Larson,2013 Understanding economic growth is central to the study of development Rural economic growth is an important aspect of economic growth Historically rural agriculture has employed most people in most countries and continues to do so today Nevertheless the casual relationship between economic growth and growth in agriculture remain poorly understood This volume focuses on economic growth in the agriculture sectors of Indonesia the Philippines and Thailand Starting from similar positions the agriculture sectors of these economies have diverged considerably over the last 40 years This volume investigates the ways in which policy institutions investments resource constraints and the reallocation of agricultural labor have driven this divergence It volume documents the interplay of endowments technology the accumulation of productive factors policy and advocacy in the rural sectors of these three countries It contributes in its own ways to an explanation of the past Good policy rests on an understanding of successes and failures in the past This book is a critical contribution to such an understanding Whither the Philippines in the 21st Century? Rodolfo C Severino,Lorraine Carlos

Salazar,2007 Examines contradictory economic and political trends occurring in the Philippines in order to gain a sense of the country s prospects Reasserting the Rural Development Agenda Arsenio Molina Balisacan,2003-08-01 The agricultural sector s perceived importance in the international development circle waned dramatically after the 1980s and investments in rural development and agricultural research and development declined sharply This volume reasserts the role of agricultural and rural development in the economic development debate By revisiting the evolution of ideas paradigms and empirical evidence and by drawing on Asian experiences the book intends to set a reinvigorated agenda on agricultural and rural development both for research and policy discussions in the coming decades Written by internationally acknowledged research scholars this book is helpful to a wide range of audience including researchers policymakers practitioners and students interested in rural development in Asia and its future evolutions Land and Loyalty Tomas Larsson,2012-06-15

Domestic and international development strategies often focus on private ownership as a crucial anchor for long term investment the security of property rights provides a foundation for capitalist expansion In recent years Thailand s policies have been hailed as a prime example of how granting formal land rights to poor farmers in low income countries can result in economic benefits But the country provides a puzzle Thailand faced major security threats from colonial powers in the nineteenth century and from communism in the twentieth century yet only in the latter case did the government respond with pro development tactics In Land and Loyalty Tomas Larsson argues that institutional underdevelopment may prove under certain circumstances a strategic advantage rather than a weakness and that external threats play an important role in shaping the development of property regimes Security concerns he find often guide economic policy The domestic legacies legal and socioeconomic resulting from state responses to the outside world shape and limit the strategies available to politicians While Larsson s extensive archival research findings are drawn from Thai sources he situates the experiences of Thailand in comparative perspective by contrasting them with the trajectory of property rights in Japan Burma and the Philippines

Asia-Africa Development Divergence David Henley, 2015-02-12 Why have South East Asian countries like Malaysia Indonesia and Vietnam been so successful in reducing levels of absolute poverty while in African countries like Kenya Nigeria and Tanzania despite recent economic growth most people are still almost as poor as they were half a century ago This book presents a simple radical explanation for the great divergence in development performance between Asia and Africa the absence in most parts of Africa and the presence in Asia of serious developmental intent on the part of national political leaders

Small Farmers for Global Food Security Thomas Reuter, Graeme MacRae, 2024-04-05 Food systems in Indonesia and worldwide have experienced major transformations in the wake of agricultural modernisation Once intact ecosystems have declined dramatically along with human diets long term food security and social cohesion Using long term ethnographic research we documented this loss of traditional food systems in Java Bali East Timor and India but also a recent revival and reinvention of sustainable production methods and community based distribution systems A growing movement of small farmers now reject the dominant paradigm of aggressive capitalist development and are re-creating food systems based on moral ecology a new concept we introduce to characterise food systems that regenerate the natural environment and serve the common good rather than maximise profit Small farmers like these already feed two thirds of humanity using only a third of agricultural land With proper support we argue they could feed the entire world using sustainable and socially responsible approaches to eradicate world hunger

Agricultural research in Southeast Asia: A cross-country analysis of resource allocation, performance, and impact on productivity Stads, Gert-Jan,Nin-Pratt, Alejandro,Omot, Norah,Thi Pham, Nguyen,2020-10-26 Southeast Asia made considerable progress in building and strengthening its agricultural R D capacity during 2000 2017 All of the region s countries reported higher numbers of agricultural researchers improvements in their average qualification levels and higher shares of women participating in agricultural R D In contrast regional agricultural research spending remained stagnant despite considerable growth in agricultural output over time As a result Southeast Asia s agricultural research intensity that is agricultural research spending as a share of agricultural GDP steadily declined from 0 50 percent in 2000 to just 0 33 percent in 2017 Although the extent of underinvestment in agricultural research differs across countries all Southeast Asian countries invested below the levels deemed attainable based on the analysis summarized in this report The region will need to increase its agricultural research investment substantially in order to address future agricultural production challenges more effectively and ensure productivity growth Southeast Asia s least developed agricultural research systems Cambodia Laos and Myanmar are characterized by low scientific output and researcher productivity as a direct consequence of severe underfunding and lack of sufficient well qualified research staff While Malaysia and Thailand have significantly more developed agricultural research systems they still report key inefficiencies and resource constraints that require attention Indonesia the Philippines and Vietnam occupy intermediate positions between these two groups of high and low performing agricultural research systems Growing national economies higher disposable incomes and changing consumption patterns will prompt considerable shifts in levels of agricultural production consumption imports and exports across Southeast Asia over the next 20 to 30 years The resource allocation decisions that governments make today will affect agricultural productivity for decades to come Governments therefore need to ensure the research they undertake is responsive to future challenges and opportunities and aligned with strategic development and agricultural sector plans ASTI's projections reveal that prioritizing investment in staple crops will still trigger fastest agricultural productivity growth in Laos However Indonesia Malaysia and Vietnam could achieve faster growth over the next 30 years by prioritizing investment in research focused on fruit vegetables livestock and aquaculture In Cambodia Myanmar and Thailand the choice between focusing on staple crops versus high value commodities was less pronounced but projections did indicate that prioritizing investments in oil crop research would trigger significantly lower growth in agricultural productivity The World Bank Research Program 2001 World Bank, World Bank Staff, 2001-01-01 This publication is a compilation of reports on research projects initiated under way or completed in fiscal year 2001 July 1 2000 through June 30 2001 The abstracts cover 150 research projects from the World Bank and grouped under 11 major headings including poverty and social development health and population education labor and employment environment infrastructure and urban development and agriculture and rural development The abstracts detail the questions addressed the analytical methods used the findings to date and their policy implications Each abstract identifies the expected completion date of each project the research team and reports or publications produced

Tropical Rainforests and Agroforests under Global Change Teja Tschardt, Christoph Leuschner, Edzo Veldkamp, Heiko Faust, Edi Guhardja, Arifuddin Bidin, 2010-02-04 not only for land use systems that depend on the regular supply of rain or irrigation water but also for the future development of natural rainforests as drought stress has been shown to affect tree growth and species composition in old growth forests Wright 1991 Walsh and Newbery 1999 Engelbrecht et al 2007 A drought experiment conducted in a cacao agroforestry plantation showed that this plantation was surprisingly resilient to an induced drought of more than a year Schwendenmann et al 2009 However droughts can have a strong impact on household incomes from agriculture they strongly affect the vulnerability to poverty and thus have to be analyzed as important exogenous shocks to households forcing them to adjust their behaviour and develop strategies to cope with these problems The stability of rainforest margins is a critical factor in the protection of tropical rainforests Tschardt et al 2007 At present however rainforest margins in many parts of the tropics are far from stable both in socioeconomic and in ecological terms For example protected areas may attract rather than repel human settlement which may be due to international donor investment in national conservation programs Wittemeyer et al 2008 An alternative hypothesis is that protected areas might be compromised if leakage takes place that is if impacts that would take place inside the restricted area are displaced to a nearby undisturbed area Ewers and Rodrigues 2008

Determinants of Agricultural Growth in Indonesia, the Philippines, and Thailand Yair Mundlak, Donald F. Larson, Rita Butzer, 2002 Determinants of Agricultural Growth in Indonesia, the Philippines, and Thailand Rita Butzer, 2016 The introduction of new high yielding varieties of cereals in the 1960s known as the green revolution changed dramatically the food supply in Asia as well as in other countries Mundlak

Larson and Butzer examine over an extended period the growth consequences for agriculture in Indonesia the Philippines and Thailand Despite geographic proximity similar climate and other shared characteristics gains in productivity and income differed significantly among the countries The authors quantify these differences and examine their determinants Mundlak Larson and Butzer find that the new technology changed the returns to fertilizers irrigated land and capital all of which proved scarce to varying degrees Complementing technology related changes in factor use were investments public and private driven in part by policy The authors find that factor accumulation played an important role in output growth and that accumulations from policy driven investments in human capital and public infrastructure were important sources of productivity gains They conclude that policies that ease constraints on factor markets and promote public investment in people and infrastructure provide the best opportunities for agricultural growth This paper a product of Rural Development Development Research Group is part of a larger effort in the group to understand appropriate policies that promote rural development The study was funded by the Bank s Research Support Budget under the research project quot Dynamism of Rural Sector Developmentquot RPO 683 06 The authors may be contacted at mundlak agri huji ac il dlarson worldbank org or rbutzer umich edu
