The Politics of School Integration Robert Crain,2017-07-05 This book discusses desegregation as a community decision focusing on case studies from the 1960s Crain uses comparative techniques based on fifteen northern and southern cities The author seeks a total explanation for the decision to desegregate by determining its proximate causes and locating the roots of the decision in the economic social and political structure of the community This work represents the first attempt to conduct a genuinely scientific analysis of the political process by which school systems were desegregated in this period Robert L Crain documents the way in which eight non southern big city school systems met community demands to reduce segregation Reactions varied from immediate compliance to months and years of stubborn resistance some cities maintaining good relations with civil rights leaders and others becoming battlegrounds Differences in these reactions are explained and focus is brought to desegregation in the South New Orleans in particular The situation there is contrasted with six peacefully desegregated southern cities as well as the attitude of its powerful economic elite The concluding part of the book is a general consideration of the civil rights movement in the cities studied and the author considers the implications of his findings both for the future of school desegregation and for studies of community politics Employing comparative techniques and concentrating upon the outputs of political systems this is a highly innovative contribution to the study of community power structures and their relationship to educational systems It remains an effective supplement to courses in sociology political science and education as well as an important source of data for everyone concerned with the history of efforts for national integration

The Metropolitan Planning Process Maynard M. Hufschmidt, 1970

The Administration of Health Systems Martin Harrison, 2017-07-05 In the late 1960s American society entered a period of rapidly accelerating social change Certainty that U S vast scientific and technical capability would be able to find solutions to all problems began to turn to concern as organizational efforts were unable to keep pace with new developments in a variety of areas The health field with its focus on the well being of individuals felt the impact of these changes particularly strongly Medicines became more focused on isolated health practices as the patient s needs were attended to within groups of unrelated biological systems The emerging thought represented in this collection pushes for the perception of health as a right rather than as something to be earned It argues that deprivation of life saving and life fulfilling opportunities to any populations should not be tolerated The editors also demand more awareness of the implications of isolated health activities and make the case for a comprehensive total health care system Health is no longer just a biological function quality of life is also a concern First published in 1971 by administrators of health agencies teachers and health personnel this work presents perspectives on problems and interpretations of forces and issues that are of continuing importance to health administrators The emphasis on the need to focus on the whole patient rather than just their illness and on providing them with a good life not just a disease free one is still as valid today as it was when this volume was initially published

Case Studies of City-County Consolidation: Reshaping the Local Government Landscape Suzanne M. Leland, Kurt M. Thurmaier, 2024-11-01 Facing cutbacks in federal and state assistance and a new wave of taxpayer revolts local governments have renewed interest in local government consolidation as a way of achieving efficiencies of scale in response to citizen demands for services Yet the vast majority of consolidation efforts fail either during the process of drafting a charter or once they reach the ballot only five have passed since 1990 only thirty two have been successfully implemented since the first when the city of New Orleans merged with Orleans Parish in 1805 What accounts for the high failure rate and what factors led to successful consolidations This volume presents thirteen comparable case studies of consolidation campaigns and distills the findings Southern Capitalism Philip J. Wood,1986-08-13 Southern Capitalism challenges prevailing views of Southern development by arguing that the persisting peculiarities of the Southern economy such as low wages and high poverty rates have not resulted from barriers to capitalist development nor from the lingering influence of planter values Wood argues that these peculiarities can instead be best understood as the consequence of a strategy of capitalist development based on the creation and preservation of social conditions and relations conducive to the above average exploitation of labor by capital focusing on the evolving relationship between capital and labor as the core of this strategy Wood follows the process of capitalist industrialization in North Carolina from its beginnings in the aftermath of the Civil War to the 1980s The Politics of Education in the States Luther Harmon Zeigler,Karl F. Johnson,Karl Fredrick Johnson,1972 Bibliography of Ethnicity and Ethnic Groups Richard Kolm,1973 Power: A Reader Mark Haugaard,2002 An introductory guide to some of the most significant perspectives on the subject of power within social and political theory The Politics of Dissatisfaction William E. Lyons,David Lowery,Ruth Hoogland DeHoog,2019-07-23 The Politics of Dissatisfaction Citizens Services and Urban Institutions is destined to be a classic in public administration and public policy it makes major theoretical and empirical contributions to the literature in both fields It is a rigorous empirical attempt to assess the public choice view of citizenship and local government The research upon which this book is based was founded on conversations between two of its authors W E Lyons and David Lowery during the early 1980s Frameworks of Power Stewart R Clegg,1989-07-17 This textbook provides a coherent and comprehensive account of the different frameworks for understanding power which have been advanced within the social sciences Though looking back to the classical literature on power with special emphasis on Machiavelli and Hobbes the book concentrates on the modern analysis of power from both British and American social and political theorists and from German Critical Theory and French theorists such as Foucault and develops upon its theory and its application Not only does the book provide an overview of the various frameworks of power advanced by these and other influential thinkers but it also develops a new synthesis based on important work in both the sociology of science and the sociology of organizations This approach is then applied to key questions in the comparative historical sociology of the emergence of the modern state Community Power Succession Floyd Hunter,2018-11-15 Hunter returns to Atlanta and reveals how the power structure of the 1950s has changed during the 1960s and 1970s By combining scholarly analysis personal reminiscences observation and social prescription he provides a companion work that is as important as its predecessor He compares the earlier circles of top leadership with the new men of power and examines substantive social change in power structure relations including the roles played by blacks and by white real estate developers Originally published 1980 A UNC Press Enduring Edition UNC Press Enduring Editions use the latest in digital technology to make available again books from our distinguished backlist that were previously out of print These editions are published unaltered from the original and are presented in affordable paperback formats bringing readers both historical and cultural value

The Grassroots of Democracy Norman R. Luttbeg,1999-01-01 American cities provide many of the governmental services that contribute to a greater quality of life for their inhabitants Local governments are seen as those closest to the people and most responsive to them more so than state and national governments Yet typical turnout in municipal elections is below 30 percent of those eligible few people want to be candidates for low paying positions in city governments and seldom are elections competitive rarely do they offer voters a choice of policy positions among candidates In The Grassroots of Democracy Norman Luttbeg provides the results of a comparative study of two rounds of elections in the late 1980s and early 1990s in 118 randomly chosen cities whose populations exceed 25 000 Luttbeg seeks to account for why some cities had competitive elections while others did not to assess the impact of competition on municipal policies such as achieving growth or lowering taxes and to examine the interaction between competition and accurate representation of minorities and women Never before has a study comparatively assessed elections and policies in American cities in sufficient numbers that the idiosyncrasies of cities do not swamp the general patterns The Grassroots of Democracy will thus hold significant interest for political scientists sociologists urban planners and public administrators
