Developing States, Shaping Citizenship Erin Hern, 2019-05-06 At the nexus of political science development studies and public policy Developing States Shaping Citizenship analyzes an overlooked driver of political behavior citizens past experience with the government through service provision Using evidence from Zambia this book demonstrates that the quality of citizens interactions with the government through service provision sends them important signals about what they can hope to gain from political action These interactions influence not only formal political behaviors like voting but also collective behavior political engagement and subversive behaviors like tax evasion Lack of capacity for service delivery not only undermines economic growth and human development but also citizens confidence in the responsiveness of the political system Absent this confidence citizens are much less likely to participate in democratic processes express their preferences or comply with state revenue collection Economic development and political development in low capacity states Hern argues are concurrent processes Erin Accampo Hern draws on original data from an original large N survey interviews Afrobarometer data and archival materials collected over 12 months in Zambia The theory underlying this book s framework is that of policy feedback which argues that policies once in place influence the subsequent political participation of the affected population This theory has predominantly been applied to advanced industrial democracies and this book is the first explicit effort to adapt the theory to the developing country context

Keeping House in Lusaka Karen Tranberg Hansen, 1997 In April 1993 as part of the March on Washington for Lesbian Gay and Bi Equal Rights and Liberation hundreds of couples participated in the Wedding a symbolic commitment ceremony held in front of the Internal Revenue Service building Part protest and part affirmation of devotion the event was a reminder that marriage rights have become a major issue among lesbians and gay men who cannot marry legally and can only claim domestic partner rights in a few locations in the United States Yet despite official lack of recognition same sex wedding ceremonies have been increasing in frequency over the past decade Ellen Lewin who has consecrated her own lesbian relationship with a commitment ceremony decided to explore the myriad ways in which lesbians and gay men create meaningful ceremonies for themselves She offers the first comprehensive account of lesbian and gay weddings in modern America A series of richly detailed profiles the result of extensive interviews and participation in the planning and realization of many of these commitment rituals is woven together to show how new traditions and ultimately new families are emerging within contemporary America Just as the book is a moving portrait of same sex couples today it is also a significant political document on a new arena in the struggle for lesbian and gay rights In a larger sense Lewin s work is about the politics surrounding same sex marriages and the ramifications for central dimensions of American culture such as kinship community morality and love Lewin explores the ceremonies themselves which range from traditional church weddings to Wicca rituals in the countryside with portraits of the planning the joys and the anxieties that led up to the weddings She introduces Bob and Mark a leather fetishist couple who sanctified their love by legally changing their last names and exchanging vows in tuxedos leather bow ties and knee high police boots In an equally absorbing profile Lewin describes Khadija from a working class black family deeply suspicious of whites and especially Jews and Shulamith raised in a Zionist household She tells of how the two women struggled to reconcile their widely disparate upbringings and how they ultimately combined elements of African and Jewish traditions in their wedding These among many other stories make Recognizing Ourselves a vivid tapestry of lesbian and gay life in post Stonewall United States

State Power and Social Forces Joel Samuel Migdal, Atul Kohli, Vivienne Shue, 1994-08-26 This eminently readable 1994 collection of high quality country specific essays on Third World politics provides through a variety of well integrated themes and approaches an examination of state theory as it has been practised in the past and how it must be refined for the future The contributors go beyond the previously articulated bringing the state back in model to offer their own state in society approach They argue that states which should be disaggregated for meaningful comparative study are best analysed as parts of societies States may help mould but are also continually moulded by the societies within which they are embedded States capacities further will vary depending on their ties to other social forces And other social forces will be capable of being mobilised into political contention only under certain conditions Political contention pitting states against other social forces may sometimes be mutually enfeebling but at other times mutually empowering International Political Economy Yearbook W. Ladd Hollist, 2020-01-29 The International Political Economy Yearbook will be published annually under the sponsorship of the International Political Economy Section of the International Studies Association at the Department of Political Science Brigham Young University The intent of the series is to describe and explain the structure and the dynamic operation of the international political economy and to explore their political social and economic impact on different countries be they advanced market economies newly industrializing countries or underdeveloped countries This first volume is an overview of the policy and research field of international political economy studies It explores what international political economy is what approaches and theories might broaden and deepen our understanding of the phenomena addressed what perspectives seem inappropriate or misdirected and why neither international relations scholars nor mainstream economists can any longer claim status as senior partners in the community of scholars and policymakers interested in these issues It also addresses major policy problems confronting both advanced and developing countries including commodity trade foreign investment regulation of multinational corporations food shortages and other development problems industrial crises in the United States and Europe international debt and the increased role of the state in different economies State of the Continent M. Fobanjong, 2018-12-29 What precisely is the state of the African continent today Depending on ones perspective the answer may either dwell on Africas recent economic and political accomplishments or focus on the long standing single story of failure disaster and eternal dictatorships This book provides a nuanced forceful and balanced assessment of Africas political and economic performance since independence While acknowledging Africas tragic pitfalls dating to the transatlantic slave trade and colonialism State of the Continent skillfully argues that theories associated with the dependency school are no longer enough to explain the continents failures in governance and economic performance For a continent so richly blessed and endowed with both human and material resources the blame for Africas lackluster performance falls squarely on its leadership To get things right Nkrumahs vision of the primacy of the political kingdom must be prioritized whereupon economic gains shall predictably follow In lucid and persuasive prose this volume is an ideal book for scholars as well as students of international studies and African politics

Crisis and Conflict in Agriculture Rami Zurayk, Eckart Woertz, Rachel Bahn, 2018-09-18 This volume sets out to explore the dialectic relating agriculture crisis and conflict and attempts to expand the knowledge on these interactions Part 1 of the volume chapters 1 6 discusses thematic issues and methodological approaches to understanding the intersection of agriculture crisis and conflict Part 2 chapters 7 20 provides case studies that take a detailed approach to understanding agricultural contexts facing crisis and conflict or the role played by agriculture within crisis and conflict Studies are selected from areas that might be expected to feature in such a volume the Middle East and North Africa sub Saharan Africa South and Southeast Asia and Latin America as well as less obvious regions where conflict within agriculture refers not to widespread violence or wars but rather latent or simmering crisis Central Asia and Europe Crises stemming from politically driven violence natural disasters and climate change are covered as well as competition over resources The Rise and Decline of the Zairian State Crawford Young, Thomas Edwin Turner, 1985 Zaire apparently strong and stable under President Mobutu in the early 1970s was bankrupt and discredited by the end of that decade beset by hyperinflation and mass corruption the populace forced into abject poverty Why and how in a new african state strategically located in Central Africa and rich in mineral resources did this happen How did the Zairian state become a parasitic predator upon its own people Theory in Economic Anthropology Jean Ensminger, 2002 Comprising 13 contributions mostly based on papers presented at the annual conference of the Society for Economic Anthropology in 1998 at Northwestern University this volume focuses several themes the new institutionalism wealth exchange and the evolution of social institutions small producers interactions with the wider world commodity chains and the formal informal sector distinction and the role for big theory in economic anthropology Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR A Survey of Agricultural Economics Literature Lee R. Martin,1992 Left Behind Jeremy Gould,2010 Left Behind Rural Zambia in the Third Republic seeks to identify persistent obstacles associated with integrating rural producers into the national economy The analysis draws primarily on studies of the southern Luapula plateau The economic citizenship of rural Zambians is an end in itself but it also helps secure their democratic participation in defining the means and ends of the nation s development Small scale farmers have generally lost out on both counts For all of its much touted potential agriculture remains a back breaking unrewarding and uncertain livelihood for most Zambians much as it was at independence forty five years ago The findings presented here demonstrate how government officials chiefs and MPs are often distracted by concerns related more to their own rather than their constituencies fortunes When will rural Zambians find the means to have their voice heard in the corridors of power Salaula Karen Tranberg Hansen,2000-08 When we donate our unwanted clothes to charity we rarely think about what will happen to them who will sort and sell them and finally who will revive and wear them In this fascinating look at the multibillion dollar secondhand clothing business Karen Tranberg Hansen takes us around the world from the West where clothing is donated through the salvage houses in North America and Europe where it is sorted and compressed to Africa in this case Zambia There it enters the dynamic world of Salaula a Bemba term that means to rummage through a pile Essential for the African economy the secondhand clothing business is wildly popular to the point of threatening the indigenous textile industry But Hansen shows wearing secondhand clothes is about much more than imitating Western styles It is about taking a garment and altering it to something entirely local something that adheres to current cultural norms of etiquette By unraveling how these garments becomes entangled in the economic political and cultural processes of contemporary Zambia Hansen also raises provocative questions about environmentalism charity recycling and thrift
