Running in Literature Roger Robinson,2003 Running in Literature is the first history of running as a literary subject and in the hands of Roger Robinson it s informative original and wonderfully entertaining Running is an important element in some of the world s great books from the Iliad and Odyssey of Homer to the novels of Thomas Hardy and James Joyce Famous poems about running and runners extend from Pindar and Ovid Walt Whitman Rudyard Kipling and A E Housman to contemporary American writers Their story is told with the knowledge and insights of a world class literary critic and world class runner Book jacket Dreamers Often Lie Jacqueline West,2016-04-05 New York Times bestselling author Jacqueline West makes her YA debut in this Shakespeare inspired novel for fans of Holly Black and Laini Taylor If you liked the trippy hallucinations of Black Swan you ll be mesmerized by Jacqueline West s eerie new YA romance Entertainment Weekly Who can you trust when you can t trust yourself Jaye wakes up from a skiing accident with a fractured skull a blinding headache and her grip on reality sliding into delusion Determined to get back to her starring role in the school production of A Midsummer Night s Dream Jaye lies to her sister her mom her doctors She s fine she says She s fine If anyone knew the truth that hallucinations of Shakespeare and his characters have followed her from her hospital bed to the high school halls it would all be over She s almost managing to pull off the act when Romeo shows up in her anatomy class And it turns out that he s 100 percent real Suddenly Jaye has to choose between lying to everyone else and lying to herself Troubled by this magnetic boy a long lost friend turned recent love interest and the darkest parts of her family s past Jaye s life tangles with Shakespeare s most famous plays until she can t tell where the truth ends and pretending begins Soon secret meetings and

dizzying first kisses give way to more dangerous things How much is real how much is in Jaye s head and how much does it matter as she flies toward a fate over which she seems to have no control The Longest Race Ed Ayres,2013-08-20 It soon becomes clear that this book isn t just about an athletic race It s also about the human race Bloomberg Businessweek Having run in more than six hundred races over the span of fifty five years Ed Ayres is a legendary distance runner and this book is his urgent exploration of the connection between individual endurance and a sustainable society The Longest Race begins in 2001 at the starting line of the JFK 50 Mile the nation s oldest and largest ultramarathon and like other such races it s an epic test of human limits and aspiration At age sixty his sights set on breaking the age division record Ayres embarks on a course over the rocky ridge of the Appalachian Trail along the headwind buffeted towpath of the Potomac River and past momentous Civil War sites such as Harpers Ferry and Antietam But even as Ayres focuses on an endurance runner s familiar concerns starting strong and setting the right pace controlling his breathing overcoming fatigue and staying mindful of the course ahead he finds himself as preoccupied with the future of our planet as with the finish line A veteran journalist and environmental editor Ayres reveals how the skills and mindset necessary to complete an ultramarathon are also essential for grappling anew with the imperative to endure not only as individuals but as a society and not just for fifty miles but over the real long haul in a unique meditation that ought to be required reading even for people who have never run a step The Boston Globe He seamlessly moves between discussing running to exploring larger life issues such as why we run our impact on the environment and the effects of the nation s declining physical fitness Thought provoking Booklist To read this book is to run alongside a seasoned athlete a deep thinker and a great storyteller And Ayres doesn t disappoint He is the best kind of running companion generously doling out hilarious stories and hard won insights into performance conditioning and the human condition His lifetime of ultra running and environmental writing drive his exploration of what keeps us running long distances and what it might take to keep the planet from being run into the ground Nature Conservancy magazine
