Rural Society In France Selections From The Annales Economies Socits Civilisations:

Rural Society in France Elborg Forster, 1977 Rural Society in France Robert Forster, 1977 Rural Society in France Robert Forster, Orest A. Ranum, 1977 For this volume from Annales we have selected not only those articles that treat the impact of the events of a decade or the secular trends of a millennium on the agrarian structure of France but also those that describe the peculiar combination of physical surroundings traditions habits and tone that give the village its special character and durability Hence three of the eight selections treat specific villages The essays are qualitative despite their precision about acreages and occupations interdisciplinary relying heavily upon cultural anthropology and folklore and above all subtle in performing the double role of describing in depth the activities and values of a restricted number of human beings and of evoking situations that reflect a timeless human dimension the durable Rural Society in France Robert Forster, Orest A. Ranum, 1977 Year of Sorrows W. Gregory Monahan, 1993 Year of Sorrows draws upon an extensive array of archival sources to chronicle the famine crisis of 1709 in Lyon and its surrounding provinces Combining a traditional narrative of human struggle and desperate improvisation with contemporary analysis Monahan takes his readers from the court of Versailles through the cities of Lyon into the hovels of French peasants who resisted the city's demand for their grain Monahan goes on to analyze the political social economic and demographic impact of the famine on an early modern city and explores the many conflicts created by the crisis between city and monarchy city and countryside and among various groups within Lyon According to Monahan the famine of 1709 serves as a prism to refract the interactions between royal finances and food shortages between elites and the powerless and between competing factions and power centers and redefines the nature of the absolute monarchy of the Sun King This dynamic study of human struggle and its political and social dimensions sheds new light on a host of issues and problems in France before the Revolution and on the role that such crises have played in human history BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved A People's History of the World Chris Harman, 2008-04-17 In this monumental book Chris Harman achieves the impossible a gripping history of the planet from the perspective of the struggling people throughout the ages From earliest human society to the Holy Roman Empire from the Middle Ages to the Enlightenment from the Industrial Revolution to the end of the millennium Chris Harman provides a brilliant and comprehensive history of the planet Eschewing the standard histories of Great Men of dates and kings Harman offers a groundbreaking counter history a breathtaking sweep across the centuries in the tradition of history from below In a fiery narrative he shows how ordinary men and women were involved in creating and changing society and how conflict between classes was often at the core of these changes While many pundits see the victory of capitalism as now safely secured Harman explains the rise and fall of societies and civilizations throughout the ages and demonstrates that history never ends This magisterial study is essential reading for anyone interested in how society has changed and developed and the possibilities for further radical change Feudal Society Marc Bloch, 1961

The Sense of Decadence in Nineteenth-Century France Koenraad W. Swart,2013-11-11 It was the best of times It was the worst of times The famous open ing sentence of Charles Dickens Tale of Two Cities can serve as a motto to characterize the mixture of optimism and pessimism with which a large number of nineteenth century intellectuals viewed the condition of their age It is nowadays hardly necessary to accentuate the optimistic elements in the nineteenth century view of history many recent historians have sharply contrasted the complacency and the great expectations of the past century with the fears and anxieties rampant in our own age. It is often too readily assumed that a hundred years ago all leading thinkers as well as the educated public were addicted to the cult of progress and ignored or minimized those trends of their times that paved the way for the catastrophes of the twentieth century. In the nineteenth century the intoxicating triumphs of modern science undeniably induced the general public to believe that progress was not an accident but a necessity and that evil and immorality would gradually disappear. Yet fears, misgivings and anxieties were not as exceptional in the nineteenth century as is often imagined. Such feelings were not restricted to a few dissenting philosophers and poets like Schopenhauer, Kierkegaard, Dostoevsky,

Baudelaire and Nietzsche

Constructions of Cultural Identities in Newsreel Cinema and Television after 1945

Kornelia Imesch, Sigrid Schade, Samuel Sieber, 2016-12-15 Newsreel cinema and television not only served as an important tool in the shaping of political spheres and the construction of national and cultural identities up to the 1960s. Today's potent televisual forms were furthermore developed in and strongly influenced by newsreels and much of the archived newsreel footage is repeatedly used to both illustrate and re-stage past events and their significance. This book addresses newsreel cinema and television as a medium serving the formation of cultural identities in a variety of national contexts after 1945, its role in forming audiovisual narratives of a biopic of the nation and the technical, aesthetical and political challenges of archiving and restaging cinematic and televisual newsreel.

Architecture for the Dead : Cairo's Medieval Necropolis

Galila El Kadi, Alain Bonnamy, 2007 The great medieval necropolis of Cairo comprising two main areas that together stretch twelve kilometers from north to south constitutes a major feature of the city's urban landscape. With monumental and smaller scale mausolea dating from all eras since early medieval times and boasting some of the finest examples of Mamluk architecture not just in the city but in the region, the necropolis is an unparalleled and until now largely undocumented architectural treasure trove. In Architecture for the Dead, architect Galila El Kadi and photographer Alain Bonnamy have produced a comprehensive and visually stunning survey of all areas of the necropolis. Through detailed and painstaking research and remarkable photography in text, maps, plans and pictures, they describe and illustrate the astonishing variety of architectural styles in the necropolis from Mamluk to neo-Mamluk, via baroque and neo-pharaonic, from the grandest stone buildings with their decorative domes and minarets to the humblest but elaborately decorated wooden structures. The book also documents the modern settlement of the necropolis by families creating a space for the living in and among the tombs and architecture for the dead.

Napoleon's Egypt

Juan Cole, 2007-08-07 In this vivid and timely history, Juan Cole tells the story of Napoleon's invasion of Egypt. Revealing the young general's reasons for leading the expedition against Egypt in 1798 and showcasing his fascinating views of the Orient, Cole delves into the psychology of the military titan and his entourage. He paints a multi-faceted portrait of the daily travails of the soldiers in Napoleon's army, including how they imagined Egypt, how their expectations differed from what they found, and how they grappled with military challenges in a foreign land. Cole ultimately reveals how Napoleon's invasion the first modern attempt to invade the Arab world invented and crystallized the rhetoric of liberal imperialism
