Rural Africa:

The Transformation of Rural Africa T. S. Jayne, Jordan Chamberlin, Rui Benfica, 2020-04-28 Contemporary discussions of Africa's recent growth have largely interpreted such growth in terms of structural transformation based mainly on national and sectoral level data. However, the micro level processes driving this transformation are still unclear and remain the subject of debate. This collection provides a micro economic foundation for understanding the particular growth processes at work within the region's rural areas and in so doing provides important insights for policy action. The book provides valuable household and farm level evidence about the drivers of rural labour productivity improvements in access to markets investment in food value chains and indeed the role of rural economic growth in Africa's ongoing rural transformation processes. Some of the features of Africa's ongoing rural transformation are similar to those of agricultural transformation as experienced in Asia and elsewhere. However, other features of Africa's rural transformation are unique and pose important challenges for development policy and planning. Together, the studies compiled in this volume provide an updated evidence based and policy relevant understanding of where African countries are in their developmental trajectories and the region's prospects for achieving inclusive forms of development over the next several decades. This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Development Studies.

Agriculture, Diversification, and Gender in Rural Africa Agnes Andersson Djurfeldt, Fred Mawunyo Dzanku, Aida C. Isinika, 2018 This book contributes to the understanding of smallholder agriculture in sub-Saharan Africa through addressing the dynamics of intensification and diversification within and outside agriculture in contexts where women have much poorer access to agrarian resources than men.

Morality and Economic Growth in Rural West Africa Paul Clough, 2014-06-01 The land labor credit and trading institutions of Marmara village in Hausaland northern Nigeria are detailed in this study through fieldwork conducted in two national economic cycles: the petroleum boom/prosperity in 1977-1979 and the macro economic decline in 1985-1996 and 1998. The book unveils a new paradigm of economic change in the West African savannah demonstrating how rural accumulation in a polygynous society actually limits the extent of inequality while at the same time promoting technical change. A uniquely African non-capitalist trajectory of accumulation subordinates the acquisition of capital to the expansion of polygynous families' clientage networks and circles of trading friends. The whole trajectory is driven by an indigenous ethics of personal responsibility. This model disputes the validity of both Marxian theories of capitalist transformation in Africa and the New Institutional Economics.

Covid and Custom in Rural South Africa Leslie Bank, Nelly Sharpley, 2022-06-09 This book explores the impact of Covid-19 and the associated state lockdown on rural lives in a former homeland in South Africa. The 2020 Disaster Management Act saw the state sweep through rural areas targeting funerals and other customary practices as potential super-spreader events. This unprecedented clampdown produced widespread disruption, fear, and anxiety. The authors build on path-breaking work concerning local responses to West Africa's Ebola epidemic and examine the HIV/AIDS pandemic to understand the impact of the Covid crisis on these communities and on rural Africa more broadly To shed light on the role of custom and ritual in rural social change during the pandemic Covid and Custom in Rural South Africa applies long term historical and ethnographic research theories of people s science local knowledge and the human economy and fieldwork conducted in ten rural South African communities during lockdown The volume highlights differences between developments in Southern Africa and elsewhere on the continent while exploring how the former apartheid homelands commonly yet problematically represented as former labour reserves have since been reconstituted as new home spaces In short it explains why rural people have been so angered by the state s assault on their cultural practices and institutions in the time of Covid

Youth and Jobs in

Rural Africa Valerie Mueller,James Thurlow,2019-11-28 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC 4 0 International licence It is free to read at Oxford Scholarship Online and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations Sub Saharan Africa s rural population is growing rapidly and more young people are entering the labour market every year This raises serious policy questions Can rural economies absorb enough job seekers Could better educated youth transform Africa s rural economies by adopting new technologies and starting businesses Are policymakers responding to the youth employment challenge Or will there be widespread unemployment social instability and an exodus to cities and abroad Youth and Jobs in Rural Africa Beyond Stylized Facts uses survey data to build a nuanced understanding of the constraints and opportunities facing rural youth in Africa Addressing the questions of Africa s rural youth is currently hampered by major gaps in our knowledge and stylized facts from cross country trends or studies that do not focus on the core issues Youth and Jobs in Rural Africa takes a different approach drawing on household and firm surveys from selected African countries with an explicit focus on rural youth It argues that a balance between alarm and optimism is warranted and that Africa s youth bulge is not an unprecedented challenge Jobs in rural areas are limited but agriculture is transforming and youth are participating adopting new technologies and running businesses Governments have adopted youth employment as a priority but policies often do not address the specific needs of rural populations Youth and Jobs in Rural Africa emphasizes that by going beyond stylized facts and drawing on more granular analysis we can design effective policies to turn Africa s youth problem into an opportunity for rural transformation

Youth and the Rural Economy in Africa J. E. Sumberg,2021 This book brings together recent findings from quantitative and qualitative research from across Africa to illuminate how young men and women engage with the rural economy imagine their futures and how development policies and interventions find traction or not with these realities Through framing overview and evidence based chapters it provides a critical perspective on current discourse research and development interventions around youth and rural development It is organised around commonly made foundational claims that large numbers of young people are leaving rural areas have no interest in agriculture cannot access land are stuck in permanent waithood that the rural economy provides or can provide a wealth of opportunity and that they can be the engine of rural transformation It draws from existing literature and new analysis arising from several multi country and multi disciplinary studies focusing on gender and other aspects of social difference It is a major contribution to current debates and development policy about youth agriculture and employment in rural Africa Bush Bound Paolo Gaibazzi,2015-08-01 Whereas most studies of migration focus on movement this book examines the experience of staying put It looks at young men living in a Soninke speaking village in Gambia who although eager to travel abroad for money and experience settle as farmers heads of families businessmen civic activists or alternatively as unemployed demoted youth Those who stay do so not only because of financial and legal limitations but also because of pressures to maintain family and social bases in the Gambia valley Stayers thus enable migrants to migrate while ensuring the activities and values attached to rural life are passed on to the future generations Rural Transitions to Higher Education in South Africa Sue Timmis,Thea de Wet,Kibashini Naidoo,Sheila Trahar,Lisa Lucas,Emmanuel Mfanafuthi Mgwashu,Patricia Muhuro,Gina Wisker,2021-09-14 This unique and timely book focuses on research conducted into the experiences of students from rural backgrounds in South Africa foregrounding decolonial perspectives on their negotiation of access and transitions to higher education This book highlights not only the challenges of coming from a rural background against the historical backdrop of apartheid and ongoing colonialism but also shows the immense assets that students from rural areas bring into higher education Through detailed narratives created by student co researchers the book charts early experiences in rural communities negotiations of transitions to university and in many cases to urban life and students subsequent journeys through higher education spaces and curricula The book will be of significant interest and value to those engaged in rurality research across diverse settings those interested in the South African higher education context and higher education more widely Its innovative participatory methodology will be invaluable to researchers seeking to conduct collaborative research that draws on decolonising approaches Women Wielding the Hoe Deborah Bryceson,2020-08-29 How effective is western aid agency intervention in Africa What can African women do to manage the AIDS crisis Can western feminist theory be applied to the rural African context These vital issues and many others are considered in this topical book by eminent scholars and development consultants The book aims to increase awareness of the importance of women agricultural producers to African material development and to expose the western biases that have traditionally pervaded the study of rural African women The authors critical analyses of conventional research methodology and key women and development debates over the last three decades will stimulate new research perspectives Students and scholars of development development workers and policymakers will all find this book fascinating reading Food Security for Rural Africa Terry Leahy,2020-09-30 At least fifty years of projects aimed at the rural poor in Africa have had very little impact Up to half of the children of these countries are still suffering from stunting and malnutrition Soil degradation and poor crop yields are ubiquitous Projects are almost always aimed at helping local people to solve their problems by growing for the market In some countries projects link poor villagers into cooperatives to produce a commercial output In other countries projects target more competent entrepreneurial villagers Almost all these projects fail after several years Even those that are successful make few inroads into the problems While the slogan feeding the farmers first comes from the Philippines it is particularly applicable to much of Africa where household food security can come from household production This book explains how projects can be designed that increase food security through subsistence production Focusing on particular people and projects it gives a sociological analysis of why this is so difficult to manage This book challenges the models promoted by academics in the field of development studies and argues against the strategies adopted by most donor organizations and government bodies It explains why commercial projects have been so ubiquitous even though they rarely work It gives practical tips on how to set up villages and farms to achieve sustainable solutions that also provide plenty of nutritious food The book is written to be accessible and engaging For anyone planning to work in the rural areas of Africa this book is required reading

Rural Water Supply in Africa Peter Harvey, Bob Reed, 2004 This book is designed to assist those responsible for planning implementing and supporting rural water supply programmes to increase sustainability

Public Expenditures for Agricultural and Rural Development in Africa Tewodaj Mogues, Samuel Benin, 2012-03-15 Whereas there is plenty of work looking at macroeconomic effect of public spending on growth and poverty in Africa as well as studies of the impact of spending or investment in one economic sector on outcomes in that sector or on broader welfare measures this book fills a much needed gap in the research looking how the composition of public spending affects key development outcomes in the region The book brings together recent analysis on the trends in and returns to public spending for agricultural growth and rural development in Africa Case studies of selected African countries provide insights on the contributions of different types of public expenditures for poverty growth and welfare outcomes as well as insights into the constraints in gaining development mileage from investments in the agricultural sector

Losing Place Johnathan Bascom, 1998 Refugee flight settlement and repatriation are not static self contained or singular events Instead they are three stages of an ongoing process made and mirrored in the lives of real people For that reason there is an evident need for historical and longitudinal studies of refugee populations that rise above description and trace the process of social transformation during the full circle of flight resettlement and return home This book probes the economic forces and social processes responsible for shaping the everyday existence for refugees as they move through exile

African Perspectives on Reshaping Rural Development Mafukata, Mavhungu Abel, Tshikolomo, Khathutshelo Alfred, 2019-11-22 Development studies in developing regions such as Southern Africa rely heavily on materials developed by Europeans with a European context European dominance in development studies emanates from the fact that the discipline was first developed by Europeans Some argue that this has led to distortions in theory and practice of development in Southern Africa This book wishes to begin Africa's expedition to develop proper material to de-Westernize while Africanizing the context of the scholarship of rural development African Perspectives on Reshaping Rural Development is an essential reference source that repositions the context of rural development studies from the Western-centric knowledge system into an African context in order to solve African-centered problems Featuring research on topics such as food security poverty reduction and community engagement this book is ideally designed for planners researchers practitioners policymakers government officials academicians and students seeking clarity on theory and practice of development in Africa Technology, Sustainability, and Rural Development in Africa Blessing M. Maumbe, 2013 This book provides research analytical methods techniques and development policies in ICT adoption and diffusion in Africa and around the globe highlighting the major trends in ICT applications and rural development Provided by publisher Africa on the Move Malte Steinbrink, Hannah Niedenfür, 2019-10-31 This book discusses migration and space spanning social network relationships as normal realities of life in African societies It offers an overview of the research landscape and introduces an agency-centered theoretical model that provides a conceptual framework for translocality The authors Malte Steinbrink and Hannah Niedenfür plead for a translocal approach to social transformation showing how the translocality of livelihoods is shaping the lives of half a billion people on the continent and impacting local conditions Using an action-oriented approach the book analyzes the effects of translocal livelihoods on diverse aspects of economic environmental and social change in rural Sub-Saharan Africa The study thus makes an innovative contribution not only to migration research and development studies but also to the discussion around the policy and practice of development cooperation and planning It is time to rethink development in light of translocal realities The book appeals to scholars and researchers in geography sociology policy making and planning development studies migration research and rural development The Palgrave Handbook of Agricultural and Rural Development in Africa Evans S. Osabuohien, 2020-07-06 This handbook examines agricultural and rural development in Africa from theoretical empirical and policy standpoints It discusses the challenges of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals SDGs and assesses how poverty and other development concerns can be addressed in rural communities through agricultural transformation Additionally the handbook extends the Post 2015 Development Agenda and it emphasizes the importance of the agricultural sector as it is closely related to the issues of food sustainability poverty reduction and employment creation The contributors suggest multiple evidence-based policies to develop the rural areas through the transformation of the agricultural sector which can significantly benefit the African continent Democratic Rural Organizations Esbern Friis-Hansen, Janki Andharia, Suubi Godfrey, 2017-12-22 Democratic rural organizations can play an important role in helping their members who are frequently poor farmers living in the margins of the economy to escape their disadvantaged starting point and to gain access to financial services political influence and profitable markets for their product Democratic Rural Organizations Thresholds for Evolution in Africa and Asia traces the evolution of democratic rural organizations from small groups to larger NGO financed multi tier democratic rural organizations in recent years Rural citizens have historically formed democratic organizations by their own initiative to enhance economic and social wellbeing but in recent years rural mobilization processes are frequently initiated and supported by national Civil Society Organizations CSOs who are financed and guided by international NGOs a process which has had mixed results Using rich empirical material from Uganda India Bangladesh and Cambodia Democratic Rural Organizations Thresholds for Evolution in Africa and Asia identifies eight thresholds which represent practical stages in the development pathway of democratic rural organizations and influence success or failure Both development practitioners and researchers of development and rural policy will find this book a useful guide to the deployment of democratic organization as a strategy for economic and political empowerment
