Freeman, 2011-11-22 In the years leading up to and directly following rapprochement with China in 1992 the South Korean government looked to ethnic Korean Chosŏn'ok brides and laborers from northeastern China to restore productivity to its industries and countryside South Korean officials and the media celebrated these overtures not only as a pragmatic solution to population problems but also as a patriotic project of reuniting ethnic Koreans after nearly fifty years of Cold War separation As Caren Freeman's fieldwork in China and South Korea shows the attempt to bridge the geopolitical divide in the name of Korean kinship proved more difficult than any of the parties involved could have imagined Discriminatory treatment artificially suppressed wages clashing gender logics and the criminalization of so-called runaway brides and undocumented workers tarnished the myth of ethnic homogeneity and exposed the contradictions at the heart of South Korea's transnational kin-making project Unlike migrant brides who could acquire citizenship migrant workers were denied the rights of long-term settlement and stringent quotas restricted their entry As a result many Chosŏn'ok migrants arranged paper marriages and fabricated familial ties to South Korean citizens to bypass the state apparatus of border control Making and Faking Kinship depicts acts of counterfeit kinship false documents and the leaving behind of spouses and children as strategies implemented by disenfranchised people to gain mobility within the region's changing political economy The Mercenary's Bride Claire

Delacroix, 2018-01-01 Sexploitation Michèle Alexandre, 2014-12-17 Michèle Alexandre's innovative study examines how sexual profiling represses oppresses and hinders various aspects of life for both genders and explores the ways in which the law and the community can help eradicate the practice of sexual profiling Alexandre defines sexploitation as the perpetuation of myths and stereotypical notions regarding men and women in order to further an agenda of oppression and subordination in certain spheres of society The most popular means through which this sexploitation is achieved is through a method Alexandre coins as sexual profiling She argues that sexual profiling ultimately stifles the growth of our society by creating inefficient as well as oppressive systems and that its eradication can help increase the productivity as well as the morale of society Alexandre opens the book by exploring in detail the various ways in which normative views of gender are constructed and perpetuated through media and societal norms She then focuses on the ways in which recent legal opinions and developments contribute to perpetuate these restrictive and oppressive norms Finally Alexandre outlines a plan to help eliminate the presence of these destructive norms and attitudes from different sectors of society All the Good Ones
