and weaknesses and illustrative examples from both the literature and their own work RURAL HEALTH AND AGING RESEARCH WILBERT M. GESLER, 2016 The Gerontological Prism: Developing Interdisciplinary Bridges Jeffrey Michael Clair, Richard Allman, 2018-10-26 The Gerontological Prism promotes disciplinary cooperation in aging research and practice To some extent each chapter explores a unified objective that of generating a disciplinary blind gerontology The fundamental assumption throughout this book is that the aging individual and society can be enhanced by an understanding of the correlates of basic social behavioral demographic economic political ethical and biomedical processes involving aging Each author touches on issues that have both social psychological and practical policy significance They aim toward sensitizing the reader to the possibilities of a properly informed interdisciplinary approach to gerontology The International Journal of Aging & Human Development, 2006 Beyond Gender Differences Laurie Russell Hatch, 2018-12-20 The central aim of this book is to challenge to questions like Which gender copes better when a spouse dies and Are women or men more independent on others as they grow older Putting gender in a lifespan context Hatch Sociology U of Kentucky atypically accents the gains as well as losses of aging and sex differences in adaptation overall to the death of a spouse and to retirement A number of controversies surrounding gender and aging are addressed Older Adults with Developmental Disabilities Claire Lavin, Kenneth J. Doka, 2020-11-25 Assesses the needs and lives of the first generation of people with developmental disabilities who have survived into later life Describes the challenges facing practitioners in gerontology and developmental disabilities to modify programs designed for mid life adults and notes that senior services will need to incorporate the needs of the new po Lives in Time and Place R. A. Settersten, 2018-10-04 Time and place are of the greatest significance for scientific inquiry about human lives As we seek to better understand the nature and rhythm of the life course in modern societies its effective analysis and explanation simultaneously becomes more pressing and more complicated This information is crucial for developing and reforming social policies services and interventions aimed at improving human development and welfare Yet as our scientific treatments have become more elaborate they have also become more fragmented within and between academic disciplines across the study of specific life periods and by method Handbook of Social Work in Health and Aging Barbara Berkman, 2006-02-09 The Handbook of Social Work in Health and Aging is the first reference to combine the fields of health care aging and social work in a single authoritative volume These areas are too often treated as discrete entities while the reality is that all social workers deal with issues in health and aging on a daily basis regardless of practice specialization. As the baby boomers age the impact on practice in health and aging will be dramatic and social workers need more specialized knowledge about aging health care and the resources available to best serve older adults and their families. The volume's 102 original chapters and 13 overviews written by the most experienced and prominent gerontological health care scholars in the United States and across the world provide social work practitioners and educators with up-to-date knowledge of evidence-based practice guidelines for effectively assessing and treating older adults and their families, new models for intervention in both community-based practice and institutional care, and knowledge of significant policy and research issues in health and aging. A truly monumental resource, this handbook represents the best research on health and aging available to social workers today. Omega, 1999. Aging Public Policy Theodore H. Hoff, Richard W.

Park, 2016-12-05. Aging Public Policy: Bonding the Generations is presented in three parts. Part One describes the policy process as a response to human needs through the laws of our country. Part Two explores the national policy development on behalf of older persons. Part Three describes the major public policies on behalf of the elderly that include Social Security, Medicare, The Older Americans Act, institutional care, employment, and retirement policies. The final chapter discusses the advocacy process in the field of aging. Rural Gerontology Mark Skinner, Rachel Winterton, Kieran Walsh, 2020-12-29. This book provides the first foundation of knowledge about the intellectual traditions, contemporary scope, and future prospects for the interdisciplinary field of rural gerontology. With a focus on rural regions, small towns, and villages which have the highest rates of population ageing worldwide, Rural Gerontology is aimed at understanding what it means for rural people, communities, and institutions to be at the forefront of twenty-first century demographic change. The book offers important insights from rural ageing studies into today's most pressing gerontological problems. With chapters from more than 65 established and emerging rural ageing researchers, it is the first synthesis of knowledge about rural gerontology harnessing a burgeoning interdisciplinary scholarship on the rural dimensions of ageing, old age, and older populations. With a view to advancing a critical understanding of rural ageing populations, this book will have an overreaching impact across the social sciences by drawing on advancements in understandings of rural ageing from social, environmental, geographical, and critical gerontology to facilitate a comprehensive exploration of the diversity, complexity, and implications of the ageing process in rural settings. Bringing together valuable international perspectives, this book makes a timely contribution to gerontology, rural studies, and the social sciences and will appeal to scholars and researchers across USA and Canada, UK and Ireland, Australia, and New Zealand, Europe, China, and countries in Africa, South America, and South East Asia. Emotion, Well-Being, and Resilience Rabindra Kumar Pradhan, Updesh Kumar, 2021-01-28. This important new volume discusses the role of emotion, resilience, and well-being in many contexts of human life, including home, school, and workplace. Leading researchers and academicians from around the world and from various fields such as health, education, information, and technology military and manufacturing explore the theoretical and practical implications of many studies in this area They present new concepts models and knowledge for practical applications that address challenges to well being The volume also considers the roles of several other influencing factors such as emotional intelligence performance productivity and employee s health and happiness The book s editors state that At this juncture of human and technological development when artificial intelligence and automation are slowly taking over the world holding on to the study of emotions well being and resilience has become imperative as these influence sustainable performances and growth by individuals as well as organizations
