The Uses of Literature Perry Link,2021-03-09 Why do people in socialist China read and write literary works Earlier studies in Western Sinology have approached Chinese texts from the socialist era as portraits of society as keys to the tug of war of dissent or more recently as pursuit of pure art The Uses of Literature looks broadly and empirically at these and many other uses of literature from the points of view of authors editors political authorities and several kinds of readers Perry Link author of Evening Chats in Beijing considers texts ranging from elite misty poetry to underground hand copied volumes shouchauben and shows in concrete detail how people who were involved with literature sought to teach learn enjoy explore debate lead control and resist Using the late 1970s and early 1980s as an entree to the workings of China s socialist literary system the author shows how that system held sway from 1950 until around 1990 when an encroaching market economy gradually but fundamentally changed it In addition to providing a definitive overview of how the socialist Chinese literary system worked Link offers comparisons to the similar system in the Soviet Union In the final chapter the book seeks to explain how the word good was used and understood when applied to literary works in such systems Combining aspects of cultural and literary studies The Uses of Literature will reward anyone interested in the literature of modern China or how creativity is affected by a socialist literary system

began to raise an increasingly urgent question why had a Chinese writer never won a Nobel Prize for literature Promoted to the level of official policy issue and national complex Nobel anxiety generated articles conferences and official delegations to Sweden Exiled writer Gao Xingjian's win in 2000 failed to satisfactorily end the matter and the controversy surrounding the Nobel committee's choice has continued to simmer Julia Lovell's comprehensive study of China's obsession spans the twentieth century and taps directly into the key themes of modern Chinese culture national identity international status and the relationship between intellectuals and politics The intellectual preoccupation with the Nobel literature prize expresses tensions inherent in China's move toward a global culture after the collapse of the Confucian world view at the start of the twentieth century and particularly since China's re entry into the world economy in the post Mao era Attitudes toward the prize reveal the same contradictory mix of admiration resentment and anxiety that intellectuals and writers have long felt toward Western values as they struggled to shape a modern Chinese identity In short the Nobel complex reveals the pressure points in an intellectual community not entirely sure of itself Making use of extensive original research including interviews with leading contemporary Chinese authors and critics The Politics of Cultural Capital is a comprehensive up to date treatment of an issue that cuts to the heart of modern and contemporary Chinese thought and culture It will be essential reading for scholars of modern Chinese literature and culture globalization post colonialism and comparative and world literature

Library Journal ,1877     Positions ,1996     Ezra Pound and the Appropriation of Chinese Poetry Ming Xie,2015-12-22 This book focuses on the relations between the translation and appropriation of classical Chinese poetry by Ezra Pound and some of his contemporaries and the development of Anglo American Imagist poetry and poetics It is concerned as much with critical aspects of this correlative relationship as with the question of historical influence and ascription The author places the early work of Ezra Pound in the context of works of Chinese translation by other contemporary poet translators such as Arthur Waley and Amy Lowell and examines the whole notion of an ideogrammic poetry as advocated by Ernest Fenollosa and Ezra Pound against an appropriately reconstructed historical and critical context of poetic theory and practice Closely linked to this is a discussion of Pound's use of personae and modulation of the elegiac in relation to the immediately preceding context of late Victorian elegiac lyricism and Browniguesque dramatic monologue Through a series of close readings of translations from the Chinese especially those by Pound the author shows how the critical problem of what is involved in translating a Chinese poem into a new English poem is closely linked to the particulars of early Modernist literary history In particular through tracing the trajectory of a number of central issues and notions such as absolute free floating metaphor metaphor as epiphanic image and its relation to syntax metaphor and parallelism experiments with rhythm and cadence the book explores some of the reasons for Fenollosa's and Pound's emphasis on the visual image the notion of phanopoeia and ideogrammic verbal action as the active perceiving of relations and closely examines the genesis and significance of Pound's ideogrammic method as well as the question of cultural misreading and vicarious envisagement and provides a critical overview of Pound's general engagement with translation
