Rural Images David Buisseret, 1996-07 But these hand drawn maps often displaying elaborate cartouches and elegant coats of arms served as far more than mere records of property ownership they were treasured works of art exhibited for pleasure and as symbols of wealth and passed down from generation to generation

The Cartographic Imagination in Early Modern England D.K. Smith, 2016-04-01 Working from a cultural studies perspective author D K Smith here examines a broad range of medieval and Renaissance maps and literary texts to explore the effects of geography on Tudor Stuart cultural perceptions He argues that the literary representation of cartographically related material from the late fifteenth to the early seventeenth century demonstrates a new strain not just of geographical understanding but of cartographic manipulation which he terms the cartographic imagination Rather than considering the effects of maps themselves on early modern epistemologies Smith considers the effects of the activity of mapping the new techniques the new expectations of accuracy and precision which developed in the sixteenth century on the ways people thought and wrote Looking at works by Spenser Marlowe Raleigh and Marvell among other authors he analyzes how the growing ability to represent physical space accurately brought with it not just a wealth of new maps but a new array of rhetorical techniques metaphors and associations which allowed the manipulation of texts and ideas in ways never before possible

Literature, Mapping, and the Politics of Space in Early Modern Britain Andrew Gordon, Bernhard Klein, 2001-08-16 In this timely collection an international team of Renaissance scholars analyzes the material practice behind the concept of mapping a particular cognitive mode of gaining control over the world Ranging widely across visual and textual artifacts implicated in the culture of mapping from the literature of Shakespeare Spenser Marlowe and Jonson to representations of body city nation and empire Literature Mapping and the Politics of Space in Early Modern Britain argues for a thorough reevaluation of the impact of cartography on the shaping of social and political identities in early modern Britain

Spatial Imaginings in the Age of Colonial Cartographic Reason Nilanjana Mukherjee, 2020-05-18 This volume explores how India as a geographical space was constructed by the British colonial regime in visual and material terms It demonstrates the instrumentalisation of cultural artefacts such as landscape paintings travel literature and cartography as spatial practices overtly carrying scientific truth claims to materially produce artificial spaces that reinforced power relations It sheds light on the primary dominance of cartographic reason in the age of European Enlightenment which framed aesthetic and scientific modes of representation and imagination The author cross examines this imperial gaze as a visual perspective which bore the material inscriptions of a will to assert possess and control The distinguishing theme in this study is the production of India as a new geography sourced from Britain's own interaction with its rural outskirts and domination in its fringes This book Addresses the concept of production of space to study the formulation of a colonial geography which resulted in the birth of a new place later a nation Investigates a generative period in the formation of British India c 1750 1850 as a colonial territory vis vis its representation and reiteration in British maps landscape paintings and travel writings Brings Great Britain and British India together on one plane not only in terms of the physical geo spaces but also in the excavation of critical domains by alluding to critics from both spaces Seeks to understand the pictorial grammar that legitimised the expansive British imperial cartographic gaze as the dominant narrative which marginalised all other existing local ideas of space and inhabitation Rethinking colonial constructions of modern India this volume will be of immense interest to scholars and researchers of modern history cultural geography colonial studies English literature cultural studies art visual studies and area studies

The Memory of the People Andy Wood,2013-08-15 The Memory of the People is a major study of popular memory in the early modern period

The Mapmakers' Quest David Buisseret,2003-05-22 In 1400 Europe was behind large parts of the world in its understanding of the use of maps For instance the people of China and of Japan were considerably more advanced in this respect And yet by 1600 the Europeans had come to use maps for a huge variety of tasks and were far ahead of the rest of the world in their appreciation of the power and use of cartography The Mapmakers Quest seeks to understand this development not only to tease out the strands of thought and practice which led to the use of maps but also to assess the ways in which such use affected European societies and economies Taking as a starting point the question of why there were so few maps in Europe in 1400 and so many by 1650 the book explores the reasons for this and its implications for European history It examines inter al how mapping and military technology advanced in tandem how modern states territories were mapped and borders drawn up the role of maps in shaping the urban environment and cartography's links to the new sciences

Writing, Geometry and Space in Seventeenth-Century England and America Jess Edwards,2018-12-07 The early modern map has come to mark the threshold of modernity cutting through the layered customs of Medieval parochialism with its clean expansive geometries Re thinking the role played by mathematics and cartography in the English seventeenth century this book argues that the cultural currency of mathematics was as unstable in the period as that of England's controversial enclosures and plantations Reviewing evidence from a wide range of literary and scientific courtly and pragmatic texts Edwards suggests that its unstable currency rendered mathematics necessarily rhetorical subject to constant re negotiation Yet he also finds a powerful flexibility in this weakness Mathematized texts from masques to maps negotiated a contemporary ambivalence between Calvinist asceticism and humanist engagement Their authors promoted themselves as artful guides between virtue and profit the study and the marketplace This multi disciplinary work will be of interest to all disciplines affected by the recent spatial turn in early modern cultural studies and particularly to students and researchers in literature history and geography

Remembering, Forgetting and City Builders Dr Haim Yacobi,Dr Tovi Fenster,2012-11-28 Remembering Forgetting and City Builders critically explores how urban spaces are designed planned and experienced in relation to the politics of collective and personal memory construction Bringing together case studies from North America South Asia Eastern Europe and the Middle East the book analyzes how contested national ethnic and cultural sentiments clash in planning and experiencing urban spaces Going beyond the claim that such situations exist in many parts of the world because communities construct their past memories within their current daily life and future aspirations the book explores how the very acts of planning and urban design are rooted in the existing structures of hegemonic power With contributors from the fields of architecture geography planning anthropology and sociology urban studies and cultural studies the book provides a rich interdisciplinary view into the conflicts over memory and belonging which are spatially expressed and mediated through the official planning apparatus

Urban Poetics in the French Renaissance Elisabeth Hodges, 2016-12-05 The city view forms the jumping off point for this innovative study which explores how the concept of the city relates to the idea of the self in early modern French narratives At a time when print culture cartography and literature emerged and developed together the city view a picture or topographic image of a city became one of the most distinctive and popular products of the early modern period Through a construct she calls urban poetics Elisabeth Hodges draws out the relationship between the city and the self showing the impact of the city in cultural production to be so profound that it cannot be extricated from what we know by the name of subjectivity Each chapter of the book brings focus to a crucial text that features descriptions of the self in the city by the writers Villon Corrozet Scève and Montaigne and investigate how representations of urban experience prepared the way for the emergence of the autonomous subject Charting a course between cartography literary studies and cultural history this study opens new vistas on some of the period's defining problems the book the subject the city

Mapping Latin America Jordana Dym, Karl Offen, 2011-12-01 For many a map is nothing more than a tool used to determine the location or distribution of something a country a city or a natural resource But maps reveal much more to really read a map means to examine what it shows and what it doesn't and to ask who made it why and for whom The contributors to this new volume ask these sorts of questions about maps of Latin America and in doing so illuminate the ways cartography has helped to shape this region from the Rio Grande to Patagonia In Mapping Latin America Jordana Dym and Karl Offen bring together scholars from a wide range of disciplines to examine and interpret more than five centuries of Latin American maps Individual chapters take on maps of every size and scale and from a wide variety of mapmakers from the hand drawn maps of Native Americans to those by famed explorers such as Alexander von Humboldt to those produced in today's newspapers and magazines for the general public The maps collected here and the interpretations that accompany them provide an excellent source to help readers better understand how Latin American countries regions provinces and municipalities came to be defined measured organized occupied settled disputed and understood that is how they came to have specific meanings to specific people at specific moments in time The first book to deal with the broad sweep of mapping activities across Latin America this lavishly illustrated volume will be required reading for students and scholars of geography and Latin American history and anyone interested in understanding the significance of maps in human cultures and societies Cartographies of Tsardom Valerie Ann Kivelson, 2006 By studying 17th century maps Kivelson sheds light on Muscovite Russia the relationship of state and society the growth of an empire the rise of serfdom and the place of Orthodox Christianity in society OCLC Volume XV: 1997-1999 Peter Denley, 2000-04-13 Volume XV of History of Universities contains the customary mix of learned articles book reviews conference reports and bibliographical information which makes this publication such an indispensable tool for the historian of higher education Its contributions range widely geographically chronologically and in subject matter The volume is as always a lively combination of original research and invaluable reference material Decolonizing the Map James R. Akerman, 2017-06-16 Almost universally newly independent states make the production of new maps and atlases affirming their independence and identity a top priority but the processes and practices by which previously colonized peoples become more engaged or re engaged in mapping their own territories are rarely straightforward This collection explores the relationship between mapping and decolonization while engaging recent theoretical debates about the nature of decolonization itself The essays originally delivered as the 2010 Kenneth Nebenzahl Jr Lectures in the History of Cartography at the Newberry Library encompass more than two centuries from the late eighteenth through the twentieth and three continents Latin America Africa and Asia Topics range from mapping and national identity in late colonial Mexico to the enduring crisis created by the partition of British India and the persistence of racial prejudices and the racialized organization of space in apartheid and postapartheid South Africa The Imperial Map James R. Akerman, 2009-03 Maps from virtually every culture and period convey our tendency to see our communities as the centre of the world if not the universe and by implication as superior to anything beyond our boundaries This study examines how cartography has been used to prop up a variety of imperialist enterprises

Curiosities and Texts Marjorie Swann, 2010-11-24 A craze for collecting swept England during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries Aristocrats and middling sort men alike crammed their homes full of a bewildering variety of physical objects antique coins scientific instruments minerals mummified corpses zoological specimens plants ethnographic objects from Asia and the Americas statues portraits Why were these bizarre jumbles of artifacts so popular In Curiosities and Texts Marjorie Swann demonstrates that collections of physical objects were central to early modern English literature and culture Swann examines the famous collection of rarities assembled by the Tradescant family the development of English natural history narrative catalogs of English landscape features that began to appear in the Tudor and Stuart periods the writings of Ben Jonson and Robert Herrick and the foundation of the British Museum Through this wide ranging series of case studies Swann addresses two important questions How was the collection which was understood as a form of cultural capital appropriated in early modern England to construct new social selves and modes of subjectivity And how did literary texts both as material objects and as vehicles of representation participate in the process of negotiating the cultural significance of collectors and collecting Crafting her unique argument with a balance of detail and insight Swann sheds new light on material culture s relationship to literature social authority and personal identity Envisioning the City David Buisseret, 1998-07-06 Editor s Note Introduction by David Buisseret 1 Mapping the Chinese City The Image and the Reality Nancy Shatzman Steinhardt 2 Mapping the City Ptolemy s Geography in the Renaissance Naomi Miller 3 Urbs and Civitas in Sixteenth and Seventeenth Century Spain Richard L Kagan 4 Military Architecture and Cartography in the Design of the Early Modern City Martha Pollak 5 Modeling Cities in Early Modern Europe David Buisseret 6 The Plan of Chicago by Daniel H Burnham and Edward H Bennett Cartographic and Historical Perspectives Gerald A Danzer Contributors Index Copyright Libri GmbH All rights reserved
