Rural Restructuring Global Processes And Their Responses:

Rural Restructuring Terry Marsden, Philip Lowe, Sarah Whatmore, 1990 The volumes in this series provide a review of the progress of current research taking as their focus one major theme per volume Rural Restructuring Terry Marsden, Sarah Whatmore, Philip Lowe, 1990-01-01 Rural Restructuring, 1990 Rural Geography Michael Woods, 2004-12-09 Michael Woods has taken on the formidable task of giving an overview of rural places and society in advanced economies as a single author and has presented a book that rightly deserves to be called state of the art Geographische Rundschau With Rural Geography Michael Woods remedies the often underestimated dynamism of rural places and rural society by providing the much needed synthesis of the European and North American literature on rural restructuring and globalization processes Patrick H Mooney University of Kentucky Rural Geography is an introduction to contemporary rural societies and economies in the developed world It examines the social and economic processes at work in the contemporary countryside including the more traditional like agriculture land use and population as well as wider themes like rural health crime exclusion commodification and alternative lifestyles With a contextualising section defining the rural the text is organised systematically in three principal sections Processes of Rural Restructuring Responses to Rural Restructuring Experiences of Rural Restructuring Using the most recent empirical material statistical data and research the text is global in perspective using comparative examples throughout Rural Geography is a systematic introduction to the processes responses and experiences of rural restructuring The Global Restructuring of Agro-Food Systems Philip D. McMichael, 2019-05-15 Across the world food systems and agricultural systems are changing at a phenomenal rate Widespread restructuring has not been confined to the production and distribution of food though many regions and even nations are undergoing social political and economic transformation as well Bringing together twelve essays by scholars from a number of disciplines I this timely book documents the interdependence of food systems nation states and the world economy Stressing the political foundations of global agro food systems it sheds light on such complex questions as whether today's changes in food and agrarian systems anticipate a new world order or are merely efforts to preserve an old order in crisis Constructing The Countryside Terry Marsden, Jonathon Murdoch, Philip Lowe, Richard C Munton, Andrew Flynn, 2005-08-16 As the first book in the Restructuring Rural Areas series Constructing the countryside presents a new methodological approach to the analysis of rural change The authors seek to link wider developments in the global political economy to the behaviour of local actors and in so doing they place research into rural studies much more firmly than hitherto in the mainstream of social science enquiry The outcome is a book that promotes a truly interdisciplinary approach through which the constant reconstruction of the countryside can be properly understood This holistic perspective sustained by an historical analysis of rural change has been made possible by the extensive research experience of the authors The book is a product of the work done at the London Countryside Research Centre which was set up in 1989 by the Economic and Social Research Council

The Centre's research has focused upon the social and political forces for change in rural areas and how these relate to rapid alterations in national economic circumstances and to public policies affecting the countryside for example the Common Agricultural Policy of the EC On the one hand the book provides a set of insights into the trends that will guide rural change in advanced economies into the next century on the other it offers a challenging account of how they can be investigated Constructing the countryside will appeal to both students and staff in a wide range of social science disciplines including agricultural economics environmental management planning land economy geography and rural sociology and to all those concerned with the future development of rural areas This book is intended for students and researchers in rural planning and environmental geographical studies whether within a geographical or a sociological milieu The Rural Richard Munton, 2017-05-15 The rural has long been regarded as an important site of geographical inquiry even if our understanding of it has not always been treated as conceptually different from the urban That said rural research has pursued a number of distinct empirical agendas ranging from the operation and impacts of agribusiness to local resistance to global food supply chains to differing representations of the rural In doing so rural geographers have critically examined the relevance and significance of ideas drawn from numerous traditions including political economy ecological modernization and cultural theory amending them as appropriate in their search to understand the nature and trajectory of rural areas Up until the 1980s attention remained largely focused upon agriculture as the primary land use but increasingly new forms of rural consumption housing recreation nature conservation have taken centre stage as the primacy of local agricultures has been undermined by reduced state protection and new rural populations which have migrated out from the city More recently research has been dominated by the cultural turn with particular emphases upon society nature relations interpretations of landscape marginalised others and analyses of the relations between representation and practice In the last decade a more holistic view of the rural bringing together different aspects of the two previous themes has emerged through more politically oriented studies of rural governance concerned with the functioning of interest groups participation protest and the allocation and management of resources The volume is thus structured into three sections concerned with agriculture and food the rural and rural governance The great majority of the selected papers combine both empirical material often highly informative case studies and important conceptual arguments about change in the rural condition that can be linked to ideas being employed elsewhere in Geography and the Social Sciences more generally These critical reflections have been drawn very largely from research conducted in advanced economies which at least provide some commonality of experience allowing the transfer of ideas between what otherwise might be seen as very differing geographical contexts Education and the Global Rural Barbara Pini, Relebohile Moletsane, Martin Mills, 2017-10-02 This edited collection challenges the urban centric nature of much feminist work on gender and education The context for the book is the radical reconfiguration of rural areas that has occurred in recent decades as a result of globalisation From a range of diverse national contexts including Kenya and South Africa Australia and Canada and the United States and Pakistan authors explore the intersections between masculinity femininity and rurality in education In recognition of the heterogeneity of categories such as rural girl and rural boy they attend to how educational exclusions can be magnified by differences in relation to social locations such as class race or sexuality Similar critical insights are brought to bear as authors examine what it means to be a male or female teacher in rural environments Contributors draw on data ranging from contemporary feature films to historical materials along with detailed ethnographic work and participatory approaches to produce a compelling narrative of the need to understand education as experienced by those who are not part of the urban majority This book was originally published as a special issue of Gender and Education Restructuring Societies Alun E. Joseph,David B. Knight,1999 From the John Holmes Library Collection Community Development on the North Atlantic Margin John Hutson,Reginald Byron,2017-07-12 This title was first published in 2001 Isolated communities dependent upon fishing farming and forestry which are scattered around the North Atlantic coast have shared a disastrous decline during the last decade These communities are in the peripheries of advanced industrial nation states such as Canada and supra national alliances such as the European Community yet despite this there are no easy solutions to the development of these regions This volume argues that the productive assets of these regions and how they can be used to sustain household incomes need to be better understood The assets need to be converted into products and services and they need to be marketed profitably The diminishing flow of young people who leave these areas to obtain higher education and who do not return must be turned around and efforts must be concentrated on the creation or strengthening of economic conditions which satisfy the younger generation s employment aspirations consumer requirements and social needs An Introduction to Political Geography Martin Jones,Rhys Jones,Michael Woods,2004-03-01 An Introduction to Political Geography provides a broad based introduction to how power interacts with space how place influences political identities and how policy creates and remoulds territory By pushing back the boundaries of what we conventionally understand as political geography the book emphasizes the interactions between power politics and policy space place and territory in different geographical contexts This is both an essential text for political geographers and also a valuable resource for students of related fields with an interest in politics and geography Advances in Food Security and Sustainability David Barling,Jessica Fanzo,2019-10-04 Advances in Food Security and Sustainability Volume Four takes a scientific look at the challenges constraints and solutions necessary to maintain a healthy and accessible food supply in different communities This ongoing series addresses a wide range of issues on food sustainability and security with this release focusing on The Evolution of Food Security Policy in Lao PDR Continuity and Change in the Era of the Sustainable Development Goals Food System Resilience and Diversity A Pliable Pillar How the Social Dimension of Sustainability Has Been Framed in UK Public Food Policy and much more Contains expertise from leading contributions on the topics Covers a vast array of subjects relating to food security and sustainability Explores challenges related to protecting environmental resources while also meeting human nutritional requirements Partners in Production? Patricia O'Hara, 1998-06 Partners in Production breaks new ground as the first major study of Irish farm women. By bringing together debates about the future of family farming, feminist theories of women's work and the sociology of the family, O'Hara reveals the complex structure under which these women live. Based primarily on interviews, this book identifies the ways in which farm women both challenge and accommodate their apparent subordination, their unacknowledged influence on the evolution of family farming, their wider place in the social formation and ultimately how they view the circumstance of their own lives.

The Changing American Countryside Emery N. Castle, 1995 The literature on rural America to the extent that it exists has largely been written by urban based scholars perpetuating out of date notions and stereotypes or by those who see little difference between rural and agricultural concerns. As a result, the real rural America remains much misunderstood, neglected or ignored by scholars and policymakers alike. In response, Emery Castle offers The Changing American Countryside, a volume that will forever change how we look at this important subject. Castle brings together the writings of eminent scholars from several disciplines and varying backgrounds to take a fresh and comprehensive look at the forgotten hinterlands. These authors examine the role of non-metropolitan people and places in the economic life of our nation and cover such diverse issues as poverty, industry, the environment, education, family, social problems, ethnicity, race, religion, gender, government, public policy and regional diversity. The authors are especially effective in demonstrating why rural America is so much more than just agriculture. It is, in fact, highly diverse, complex and interdependent with urban America and the international marketplace. Most major rural problems they contend simply cannot be effectively addressed in isolation from their urban and international connections. To do so is misguided and even hazardous when one-fourth of our population and ninety-seven per cent of our land area is rural. Together, these writings not only provide a new and more realistic view of rural life and public policy but also suggest how the field of rural studies can greatly enrich our understanding of national life.

The Creation and Destruction of Social Capital Gunnar Lind Haase Svendsen, Gert Tinggaard Svendsen, 2004-01-01 The book offers a coherent historical and interdisciplinary perspective on social capital that is illustrated through the emergence and decline of cooperative movements in Denmark and Poland. The strength of the book lies in its ability to provide an interdisciplinary account of social capital which, unlike many neoclassical studies of social capital, does not attempt to quantify the concept to make it fit traditional econometric regressions.

City Dreams, Country Schemes Kathleen A. Brosnan, Amy L. Scott, 2013-10-11 The American West from the beginning of Euro-American settlement has been shaped by diverse ideas about how to utilize physical space and natural environments to create cohesive, sometimes exclusive, community identities. When westerners developed their towns, they constructed spaces and cultural identities that reflected alternative understandings of modern urbanity The essays in City Dreams Country Schemes utilize an interdisciplinary approach to explore the ways that westerners conceptualized built and inhabited urban suburban and exurban spaces in the twentieth century The contributors examine such topics as the attractions of open space and rural gentrification in shaping urban development the role of tourism in developing national parks historical sites and California s Napa Valley and the roles of public art gender and ethnicity in shaping urban centers City Dreams Country Schemes reveals the values and expectations that have shaped the West and the lives of the people who inhabit it Reconstituting Rurality

Jonathan Murdoch,Terry Marsden,2013-10-11 The second in the Restructuring Rural Areas series this work presents an examination of the way in which the rural and the concept of rurality is being reconstructed within urban regions It argues that the rural is not a fixed category but the outcome of political economic and socio cultural pressures These pressures are exacerbated in southeast England an area dominated by London and the patterns of growth associated with that city Through close analysis of key land development processes and a series of village studies the authors give a forceful demonstration of the way in which certain social groups are becoming increasingly influential in determining the material and social shape of rural areas in the United Kingdom The formation of class identity it is argued is closely bound up with the formation of certain local spaces class and space must be considered as combined elements in the development of rural locales To illustrate this the authors document in detail the means by which dominant groups represent themselves within the development process and show how the exclusion of certain kinds of development leads to the exclusion of certain social groups Investing in Place Sean Markey,Greg Halseth,Don Manson,2012-08-01 The future of northern British Columbia a vast resource rich region of vibrant cultures and diverse communities could be either driven by a narrow economic agenda or guided by innovative place based solutions that seek to build viable communities and resilient local and regional economies Investing in Place is about creating the foundations for renewing northern British Columbia s rural and small town economies Markey Halseth and Manson argue that renewal is not about nostalgic reliance on the policies and economic strategies of the past rather it is about building a pragmatic and innovative vision for development one that acknowledges both the opportunities and the challenges posed by resource development and global and technological change For policy makers and residents alike the path to renewal lies in place based development which consists of people working together at all levels of the community and region to take advantage of local opportunities in a sustainable responsible way

Cross-Continental Agro-Food Chains Niels Fold,Bill Pritchard,2005-04-25 Filling a gap in contemporary food and globalization scholarship this timely book presents recent case study research on the globalization of food systems and the impacts for communities around the world It covers debates on new structures and food products as well as detailed accounts of fresh horticulture tropical crops and livestock Drawing together contributions of twenty six leading international social scientists from eleven countries this book will interest researchers in geography development studies agricultural economics and political science as well as professionals in the fields of trade and food policy
